This volume is the second and final part of Accounts of an Occupied City. The first, published in Stockholm in 2005, covered the 143 books of the Novgorod Occupation Archives. The present volume describes the 376 rolls included in the Archives. The rolls are considerably more heterogeneous in subject matter, making this part of the catalogue much larger than the first, despite the fact that it covers a mere 7,000 leaves, compared with the roughly 25,000 pages dealt with in the first volume.

For an introduction to the Novgorod Occupation Archives and the catalogue project as a whole, readers are referred to the opening chapters of the first part of the catalogue.

This second volume differs from the first in that, on account of the large number of documents making up Series II of the Archives, the entries do not include illustrative extracts from the original texts. Instead, transcripts of documents relating to three entire items of business appear as an appendix. To facilitate the use of the catalogue, a number of indexes are provided at the end of the book. With the exception of the index of content headings, these refer to both parts of the catalogue.

The Novgorod Occupation Archives are held at the National Archives of Sweden in Stockholm. The original documents are also available in their entirety on the website of SVAR (Swedish Archive Information, a department of the National Archives), at http://www.svar.ra.se

The publication of this Catalogue of the Novgorod Occupation Archives has been made possible by financial support from a number of institutions, foundations and funds. The work has been undertaken at the National Archives of Sweden, which has provided accommodation and expert assistance on an ongoing basis. A great many individuals have been involved in various ways in the process: staff at the National Archives and representatives of academic institutions in Sweden and Russia. Without their interest and dedication, the preparation of this catalogue would not have been possible. For all the generous funding made available, and for the hard work and commitment of colleagues and interested parties, the editors wish to express their heartfelt gratitude. In our work on the second part of the catalogue, the assistance of Dr Anatolij Turilov and Dr Adrian Selin has been invaluable. We would also like to extend special thanks to Martin Naylor who, with his careful attention to detail, has been as much a contributor as a translator.

The figures given are somewhat arbitrary, as it is difficult to establish clear dividing lines between documents of different types. The table does, though, indicate the proportions of the different categories. It should be noted that many of the headings in the table include several types of documents (petitions, decisions, reports, instructions etc.).

Notes

1. This heading comprises petitions whose subject matter is such that they cannot be placed under other headings, e.g. “Grants of land” or “Requisitions”. Documents associated with these petitions, such as decisions and instructions, are also included.

   One of the documents assigned to this heading is roll no. 351 – the largest roll in the Archives, with 573 sheets – which consists for the most part of petitions and documents arising from them.

2. The commonest criminal offences are cheating in conjunction with grain levies, and smuggling.

3. This heading includes revenue from public institutions such as the public saunas, the court, the custom house, the crown gardens etc. Expenditure includes, among other things, wages paid in cash. (Documents recording revenue from alcoholic beverages are included under a separate heading, no. 5.)

4. Only documents from the Occupation Archives are included here (i.e. not those to be found in Extranea or Krigshistoriska handlingar).
Overview of the “Solov’ev documents”
in St Petersburg

Between 1837 and 1848, Professor S. V. Solov’ev of Helsinki University supplied the Archaeographical Commission in St Petersburg with around 800 different documents, which he had collected during a series of study visits to Swedish archives and libraries. Most of them are in Russian, although Swedish and other languages are also represented. These documents are now held in the Archives of the St Petersburg Branch of the Institute of Russian History (Archiv Sankt-Peterburgskogo Filiala Instituta Rossijskoj istorii RAN – formerly Archiv LOII). (For further details, see Part 1 of the present catalogue, p. 19.) A good number of the documents Solov’ev collected clearly originate from the Novgorod Occupation Archives. They are now to be found in various collections in the St Petersburg Archives (Collections 114, 115, 124, 174 and 238), scattered among documents from other sources. Most of the material from the Occupation Archives is included in Collection 124.

A review of the catalogues of the five collections mentioned, prepared at the Institute of Russian History, reveals that three books now incorporated in those collections can be referred to Series I of the Occupation Archives, and around 200 sheets to Series II.

From Series I
1. Deeds of sale relating to shops in Novgorod the Great. 1613. 40 pages. (Collection 124.)
2. Harvest and threshing book, inter alia from estates once belonging to “traitors” to Grand Prince Karl Filip. Vodskaja and Oboneżskaja pjatiny. 1614. (Number of pages not given.) (Collection 115.)
3. Cadastre (pisovaja kniga) for Duderovskoj and Ižerskoj pogost, Vodskaja pjatina. 1614. 26 pages. (Collection 124.)

From Series II (Collections 124, 174 and 238)
The approximately 200 sheets from Series II deal with around 150 different items of business. The great majority of these rolls consist of a single sheet, and none of them exceeds 18 sheets in length.

Below is an overview of the same kind, and with the same caveats, as that on p. 14 of this book. Once again, the figures given are somewhat arbitrary, as it is difficult to establish clear dividing lines between documents of different types. The table does, though, indicate the categories represented and the proportions between them.

The largest category consists of documents on sowing and harvesting, requisitions of grain, money, vehicles etc. This is not surprising, given that such texts make up a very significant share of the Occupation Archives. More remarkable is the relatively large number of documents dealing with elections of sworn men and starosty. Such material is almost entirely absent from the Archives, indicating that Solov’ev must have singled it out for attention. He showed far less interest, on the other hand, in documents concerning grants of land, which are of course extremely numerous in the Occupation Archives. It may be noted that, as far as such texts were concerned, Solov’ev’s interest was confined almost exclusively to the estates of Ivan Odoevskij and the special terms that applied to him. Most of the documents under “Criminal proceedings” relate to plundering of the English envoy John Merrick and his embassy in the summer of 1616.

In addition to the material outlined above, there are three documents with no direct counterparts in the Occupation Archives, but which could possibly derive from that source. More probably, though, they come from some other collection in the National Archives of Sweden. Nonetheless, it may be of interest in this context to draw attention to their existence:

1. Decision by Isidor, Metropolitan of Novgorod, Prince Ivan Nikitič Bol’šoj Odoevskij and others to send a delegation to Viborg to offer the throne of Novgorod to Prince Karl Filip. Seals of the Metropolitan and Novgorod the Great. 27 July 1613. (No. 542 in Kurdjumov 1923.)
2. Letter from Jakob De la Gardie to Ivan Odoevskij, on his way to Rugodiv to meet King Gustav Adolf. He promises to represent Odoevskij’s interests before the King. 10 August 1614. (No. 559 in Kurdjumov 1923.)

3. Evert Horn’s appeal to Metropolitan Isidor, Ivan Odoevskij and all the people of Novgorod the Great, urging them to defend Novgorod and lend military support to King Gustav Adolf. 27 May 1615. (No. 647 in Kurdjumov 1923.)

It cannot be ruled out that further documents from the Occupation Archives may exist in other collections in the Archives of the Institute of Russian History, but, if they do, the number of sheets involved must be limited.

Short biographies

Jakob De la Gardie

Jakob De la Gardie was born in Reval in 1583. His father Pontus De la Gardie, a French mercenary officer who had entered the service of the Swedish Crown, was Governor of Estonia. During the reign of Johan (John) III, he successfully commanded Sweden’s military operations on the border with Russia. He died in a drowning accident in the river Narva when Jakob was 2 years old. Jakob’s mother, Sofia Johansdotter, was the illegitimate but acknowledged daughter of Johan III, and the orphaned Jakob was subsequently brought up at the court of his maternal grandfather. In 1601 Jakob De la Gardie embarked on a military career, fighting in the war in Livonia. He was taken prisoner by the Poles, but managed to buy his freedom. He then trained as an officer in the Netherlands, and on his return to Sweden in 1608 was appointed commander of the relief force which Karl (Charles) IX intended to send into Russia in support of Tsar Vasiliy Šujskij. On 12 April 1609 the parties signed a treaty in Viborg, and shortly afterwards the Swedes crossed the border. Until June 1610, Swedish troops under De la Gardie and Russian troops loyal to the Tsar fought side by side, but following their defeat at the hands of the Poles at Kljušino, Sweden’s military assistance turned into a war of aggression that culminated in the storming of Novgorod on 16 July 1611. This marked the start of the six-year-long occupation.

Jakob De la Gardie was appointed Governor (voevoda), with the Russian Governor Ivan Nikitič Bolšoj Odoevskij at his side. During the winter of 1615, however, the King granted him leave to attend to his affairs in Sweden. In his absence, his place in Novgorod was taken by Evert Horn. De la Gardie returned to Russia in June 1615, but now his chief responsibility was to take part in the increasingly intense peace negotiations.

When the peace of Stolbova was finally concluded, in 1617, De la Gardie was 34 years old. For the rest of his life he would be a leading figure in Sweden. A member of the Council since 1613 and a count since 1615, in 1620 he was appointed Lord High Constable (riksmarsk). He emerged from the Russian war as one of Sweden’s richest men, founding his fortune on the large quantities of sable skins he had had sent home during the early years of the conflict. In due course, the Crown rewarded him for his achievements with significant estates in Sweden, Finland and Estonia. He had a keen business sense and was a private entrepreneur on a large scale.

In 1618 he married Ebba Brahe, former sweetheart of the young King Gustav Adolf. De la Gardie had fourteen children with her, the most prominent of whom was Magnus Gabriel. The latter would hold several of the highest offices of state, as well as becoming one of the most brilliant cultural figures of the seventeenth century.
From 1619, De la Gardie was Governor in Reval and took part in the border negotiations with Russia. Three years later he was made Governor General of Livonia. During his time in the Baltic states, he was also involved in a good many military operations. From 1628 he lived mainly in Sweden, and after the death of King Gustav II Adolf in 1632 he was a member of the regency for Queen Kristina (Christina).

As a politician, De la Gardie was cautious and pragmatic. In the Council, he enjoyed considerable authority on account of his wide-ranging experience. In the 1640s he became somewhat less active owing to an eye condition that eventually left him blind, but he continued to attend Council meetings. His experiences in Novgorod had made a deep impression on him. As Svenskt biografiskt lexikon eloquently puts it: “The varied and exciting events of the war, the almost proconsular authority he had exercised on account of the distance from Sweden, the romantic glow over the whole war meant that, in his old age, De la Gardie was apt to return in his thoughts to this phase in his life; a fact to which the records of the Council bear frequent testimony.”

Evert Horn

Evert Horn was born at Hapsal (Haapsalu) Castle in present-day Estonia in 1585. He came from an ancient noble family of Finland, and carried the Finnish flag at the coronation of Karl IX in 1607. Horn was one of the captain-generals of Jakob De la Gardie when, in an alliance with Tsar Vasilij Šujskij, he crossed the Russian border at Viborg in April 1609 to help Russia ward off the threat from Poland. When Novgorod was stormed on 16 July 1611, Horn commanded the cavalry column that was the first to enter its gates. While De la Gardie remained in the city, he led the military operations in the surrounding area.

Horn was appointed Governor of Narva and Ivangorod in 1613 and Field Marshal in 1614. During De la Gardie’s absence in the winter of 1614/15, he was commander-in-chief of the entire Swedish army.

He also made every effort at this time to secure the annexation of Novgorod to Sweden. As De la Gardie’s deputy, he was an active member of the commission that negotiated with the Estates in Moscow.

Horn had received a cultivated education and was a learned man by the standards of his day. Like his father and his brothers he chose a soldier’s career, and his military achievements during the Russian campaign were significant. His understanding of the art of strategic and offensive warfare was considered innovative. But it is also said that he took care to ensure that prisoners of war, especially women and children, were as far as possible spared the excesses of violence that occurred during military action.

Horn was De la Gardie’s deputy both in military matters and in the civilian administration of Novgorod during the occupation. Many documents in the Archives are addressed to him, and many bear his seal.

Evert Horn was Jakob De la Gardie’s right-hand man and friend. It is said that he was always at De la Gardie’s side in times of danger. Both men were held in high esteem by Gustav II Adolf, who wrote in a letter after the battle of Bronnicy: “I am more concerned for your persons than for the whole of Novgorod the Great.”

Horn had repeatedly attempted to capture the heavily fortified town of Pskov, but in vain. In the skirmish that arose with Russian Cossacks in the siege of the town in July 1615, Evert Horn was killed at the head of his company of cavalry. The tragedy was not unexpected. In connection with an earlier attack on Pskov, De la Gardie had already warned him about his boldness.

Evert Horn and his wife Margareta Fincke are buried in Åbo (Turku) Cathedral.

Måns Mårtensson Palm

It was with the help of “His Majesty’s Secretary” Måns Mårtensson Palm, sent out to Novgorod, that an agreement on Swedish military assistance to Tsar Vasilij Šujskij was reached in November 1608. Palm was secretary at Narva Castle at the time, and in 1611 he became field secretary to Jacob De la Gardie. During the occupation he also served as the head of the Swedish administration in Novgorod. In that capacity he was involved in the government of the city alongside De la Gardie and the Russian Governor Ivan Odoevskij. His position brought with it political influence, and among other things he pursued the question of Novgorod’s annexation to Sweden. He was one of the Swedish negotiators in the peace talks with Russia and one of the signatories of the treaty of Stolbova in 1617.

In his day-to-day work in the city, however, administrative duties of every kind occupied his time. In the documents, he figures as the person responsible for the accounts of the “Crown treasury”. Together with Odoevskij and De la Gardie, or acting alone, he ordered inspections of areas ravaged by war, issued instructions to requisition grain and other provisions for the Crown, and ordered investigations of crimes, purchases of coins to be melted down at the Mint etc. He can be said to have had the same functions and powers as a Russian d’jak, i.e. a civil servant of the highest rank.

During his years in Novgorod, he was rewarded for his service with large grants of land. Following the conclusion of the peace, he was made district judge (häradshövding) of the county of Kexholm. Later positions included those of quartermaster-general (kriegskommissarie) in Riga from 1626 and associate judge of the Royal Court of Military Appeals (Kungliga krigsrätten) from 1630. He ended his career as district judge of Värmland in 1635.

In 1628 he married Ebba Wildeman, the daughter of Arvid Tönnesson Wildeman, another signatory of the peace of Stolbova.

Måns Mårtensson was born in Stockholm in 1572 and died there in 1641. He was ennobled, taking the name Palm, in 1615.

Ivan Nikitič Bolšoj Odoevskij

Prince Ivan Odoevskij belonged to one of Russia’s oldest families, a family that still exists and that claims Rurik as its earliest ancestor. Before his appointment as voevoda (Governor) of Novgorod in 1610, Odoevskij had been in the service of four tsars in Moscow. The first was Fedor Ioannovič, whom he had served, among other things, as cupbearer at great banquets. Following Fedor’s death in 1598, he was a member of the assembly that elected Boris Godunov as tsar. Later he was present at the weddings of both the first False Dmitrij (1606) and Tsar Vasilij Šujskij (1608). He also participated in various military campaigns – in 1590 in the war against Sweden and later in clashes with the Crimean Tatars, who threatened Moscow on several occasions.

From 1610, when he became voevoda of Novgorod, he played a prominent role in the city. Before the assault by the Swedes, he attempted, in a polemical exchange with De la Gardie, to avert the Swedish threat. Once Novgorod had fallen in July 1611, however, it was Odoevskij, together with De la Gardie (in 1615 Evert Horn), who represented the highest political, legal and military power in the city. To secure his loyalty, in 1611 the Swedes granted him an entire pogost, Slavjatinskoj pogost. Although Ivan Odoevskij’s name appears in virtually every document in the Occupation Archives, very little is known about his political activities and to what extent he attempted to pursue an independent political line. It is not even known where he stood in the conflict between the Swedish occupiers and the citizens of Novgorod in 1614–15, when Evert Horn brought heavy pressure to bear to persuade them to swear an oath of allegiance to King Gustav Adolf (cf. Part 1, p. 51). This would in practice have entailed the incorporation of Novgorod under the Swedish Crown. The Novgorodians resisted by claiming that they stood unswervingly by their old oath to Karl Filip. Some contemporary sources, however, suggest that Odoevskij was a supporter of the new tsar Michail Romanov.

Ivan Odoevskij was married to the Princess Agaf'ja Ignat'evna Tatiščeva, who was thus connected with two of the voevody of Novgorod. She was the sister of Michail Ignat'evič Tatiščev, voevoda of Novgorod from 1608 to 1609. That year Tatiščev was killed by a mob who suspected him – probably without foundation – of treachery against Tsar Vasilij Šujskij.

Odoevskij seems to have enjoyed the confidence of the population throughout; at all events, there are no documents to suggest otherwise. Sadly, he did not live to see the end of the occupation, dying in March 1616, almost exactly a year before the peace of Stolbova was concluded.

The Russian chancelleries and the d’jaki

A d’jak was a high-ranking secretary, generally in charge of a chancellery (prikaz). Smaller chancelleries, however, could be headed by an under-secretary (pod’jačij). During the Swedish occupation, the following chancelleries existed in Novgorod:

The Dvorcovoj prikaz (literally, “Court Chancellery”). This was the most important of the chancelleries, in charge of the largest revenues. It administered the vast areas that belonged to the Crown: arable land and meadows, fishing waters, forests etc., and the peasants living there. The authorities constantly had to apply to the Dvorcovoj prikaz to obtain funds for their various undertakings.

The Pomestnoj prikaz (“Chancellery of Landed Estates”). This chancellery held all the information about areas of land that could be allocated to individual landowners, and it was here that orders to parcel out land were issued.

The Rozrjad (“Ranks”) gathered all the information needed to confirm the rights of individual noblemen to be allocated given areas of land.

The Prikaz Bol’sogo prichoda (“Chancellery of Great Revenues”) was responsible for revenues from areas not under the Crown. During the Swedish occupation this chancellery gradually diminished in importance.

The Sudnoj prikaz (“Judgment Chancellery”) was responsible for the administration of justice.

The Jamskoj prikaz (“Chancellery of Postal Couriers”), which was very small during the occupation, was responsible for communications.

During the years 1611–17, the Novgorod chancelleries operated entirely according to Muscovite principles. No specifically Novgorodian features can be discerned.
D’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev

Pjatoj Grigor’ev presumably did not arrive in Novgorod until after the city had been taken by the Swedes in July 1611. From autumn 1612 until spring 1616 he headed the Dvorcovoj prikaz, his skill as an administrator greatly improving its efficiency. Since the Dvorcovoj prikaz was the most important of the chancelleries, Grigor’ev played a key role in Novgorodian society.

Pjatoj Grigor’ev had been an under-secretary in the administration of Tsar Vasilij Šujskij in Moscow. In November 1609 he was sent from Moscow to Stockholm as a member of the Russian delegation charged with negotiating Swedish support for Šujskij’s regime. Six years later he complains in a letter to Moscow about the two harrowing years he had spent in Sweden, and of having been forced to swear an oath of allegiance to Prince Karl Filip. When, in 1614, the Swedes began pressurizing the Novgorodians to swear a new oath to King Gustav Adolf, he refused to do so. As a supporter of Tsar Michail Romanov, he was compelled to pay substantial extraordinary taxes.

From the summer of 1616, his duties at the Dvorcovoj prikaz were discharged by under-secretary Grigorej Sobakin, one of the Swedes’ most reliable collaborators.

Following the peace of Stolbova, Pjatoj Grigor’ev was appointed d’jak first in Svijažsk and later in Kostromskaja čet’.

D’jak Semen Lutochin

Semen Lutochin was born in the Novgorod area, and his appointment as d’jak was a departure from a tradition whereby senior officials were sent to Novgorod from Moscow. He was granted an estate in Pirkinskoj pogost as early as 1579. As a d’jak he became one of the wealthier inhabitants of Novgorod, and he had a large household – judging from a petition submitted in 1614, it comprised no fewer than 40 people.

After Pjatoj Grigor’ev, Lutochin was the most powerful man in the Novgorod chancelleries – saving Måns Mårtensson Palm of course, who in the name of the Swedish Crown controlled the whole of the state administration.

Lutochin headed the Dvorcovoj prikaz in 1611–12, but was then transferred to the Rozryad and the Pomestnoj prikaz (which in a way formed a single entity). Like Pjatoj Grigor’ev, he did not want to see Novgorod annexed to Sweden, and was a supporter of Tsar Michail Romanov, and like Grigor’ev he was required to pay large sums in extraordinary taxes. He retained his position as d’jak until the end of spring 1616.

After the peace of Stolbova, Semen Lutochin was appointed as a d’jak in Pskov and subsequently as voevoda of Toržok.
D’jak Ondrej Lyscov

Ondrej Lyscov, like Semen Lutochin, was born in the Novgorod area. He is first mentioned as an under-secretary in Novgorod in a document from 1603/04. From 1612 he served as d’jak at the Pomestnoj prikaz. He died some time in April–June 1613.

D’jak Ivan Timofeev

Ivan Timofeev served as a d’jak in Novgorod in 1606/07 and 1610–11. He did not head any of the chancelleries during the Swedish occupation, but was in the city throughout the period. He is of particular interest as the possible author of the philosophical and historical work Vremennik.

In August 1613 Timofeev was commissioned to audit the accounts of the Dvorcovoj prikaz and the Pomestnoj prikaz. This led in 1615 to an open conflict with Pjatoj Grigor’ev, involving mutual accusations of theft.

In the early autumn of 1614, he joined the other d’jaki in supporting the Novgorodians’ petition to Gustav Adolf, in which they asked to be spared having to swear an oath of allegiance to the King, claiming that they stood by their old oath to Prince Karl Filip.

Following the peace of Stolbova, Ivan Timofeev held high positions in the administration of Astrachan’, Moscow, Jaroslavl’ and Nižnij Novgorod. He died around 1630.

Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Michalka Ondreev syn Obutkov of Derevskaja pjatina. His salary has been set at 400 četi and he has 250 četi from his father’s estate. He applies for land from the estate of Osip Oleksandrov syn Maslenickoj in Ksockoj pogost. The latter died some ten years ago leaving no family, whereupon the estate went to his brother Ondrej, who died five years ago, leaving a wife.

Extract from Prince Michail Katyrev Rostovskoj’s service rolls for 1603/06 concerning Michail Obutkov’s salary. Extract from the books sent to Moscow in 1603/04. Extract from Dmitrej Zamyckoj’s cadastres (piscovye knigi) from 1581/82. The information given is attested by Kostja Petrov.

Decision of the boyars, dated October 1612 (no day of month). From Ondrej Maslenickoj’s estate, his widow and son are granted 50 četi for their support and Michalka Obutkov is granted 50 četi. The widow and Obutkov are to divide the estate between them. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great.
Instructions to nesluživoj Ignatej Kulkov in Derevskaja pjatina to carry out the order. Draft.

On 6 January Ondrej Maslenickoj’s widow Ul’jana handed in a petition to the boyars. Since her husband’s death she has been alone with her mother-in-law and her two children, and has continued to live on the estate. She is fulfilling all her obligations. Now Michail Obutkov is trying to drive her away. What is more, he will not let her have any share of the harvest. She now wants a dower estate, so as not to die of starvation.

Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Michalka Obutkov. He has been granted land from Osip Maslenickoj’s estate. Ondrej Maslenickoj’s widow and her son Elisej remain on the estate although they have not been granted it, and are not fulfilling their obligations. She has received 50 četi as dower land, but has now applied for land from the estate of her brother-in-law Osip. Her petition is untruthful, as she has no claim to this land.

The response to these petitions is missing.

The widow Ovdotica has a dower estate of 100 ėti, and her brother-in-law wants to take over this land until she marries, enters a convent or dies.

Extract from Ivan Odoevskij’s land grant books for 1611 concerning Ivanko Vatazin’s holding of land. That year he received 100 ėti from the estate of Boris Beleutov in Bologovskoj pogost, on condition that he supported the latter’s widow, who was his own mother-in-law, until her death.

Summary
1. Reports, investigation records, decrees, a draft letter and other documents relating to illicit trade with Pskov.

In accordance with instructions from the boyars to Prince Vasilej Belosel'skoj and Stepan Timašev to conduct an investigation, reports and surety bonds were sent to Novgorod the Great on 13 January 1613. The investigation revealed that residents of Pskov had come to a number of pogosts in the Porchov and Starorusskoj districts to trade, and that the peasants there had secretly engaged in trade with them. In Dolžinskoj pogost, however, the priest Il'ja Grigor'ev, starosty and others testified that the Pskovians had not come to them to trade. The peasants gave conflicting testimony, and it was claimed that the voevoda of Porchov himself, Prince Ivan Meščerskoj, had been aware of and permitted this trade. The residents of Pskov who were found in the pogosts were imprisoned and their goods seized. These included furs (fox, marten, squirrel and ermine), damask, taffeta, woollen cloth, flax, hemp and shoes.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided in April 1613 to sentence seven residents of Pskov and six local representatives of Porchov and Staraja Russa to be flogged with the knout for illicit trade with Pskov. In addition, it was to be proclaimed in Porchov that trade with Pskov was strictly prohibited.

Instructions on the execution of the decision (draft).
Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great (sheet 55).
Correspondence concerning the sale of the goods seized. An annotation dated September 1613 shows that De la Gardie took charge of fox skins that had been confiscated from the peasants.

2. Later part of a land grant application initiated by petitions (not included) from Ivan Matfeev syn Votazin and the widow Ovdot’ja, both of whom apply for the estates of Fedot Votazin.

In land grant books from 1609/10, Grigorej Votazin’s estates are recorded as belonging to his nephew Fedot Votazin.

Extracts from neslužiloj Aleksej Aisin’s land parcelling books from 1606/07 concerning Grigorej Votazin’s estates in Bologovskoj pogost and from neslužiloj Posnik Skobeev’s land parcelling books from 1610/11 concerning Fedot Votazin’s estates in the same pogost.

On examination, Ivan Votazin said that his brother Fedot had been killed by Lithuanian soldiers, leaving a widow, Ovdot’ja, who is expecting a child.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to grant the widow Ovdotia 100 ćeti and the brother Ivan 125 ćeti of Fedot Votazin’s estates.

Notes
Dmitrievsky provides a great deal of information about the individuals mentioned in this roll. Jakov Dubrovskoj became voevoda of Temnikov in 1615. Ivan Vypovskoj, Petr Licharev, Siman Blaženkov and Ivan Kosickoj were neighbours, all living in the vicinity of Pskov. Presumably they were suspected of being enemies of the Swedes.

Prince Mikifor Mešcerskoj was regarded by the Swedes as one of the leaders of the resistance.

Summary
Jakuš Bogdanov syn Borkov of Vodskaja pjatina applies to Grand Prince Karl Filip for Stepan Mitkov’s estate in Klimeckoj pogost, as he is 150 četi short of his salary. Mitkov was killed by Lithuanian soldiers at Tóržok, where he was serving under De la Gardie and Michail Vasil’evič Šujskij. Mitkov left a widow, Marfa, and a daughter, Vasiliska, but his widow died in 1614.

Under-secretary Kostja Chamantov applies to Grand Prince Karl Filip for the estate of the deceased widow Marfa, with an area of 42 četi, as part of his salary. Borkov and Chamantov ask for equal shares in the property.

According to Michajlo Saltykov’s service rolls (spisok verstan’ja) from 1605/06, Jakov Borkov had a salary of 200 četi.

According to grants of land made by De la Gardie and Odoevskij in 1614, under-secretary Kostja Chamantov had a salary of 70 četi plus 7 roubles a year.

The widow Marfa and her daughter had 84 četi for their support.

Evert Horn and Ivan Odoevskij decided to allocate the 42 četi belonging to the widow Marfa to Jakov Borkov. Her daughter Vasiliska was also allocated property. 17 March 1615.

Summary
Petition from Voin Novokšenov’s wife Orinka. Her husband has been sent to Moscow, and now her peasants in Peredol’skoj pogost are refusing to deliver grain, pay rent and plough her land. The servant she sent to them was beaten black and blue. She asks Grand Prince Karl Filip to issue a royal decree (gosudareva gramota) ordering the peasants to obey her, as otherwise she will die of starvation. No date. On the verso, a decision to issue the requested decree.

Instructions (poslušnaja gramota) to Ivan Boranov from Evert Horn and Ivan Odoevskij concerning this matter. He is to order the peasants to plough the fields and, as before, to deliver grain and pay rent to Voin Novokšenov’s wife. They must also obey the people she sends to them on any business. Boranov is to obtain surety bonds from them and send them to Novgorod the Great, where decisions on any penalties will be taken.

April 1615 (no day of month). Draft.

Notes
Dmitrievsky states in a note that Novokšenov was sent to Moscow in 1613 with the news that Duke Karl Filip had arrived in Viborg. The delegation was arrested in Toržok.
Summary
Petition to d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev from the priest Ermola and others. On the night of 23 – 24 April 1615, several objects, including two gospel books (one printed and one handwritten), icons and textiles, were stolen from the Church of SS Koz’ma and Damian on the Sophia Side (Sofejskaja storona). The sexton (ponomar’) of the church, Sen’ka, and his son Serguška are accused of the theft.

Interrogation of those involved. In support of the accusation, various earlier wrongdoings of Sen’ka and his son are cited. On the night of the theft, they had failed to guard the church, despite the fact that it was Serguša’s duty to do so. In his defence, Serguša says that he had not dared to sleep in the church alone, as the promised guard had failed to appear. Sen’ka and his son deny any involvement in the theft.

On 14 May the maidservant Katerinka reports that she has found two gospel books and an icon under an apple tree. The place in question is on the property of Ždanko Kurbatov, and suspicion now falls on him and his family. Staying on his property are three Swedish soldiers and a Swedish woman. One night, they came home with stolen food: barley, malt and three chickens, and Ždanko bought the chickens. However, he says that he knows nothing about the theft from the church.

D’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev orders that people living in the vicinity of the church are to be questioned, but this produces little information. Witnesses say that Ždanko has no work, and gambles in the taverns, but he has never been guilty of theft.

No judgment on the matter is included. Last date: 21 May 1615.

The sheets are unsigned.

Summary
Petition to King Gustav Adolf from Griša Obol’njaninov. He reports that Ivaško Kosyga, starosta of Gorodenskoj pogost, together with one of Bogdan Ododurov’s peasants, has taken confiscated grain from pits on the estates of the “traitors” Bogdan Ododurov and Bogdan Malyšev and hidden it away. Ododurov, who is in Pskov, returned to collect some belongings and was helped by Ivaško, who failed to report his visit to the fortress.

Record of interrogations of Obol’njaninov and Ivaško Kosygin, who is presented here as Ivan Putjatin’s peasant. Ivaško denies all the allegations in the petition. He says that he informed the lieutenant (Erik Boije) about the grain as early as May, but that he did not inform Obol’njaninov, as the latter had gone to Novgorod the Great. He knew nothing about the pits shown to the Swedes by the peasant Timoško Volodimerov. Obol’njaninov also defends himself against the accusations of having withheld grain. Finally, Ivaško denies that Bogdan Ododurov visited his estate. Draft.

Petition to King Gustav Adolf from Griša Obol’njaninov. He was instructed to confiscate grain and various objects, and was to be assisted by gubnoj starosta Michajla Neelov and under-secretary Ždan Maksimov from the Bol’soj prichod. But Maksimov turned traitor and fled. Now Obol’njaninov has been clapped in irons as the person responsible for all the irregularities. He wants to clear his name, as Maksimov falsified the grain records in the books, and he himself is illiterate. In fact, throughout the time in question he was at the fortress, while his assistants were threshing grain by the pits, and Captain Hans Termo could take what he wanted.

Summary
1. Instructions from De la Gardie to a number of (unnamed) individuals to go to Derevskaja pjatina to confiscate rye and barley from the estates of Andrej Nogin, Semen Lutochin and other named persons for the support of Swedish soldiers. Half the grain is to go to King Gustav Adolf, and half may be kept by the owners. The document also includes a petition to De la Gardie from Mikita Vyšeslavcov and his associates, asking to be given, for their own support, some of the grain confiscated from them.

Similar instructions relating to Vodskaja pjahina, Korel'skaja polovina, and estates belonging to Semen Lutochin, Vasilej Trusov and others, and relating to confiscation of grain from Tesovskoj pogost, the monasteries on the Sophia Side (Sofejskaja storona), crown villages and other villages. In one case, it is added that the officials sent out are to handle the grain with great care and confiscate it in accordance with regulations, and not to accept bribes or act in their own interests. Anyone who does so will be punished with death. August 1616.

2. Documents relating to the estates of “traitors” in Djagilinskoj, Sujdetskoj and Kipenskoj pogosts and to a dispute between Fedor Odincev and Nikita Zinov'ev.

Instructions issued to Mikita Matfeev Zinov'ev, Volodimer Jakimov and under-secretary Pervoj Andreev on 24 July 1616, requiring them to confiscate all the grain on the estates of “traitors” in Djagilinskaj pogost. Boyars’ sons had moved into the houses with their peasants. They were concealing the grain and using it themselves. In addition, the officials sent out are instructed to investigate what rights Fedor Odincov and Jakov Chorošev have to estates which they are farming, but have not been granted, in Kipenskoj pogost and in Djagilinskaj and Sujdetskoj pogosts. Neither of them has surety bonds confirming his ownership. They are charging the peasants rent and keeping the grain for themselves. The Swedes are to take Odincov and Chorošev to Novgorod the Great.

In a submission to De la Gardie from Mikita Zinov'ev and fellow officials, Fedor Odincov is accused of farming Vasilej Šamšev’s estate although he has not been granted it, and of collecting taxes for his own benefit. Odincov has refused to provide a surety bond for himself regarding this estate. Zinov'ev requests instructions on the matter from the authorities. Furthermore, he has been instructed to confiscate grain on the estates of “traitors” in Djagilinskaj and Kipenskoj pogosts. But boyars’ sons who own land in these pogosts have appropriated the estates in question and sown crops in the best fields, and it is difficult to distinguish the fields of “traitors” from those of the boyars’ sons. The boyars’ sons are also collecting sheaves and other taxes for their own benefit, without any entitlement to do so.

On the reverse, three lines in Swedish and the address of De la Gardie. Handed in on 27 July 1616 by Menšik Jakovlev, Grigorej Čjurkov’s peasant in Djagilinskaj pogost.

Fedor Odincov, for his part, accuses Nikita Zinov'ev of having made incorrect records of grain on the estates of “traitors” in Kipenskoj pogost in order to benefit his friends. In addition, he alleges that Zinov’ev took grain to his own estate in the village of Parica and, furthermore, that he Mikita Zinov’ev and Fedor Odincov were examined before under-secretary Grigorej Sobakin on the matter, and Zinov’ev claimed that his stepmother owned his father’s estate.

Instructions to Volodimer Jakimov and under-secretary Pervoj Ondreev in response to Zinov’ev’s petition. On 19 August Fedor Odincov and Mikita Zinov’ev were brought before the interpreter Erik Anderson. Odincov was asked if he held Šamšev’s estate on the basis of a grant or lease, and why he was not prepared to obtain surety bonds confirming that this was the case. Jakimov and Ondreev are to investigate who is telling the truth by questioning Filka Konanov, and a transcript of his evidence is to be sent to Novgorod the Great by special courier. They are also to establish whether Odincov is harbouring rebels on his estate, as Zinov’ev claims.

Instructions to an unnamed person to take provisions to Kopor’e in Vodskaja pjatina, Polužskaja polovina, to the pogosts belonging to the Zareskoj fortress (ostróžek). In addition, an investigation is ordered into Mikita Zinov’ev’s estates and actions, in the light of Fedor Odincov’s accusations against him.

Examination of Fedor Odincov and Mikita Zinov’ev before under-secretary Grigorej Sobakin concerning Odincov’s accusations of treason against Zinov’ev. It is alleged that the latter is holding money belonging to “the False Pretender, who is in Pskov” (the third false Dmitrij). Zinov’ev admits that he had 30 roubles, which he had been keeping in a broken pipe, but says that this money has been stolen from him. 22 August.

3. Ivan Ivanov syn Vypovskoj, of Bel’skoj pogost, Šelonska pjatina, has submitted a petition (not included) asking to be allowed to retire, after serving the state for 30 years. His request is granted, and his estate of 350 četi is granted to his son Mikita on condition that he supports his father for the rest of his life.

The estates in Bel’skoj and Ljubynskoj pogosts are described on the basis of Leontej Oksakov’s cadastres from 1581/82.

It is stated that De la Gardie has placed his seal and Odoevskij that of Novgorod the Great on the decision. These seals are missing. The land parcelling document is in II:2:1.

Reports from Ereemev and Charlamov on the matter. They have gathered ripe cherries in two state orchards in Korostyn’ and sent them with the orchardman Mišjuk Zenov’ev. Charlamov reports that the cherries have been sent as ordered on 18 July, but that two Swedes, Hans Boije’s stableman and a D’jaček Ivanko Timofeev syn Baškin acted as scribe. 4 September 1614.

8. Five inquisition reports (obyşknye reči) relating to pogosts in Derevskaja pjadina (Sytinskoy, Lažinskoy, Navolockoj and Ust’janskoj). By order of De la Gardie and Odoevskij, Ivan Poreckoj and under-secretary Torop Beljakovskoj asked priests, local representatives, peasants and starosty how much land was cultivated and what crops were grown in the pogosts and on the estates of the Troeckij-Sergiev Monastery, and also which noblemen and boyars’ sons had betrayed the King’s Son and defected to Moscow and how much rye and spring-sown grain had been sown on their estates. A number of “traitors” are named, including Sila Ivkov, with estates in the village of Vojca in Navolockoj pogost, and Peresvet Torakanov in Sytinskoy pogost. In the land grant books of De la Gardie and Odoevskij from 1612/13, Bašmakov’s salary is given as 90 četi plus 9 roubles. He has 45 četi at his disposal, after giving 45 četi of his estates to Ondrej and Uvar Borkov.

Particulars of Serkov’s estates in Vodskaja and Obonežskaja pjatiny, together with Torop Beljakovskoj’s description of the estates on the basis of land parcelling books from 1593/94 and 1600 and gubnoj starosta Michajlo Neelov’s books from 1612, giving details of villages, farms, pustoši, areas of land etc. The inquiries made showed that Serkov held a total of 263 četi. Area(s) Porchov. Novgorod the Great. Bolčinskoj, Jasenskoj, Vyšegorodskoj, Michajlovskoj, Karačjunickoj, Pažerevskoj, Smolinskoj and Bel’skoj pogosts.

Summary
This roll is concerned with conditions in Porchov and the surrounding pogosts. It includes documents on sowing and harvesting, measures to protect the grain from theft, and confiscation of grain by the state. Also included are extracts from inspection books describing deserted villages and destruction by “Lithuanians and robbers”.

1. Order from De la Gardie and Odoevskij to Semen Ivanovič Skrypicyn and under-secretary Dmitrej Eliseev to travel to the crown villages of Porchov (listed by name) and the surrounding pogosts to find out what has been sown and harvested from 1612 to the present year of 1613, and how much hay has been mown. They have been given a list relating to this, signed by d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev. Prikaščik Bogdan Pomeščik had submitted a report on spring sowing and haymaking in pustoši in the villages of Porchov. Strel’cy were to be brought in to protect the grain from robbers. In the presence of priests, starosty and sworn men, and in accordance with otdačnye knigi, grain, rye, spring-sown grain, peas, flax and hemp – every fourth or fifth sheaf – were to be confiscated from villages and pustoši. Threshed and abandoned grain was to be recorded and sampled, and rents collected for the hay harvest. It was to be noted in which villages and pustoši the peasants were growing spring-sown grain, wheat, barley and oats. Skrypicyn and Pomeščik were ordered to survey these pustoši and record how much of each crop was to be confiscated. If the peasants were growing and harvesting crops without paying rent, the rent was to be levied for the state. If peasants had appropriated allotments of land belonging to peasants who had been killed, and sown crops there, the grain was to go to the rightful owners. The peasants were to be ordered to thresh the grain. Starosty and sworn men were to sell the straw and chaff at customs prices. Sheets 1–7 deal with the same matter and are written by the same scribe. 11 July 1613.

On the verso of sheet 1, a descriptive heading and the year 1613.

Order from De la Gardie and Odoevskij to the voevody Ivan Ivanovič Krijukov and Matjej Semenovič L’vov in the crown villages of Porchov. As directed by d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev, Semen Ivanovič Skrypicyn and under-secretary Dmitrej Eliseev had been sent to the crown villages of Porchov to confiscate grain from abandoned land and to record and thresh abandoned grain. This grain was to be protected from robbers and taken to the state granaries in Porchov. Strel’cy were to be called in to protect it from robbers. Sworn men and granary officials were to report to the voevody on the amount of grain collected. 11 July 1613. (Sheet 8.)

Extract from inspection books kept by Prince Ivan Meščerskoj and under-secretary Semejka Šustov in 1613. In the crown villages of Porchov, rye had been sown for 1613 on the allotments of dead and fugitive peasants. For the village of Slavnica in Karačjunickoj pogost, details were given of the names of the peasants and the areas cultivated by them, whether or not the rye had been sown, and whether it had been harvested and threshed for the state. According to statements from priests, starosty, sworn men and local representatives, these peasants had disappeared in 1612, having been left destitute by Lithuanians. The Lithuanians had taken all their chattels, horses and cattle. Rye had been sown for 1613 on their allotments of land.

Similar reports for the village of Ščilov and for Bolčinskoj, Jasenskoj, Vyšegorodskoj and Michajlovskoj pogosts. (Sheets 24–41.)

Order from Pjatoj Grigor’ev to starosty, sworn men and all the peasants in the crown villages of Porchov to assist Semen Ivanovič Skrypicyn and under-secretary Dmitrej Eliseev in finding grain that is to be confiscated. They are to be given money for food (a sum is mentioned). Signed by d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev. 11 July 1613. (Sheet 42.)

A similar order to Skrypicyn and Eliseev on sheets 50–52. On the reverse, across the joins, the skrepa of d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev. 25 July 1613.

A similar order to Skrypicyn and Eliseev, calling on them to ascertain what pustoši Pomeščikov had allocated for spring sowing and haymaking for 1613. He had not sent the relevant books to Novgorod the Great. Transcripts were to be made from cadastres from 1584 kept by d’jak Vasiljej Zvenigorodckoj. On the basis of these transcripts, officials were to travel through all the areas to establish the numbers of peasants and where they were living. Their names were to be recorded, together with what they had sown and on what conditions. The areas leased out for haymaking and those harvested without leases were to be investigated. Everything was to be carefully recorded in books and compared with tax registers (окладные росписи). In addition, inquiries were to be made into the areas under cultivation in the crown villages and other villages, as recorded in Prince Ivan Meščerskoj’s inspection books for 1613. It was to be determined which peasants had left on account of the destruction caused by robbers, and which had disappeared according to the inspection. If these peasants were to come and ask for their allotments, they would be given them for cultivation. Surety bonds would be required of them, to ensure that they would be able to cultivate their allotments and pay their taxes.

Extract from the cadastres of Prince Vasilej Zvenigorodskoj for 1584, from the crown villages of Porchov and of Karačjunickoj, Bolčinskoj, Jasenskoj, Michajlovskoj, Pažerickoj, Smolinskoj and Belškoj pogosts, giving details of villages, churches and their officials, shops, different types of merchants, state and church land and peasant land. (Sheets 53–80.)

On the verso of sheet 80, a descriptive heading and the year 1613.

Petition from Skrypicyn and Eliseev to De la Gardie and Odoevskij concerning various difficulties requisitioning grain from pogosts around Porchov. Testimony from the peasant Vas’ka Železnikov, stating that robbers from Pskov had captured him in the forest and tortured and burnt him. There were 44 of them, armed with 24 pistols. Skrypicyn and Eliseev had been sent out to collect rye and spring-sown grain from the peasants, to record what land was abandoned and which peasants were growing crops without paying rent, and to sample their grain. Pomeščikov was supposed to collect rent for haymaking, but had no such rent to pay in, as the peasants had been ordered to hand over the hay for the Swedish soldiers’ horses in Porchov. On 19 July they went to collect state grain in Jasenskoj pogost. In the villages they were able to reach, they made rough estimates of harvested and unharvested rye. They did not dare to continue, or to draw up lists of what the peasants had sown and harvested, without the priests’ signatures and without an order from the authorities. They did not dare provide seed for fugitive and returning peasants without an order. They were now in Karačjunickoj pogost and did not dare have стрельцы with them, as the latter had been replaced. (Sheets 81–82.)

On the verso of sheet 81, addressed to De la Gardie and Odoevskij. Handed in by Ivan Mjachkin on 25 July 1613.

Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Ivan Krjukov and Matvej Bolšoj L’vov. D’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev had ordered them to give rye and oats from the state granaries to стрельцы from Porchov. Captain Karbel’ (Jaques Corobel) had placed his seal on the state granaries and was not issuing monthly rations of rye and oats to the scribes and стрельцы. These stores were to be saved for Swedish soldiers. On Karbel’s orders, сотник Grigorej Ščogolev had been sent with стрельцы to Oleksej Kositckoj’s estate in Dubrovenskoj pogost to thresh his rye, in order to provide for the strel’cy. Grigorej reported that he could not find the rye in the barns. He was only able to find 19 četi of threshed rye, which was given to the strel’cy from 18 June onwards, a certain amount per person per month. Apart from that, no provisions were available. The strel’cy now wanted to go to Novgorod the Great and obtain food for themselves in the villages. The petitioners request an order authorizing this. (Sheet 43.)

Addressed on the verso of sheet 43 to De la Gardie and Odoevskij. Handed in on 3 July 1613 by Stepan Kultašev.

3. Report to De la Gardie from Matjuša L’vov. He complains of irregularities committed by Bogdan Pomeščikov in the crown villages of Porchov. (Sheets 44–45.)

On the verso of sheet 44, the address of De la Gardie and the date 11 July 1613.

4. Order from De la Gardie and Ivan Odoevskij to the voevoda of Porchov, Ivan Krjukov, dated June 1613. They had previously ordered Krjukov to send 34 men on horseback and 27 without horses to the road to Ivan-gorod, to work on road bridges at various places, the length of which was stated in fathoms. Of these men, nine on horseback were to be sent to Novgorod the Great. On the roads from Karačjunickoj and Bolčinskoj pogosts, the stated length of old road bridges had been reinforced with new timber. On the lands of the Troickij-Sergiev and Tichvin Monasteries, the stated length of bridges had been built from spruce and birch. (Sheet 48v.)

5. Instructions from De la Gardie and Odoevskij to pjatikoneckoj starosta Osip Gančjukov and Bogdan Ol’ferov, directing them to collect rye from the Jur’ev Monastery and elsewhere. Draft. July 1613. (Sheet 49v.)

6. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from the peasants Matjuška Makar’ev, Ivanko Fedorov and Ivanko Filipov in the village of Zagor’e in Karačjunickoj pogost. Their village had been laid waste by Lithuanians and they had fled, as it was impossible to live there. The Lithuanians had killed some of their neighbours and taken others prisoner. They had sown rye for 1613 on allotments of land abandoned by fleeing peasants. They had not had time to obtain leases for this land from the prikaščik, as they had sown it in a hurry, by night. This rye had been reserved for the state by the dozorščik Prince Ivan Myškoj. Prikaščik Bogdan Pomeščikov was not permitting it to be harvested. The petitioners ask to be allowed to grow crops on the allotments of the fugitive peasants, on payment of a rent in grain.

Inquiries in response to the petition, with reference to Prince Ivan Myškoj’s inspection books from 1613 for the village of Zagor’e.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to give the peasants the grain they had sown for 1613 and to take grain for the state “in lieu of sheaf”. Regarding what had been sown on the allotments of fleeing peasants, in-queries were to be made of starosty and peasants. If they had sown crops there, they were to go to the state. For what they had sown on their old land, exemption from tax was to be granted for one year, from 25 July 1613 until 25 July 1614. Henceforth, they were to be allowed to cultivate the allotments of fugitive peasants, on payment of rent. Surety bonds were to be obtained for them. On the reverse, the skrepa of d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev.

Instructions to Semen Ivanovič Skrypicyn and under-secretary Dmitrej Eliseev to carry out the order. Draft. 27 July 1613. (Sheets 83–89.)

Summary
1. Report to the boyars of the Muscovite and Novgorod State from Ovdokimko Vas’le’v, sworn official at the customs house in Boroviči. On 28 June 1612 he went to Bolon’e to collect customs duty. Three other customs officials went to the market at Mlevo on the same business. “For our sins”, Lithuanian soldiers arrived at the market, killed these three men and injured many traders. They took the customs officials’ letter of authorization (ustavnaja gramota) and cash box. Then they went to Bolon’e and took Ovdokimko’s cash box and caused him such suffering that he is now at death’s door. For these reasons (he is injured, he has no letter of authorization, and his fellow officials are dead), he is unable to collect duty at the market. Report handed in on 14 July 1612 by the townsman Fed’ko Sapožnik.

2. Report from under-secretary Bogdaško Berezskoj. He has been put in charge of haymaking in Msta. On 23 August 1612, the peasant Semenka Nikanov from Dovoreckoj pogost fled. From the other peasants he had stolen tools and money, 10 altyn, which they had collected to buy bread. As a result, the work has been much delayed. Report handed in on 29 August by Bogdanko Berezskoj.

3. Report from Jakuško Kolokol’cov and under-secretary Michalka Bobrovskoj. They had been sent to collect money, vodka (vino) and beer from Ivan Rjazjanov at the tavern in Olonec, and likewise from the keeper of the tavern in Il’inskoj pogost. They arrived in Olonec on 16 August, but were not given any money. Ivan Rjazjanov claimed that he had already sent money to Novgorod the Great with under-secretary Semenka Abramov, and that the prices of hops and malt were very high. Report handed in on 11 September 1612 by Ivanko Gavrilov and Fotejko Dmitrov.

4. Report from Ivaško Rostovskoj. He and under-secretary Ostaš Simanov had been sent to investigate how many people had been killed in and around Jažolbickoj rjadok in Derevskaja pjatina, how much grain was growing on their land and what quantities of vegetables were growing in their gardens. Arriving in Jažolbickoj rjadok on 17 August 1612, they were unable to find a single soul. Everything had been burnt and the remains were still smoking. Outside the church, the priest and two other people had been slaughtered. Lithuanian soldiers had arrived there on 13 August. They were driving cattle ahead of them in the direction of Valdaj. They burned twenty farms. The inhabitants fled into the woods. Rostovskoj and Simanov tried to find them there, with the help of desjackoj Oksenko Ofonas’ev. The rye was left unharvested in the fields, and had started to sprout. It had now been harvested, but could not be taken away, and remained where it was. Report handed in on 23 September 1612 by under-secretary Ostaš Simanov.

5. Petition from Nechoroš Kudeljašev. He has been instructed to requisition rye, wheat and oats in Oštinskij stan and the pogosts round about for Swedish soldiers, in preparation for the arrival of the Lord of All Russia, Karl Filip. He sent some of the requisitioned grain with the sworn men Fotejko Matfeev and Michejko Ivanov. He wanted to send another consignment of it by boat, but the boat had sprung a leak and this was therefore impossible. He then reserved another boat, but that one was taken illegally by Stepan Champanin, who loaded it with salt and set off for Novgorod the Great. Now he has nowhere to put the grain, and wants further instructions. Petition handed in on 28 August 1612 by Ignaško Vasil’ev of Važinskoj pogost.

7. Report from Jon Irikson, Firsec Davydov and Ivanko Boranov. They have been sent to requisition money from various pogosts, including Megorskoj and Oštinskij. On 30 August Lithuanian soldiers arrived there and the peasants fled, making it impossible for them to continue the requisition. The Lithuanians had a guide with them, a peasant from Belozerskoj uezd, who fled from them. When questioned, he said that there were 500 Lithuanians in Belozerskoj uezd and large forces near the Kirillov Monastery. Report handed in on 15 September 1612.

8. Report from Ondrej Trusov concerning two aršin of woollen cloth, which he has purchased for the Swedish troops. Report handed in on 26 October 1612 by Grigorej Brjancov.

9. Report from Voin Novokščenov and Ondrej Trusov. They have been instructed to promulgate a letter in Vodskaja and Šelonskaja pjatiny and to urge the population to demonstrate their diligence in supporting the Swedish troops at IVangorod. They sent Ivan Suslov to three pogosts in Vodskaja pjatina to collect rye. The prikaščiki and peasants refused to provide the rye, on account of the poor harvest. The boyars then ordered that the rye be requisitioned from the peasants all the same. This is a difficult task, and the officials responsible are afraid. Moreover, there are not many officials who can be sent on this dangerous mission. At Tesovo, Mark Mustofin was chased away and threatened with a knife. Report handed in on October 1612 (no day of month).

10. Report from under-secretary Bogdaško Berezskoj. He has been put in charge of haymaking in Msta. On 3 October seven labourers fled to Novgorod the Great. Now he has only a few labourers left. Report handed in on 9 October 1612.

11. Two petitions concerning requisitions of grain and hay from the area around Porchov.

12. Petition from Jakuš Kolokol’cov and under-secretary Michalka Bobrovskoj. Their instructions are to give 43 roubles and 1 poltina of the tavern money that they collect to the 42 strel’cy under Griša Tarasov who are stationed at Ladoga. They arrived in Olonec on 16 August and stayed until 29 September, and collected 26 roubles and 1 poltina. They gave 21 roubles and 25 altyn to the strel’cy at Ladoga. At the tavern in Olonec there were 18 vedra of beer and 1 vedro of vodka (vino). No one goes to the tavern now; instead, people go to Gripeun Žoglov and his son who, despite warnings, are running an illegal liquor shop. They have written to the boyars about the situation on several occasions, and on 29 September they were still awaiting a reply. In these circumstances, the tavern is not making any money. Petition handed in on 17 October 1612.

14. Petition from Ignaško Charlamov. He is constantly on duty outside Novgorod the Great. His estate in Porchovskoj uezd has been laid waste by Lithuanians, robbers, Cossacks and people from Pskov. Peasants and horses have been killed. Now he has been ordered to advance against the robbers in Porchov, but he has no horse. He has borrowed 10 roubles for a horse from the customs revenue in the state treasury, and declares that he owes this sum of money.

15. Reports and petitions concerning requisitions of provisions and concerning haymaking.

16. Report from Jakuš Kokol’cov and under-secretary Michalka Bobrovskoj. They have been instructed by the boyars to investigate the illegal trade in beer being carried on by Chripun Žeglov, prikaščik of the metropolitan, and his son Prokofej in Olonec. The starosty and people of the area are unwilling to speak out against the two men. The sworn men at the state tavern have complained about the illegal trade, since no one now comes to their tavern to drink. Kokol’cov has been ordered to acquire a house with a cellar by the Church of St Elias the Prophet, near Žeglov, to set up a state tavern there. This has proved to be impossible, as ground conditions do not permit the building of cellars. Report handed in on 14 November 1612 by Jakov Kokol’cov’s man Ignâško.

17. Petitions from the sworn men at the new tavern in Il’inskoj pogost, Obonežskaja pjaţina, complaining about the illegal brewing of beer.

18. Report and petition on a requisition of grain.

19. Petition from Ondrej Trusov. He has been instructed to buy coarse woollen cloth for the Swedish troops. He has bought 69 loki at 7 or 8 den’gi each. He has been unable to find anything cheaper, and now wants the boyars’ approval for further purchases at the same price. Petition handed in on 8 October 1612.

20. Reports and petitions on requisitions of provisions.

21. Petition from Ivaško Bazlov. He and under-secretary Bašmak Kondrat’ev have been instructed to open a tavern in Tichvin. The prices he is to charge for beer and vodka (vino) are stated (varying, depending on the current price of grain). Now the Swedish carpenter Anc has arrived in Tichvin, claiming that he has been commissioned by the boyars to open and run a tavern there. He has taken eight barrels of beer from the Swedish merchant Grigorej. Now the sworn men are selling the beer and Anc is keeping the profits. He has also told the malt and hop dealers that they are only to come to him. He does not want a scribe to keep accounts of revenue and expenditure. Bazlov has not received any communication from the boyars concerning this Anc.

22. Reports and petitions relating to requisitions of provisions and deliveries of hops.

23. Petition from Stepan Kopustoškin. The boyars have instructed him to monitor Lithuanian troop movements. He has obtained some information from peasants who have been taken prisoner by the Lithuanians and then escaped. The soldiers are in the vicinity of Tichvin.

24. Reports and petitions on requisitions of provisions.

25. Report from Dem’janko Aprelev and Pavel Chanykov to De la Gardie, Odoevskij, Lutochin and Lyscov. They have been instructed to collect rye, barley and oats for the royal household in the Zaonežskoj pogosts and to send the grain to Novgorod the Great by the first available boat. They obtained sureties from several pogosts that the grain would be sent, but this has not happened. On 15 July (no year), Aprelev received instructions to go to these pogosts. In some places he managed to requisition the grain, but in others the peasants chased him away. On 20 July he received new instructions as to how to deal with those who disobeyed. He was to have the starosty and sworn men beaten with sticks and to collect money from them to transport the grain. If they persisted, he was to send word to the officer Hans Munk. Aprelev and Chanykov have managed to collect money in some pogosts, but in Šujskoj pogost the peasants refused and drove them away. The sworn men said that they had sworn the oath to Karl Filip on condition that the levies on them would not increase. When Aprelev and Chanykov went on to Kiži, they were detained by the peasants for two days, the money for transport was taken from them and their lives were threatened. They then managed to get to Michajlo Veljaminov’s boat. They have heard that in Andoma there are 8,000 men under Oleksej Zjuzin, who are heading towards Ladoga and Novgorod the Great. Aprelev and Chanykov dare not travel to Šala, Pudoga and Andoma and are therefore staying at the Oleksandrov Monastery, where Aprelev is now seriously ill.

Year(s) 1613/14, 1615

Area(s) Novgorod the Great.

Summary
Examinations and an investigation relating to the mutual accusations of the d’jaki Pjatoj Grigor’ev and Ivan Timofeev, alleging irregularities and the theft of money and goods belonging to the Crown. The hearings are held before Evert Horn and Ivan Odoevskij. March 1615 (no day of month).

1. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Pjatoj Grigor’ev, asking not to have to make good money missing from a statement of account. The accounts concerned are those of under-secretary Nikifor Koptev. In September 1614, Koptev had been auditing the Chancellery accounts under d’jak Ivan Timofeev when he was taken prisoner and carried off to Pskov. Grigor’ev had then instructed under-secretary Ivan Kononov to inspect Koptev’s accounts for 1614, and a bag in which there should have been money and statements of account for 1612/13 was found to contain only books from 1606. Timofeev had said that he had sealed the bags and cash boxes containing accounts and money, handed in to him by the under-secretaries, and that they had subsequently come and asked for the money back to meet expenditure. Not only Nikifor Koptev, but also Vasilej Častov, Posnik Rakov and Ivan Konanov had had money back and given receipts for it.

Grigor’ev calls for Ivan Timofeev and Ivan Konanov to be questioned about these receipts, and for inquiries to be made as to which bag Koptev had deposited money in.

Investigation in response to Grigor’ev’s petition. Before Evert Horn and Ivan Odoevskij, Ivan Timofeev and Pjatoj Grigor’ev put forward their arguments and accused each other of theft and irregularities.

2. In a letter to Evert Horn and Ivan Odoevskij, Grigor’ev calls Ivan Timofeev a thief. He points out that, together with his confessor Protopope Amos, Timofeev stole two icons belonging to Michail Tatiščev, who was in disgrace and whose household effects had been confiscated. For this, Timofeev has been fined 200 roubles, but he has not paid the fine. He is also accused of other crimes, including stealing from crown sable-pelt funds and the theft of 1,170 roubles together with Ždan Medvedev.

Examination of Grigor’ev and Timofeev before Evert Horn and Ivan Odoevskij. According to Grigor’ev, gost’ Stepan Igolkin had told him that he and Timofeev were going to take charge of the icons together, but that Timofeev and the priest Amos had then stolen them. The two men had in fact been fined for this. The papers relating to the case were at the Chancellery.

Timofeev replied that, by order of Prince Michail Vasil’evič Šujskij, he had given the two icons to Amos for safe keeping pending a ukase from the Tsar. He, Timofeev, had been given a receipt for them. Furthermore, he had a copy of the inventory of Tatiščev’s belongings which Šujskij had taken with him to Moscow. Amos had claimed that he had inherited the icons from Tatiščev, but they had been handed over to Odoevskij. Timofeev referred to a judgment in the case bearing the seal of the Tsar.

Odoevskij explained to Evert Horn that he was well aware of the icons and that Timofeev and Igolkin had together guarded Tatiščev’s belongings by order of Prince Michail Vasil’evič Šujskij. The icons had been recovered from the home of the priest Amos and sent to Moscow. Timofeev and Amos had been fined before the icons were found. A memorandum and the judgment in the case were to be found in the bag in which the seal of Novgorod the Great was kept. At Evert Horn’s request, these documents were produced.

Evert Horn and Ivan Odoevskij examined the memorandum and the judgment imposing the fines, and noted that both the seal of the Tsar and the signatures of the d’jaki were missing. The judgment, which was read out, stated that in April 1611 Ivan Odoevskij and the d’jaki Kornil’o Ievlev and Semen (Samsonov?) imposed fines on Ivan Timofeev and Protopope Amos corresponding to the value of the icons that belonged to Michail Tatiščev – 173 roubles and 25 altyn each. Timofeev was convicted because he had failed to show the icons to Stepan Igolkin when the inventory was made of Tatiščev’s possessions. It was thus clear that he had intended to steal them. Amos was convicted because he had claimed that he had inherited the icons, but sent them to Moscow on the instructions of Prince Michail Vasil’evič Šujskij. The icons had then been found in Amos’s house.

3. Evert Horn and Ivan Odoevskij ordered Timofeev to present his accounts to them, which he did. Timofeev also handed over his report on the accounts of the Dvorcovoj prikaz relating to purchases of firewood in 1613. Entries in Grigor’ev’s own hand concerning the prices paid for the wood were false. According to valuation reports submitted by Timofeev, the purchase prices recorded in the books were too high. Similar deception had occurred when the cost of sawing firewood was calculated.
Timofeev claimed that Grigor’ev’s accounts were not to be trusted; further instances of deception might be uncovered in them.

Exchange of words between Timofeev and Grigor’ev regarding firewood.

lic sauna, 1613/14.

Summary
D’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev’s revenue books relating to grain levied from the crown villages of Korolevo, Rakomo, Trjasovo and Tesovo and from various pogosts, including Golinskoj, Medveckoj, Strupinskoj and Korostynskoj.
The areas of land cultivated by the peasants are stated, as recorded in different types of books, including service rolls (verstal’nye knigi) and confiscation books (vydel’nye knigi). It is noted what quantities of rye and oats can be levied. This grain does not always have to be delivered, either owing to fires or because the peasants are already supplying a “tithe of grain” (desjatinnaja pašnja) to the state.
1. D’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev’s revenue books relating to grain from the crown villages. They record, first, how much land was being cultivated in the village of Korolevo in 1614, according to Ivan Kuzminskoj’s inspection of 1612, how much land had been abandoned, and what quantities of rye and oats were taken in 1615. The areas cultivated by peasants are given on the basis of the verstal’nye knigi of Gost’ Kokovcov and under-secretary Vasilej Zadenskoj for the village of Korolevo, from 1614, together with the quantities of rye and oats that could be levied. 1615.

Similar information for the village of Voldaj, based on Ivan Poreckoj and under-secretary Grigorej Sobakin’s census and confiscation books (perepisnye i vydel’nye knigi) from 1612.

Similar information for the village of Rakomo, based on Ivan Lutochin and under-secretary Ulan Sobakin’s inspection in 1612.

Similar information for the village of Trjasovo, based on Ivan Lutochin’s inspection and Gost’ Kokovcov and under-secretary Vasilej Zadenskoj’s verstal’nye knigi for 1612.

Similar information for the village of Tesovo, based on an inspection by Dmitrej Nevnev and prikaščik Grigorej Mikulin in 1612.

2. Particulars of the quantities of grain that could be levied, the areas laid waste, the areas inhabited etc. in Golinskaja, Medveckoj, Korostynskoj, Bureskoj and Strupinskij pogosts.

Similar records of areas of land and levies of grain in Svinoreckoj pogost, based on an inspection by under-secretary Ulan Sobakin; in Bureskoj pogost and the village of Dvoricy, according to an inspection by Venedichto Timašev; in the crown villages of Porchov, based on an inspection by Prince Ivan Myšekoj and under-secretary Semejka Šustov in 1613; and in other pogosts and villages.

Area(s) Šelonskaja pjatina, Korostynskoj pogost, village of Verjago.

Summary
Semen Boborykin and Lučanin Eremeev, questioned before d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev, stated that they had taken 2 četvert’ of rye from the peasant Ždanko Lukin, from the village of Verjago in Korostynskoj pogost, as a “supplementary tax”. Ždanko is said by his farmhand Leška Ivanov (known as Runo) to have deposited 7 četvert’ of rye with his brother-in-law, the priest Elisej at the Fedorovskaja Church. Ždanko has run away, and no one knows where he is.

The rye in question has been claimed by Anc Brakilev’s peasants. A petition addressed to Grand Prince Karl Filip was handed to Pjatoj Grigor’ev by pristav Grigorej Jakimov and Brakilev’s servant Konstantin Ivanov. Brakilev’s peasants claimed that they had deposited 8 četvert’ of rye with Elisej and that Semen Boborykin and Lučanin Eremeev had stolen 5 osminy of the grain in two sacks.

Pjatoj Grigor’ev examined the priest Elisej, who said that the rye belonged to Anc Brakilev. He was not holding his brother-in-law Ždanko’s rye. The d’jak ordered the rye to be placed under seal pending Brakilev’s return.

Summary
Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Timoška and Pavelko Jakovlevy deti Rostopčina. In 1612, their uncle Bogdan Rostopčin died without issue, leaving a widow Krestina, who was allowed to keep 30 ěeti of his service estate in Derevskaja pjatina for her support. Timoška and Pavelko were allocated 70 ěeti of the same estate. Krestina has now remarried, allowing the brothers to share her land between them, and they want an official document confirming this. On the reverse, a decision to investigate the matter.

Extract from the land grant book of De la Gardie and Odoevskij for 1612. It cites Prince Michail Rostovskij Katyrev’s service roll from 1605/06, according to which Timofej and Pavel Rostopčin are each entitled to 300 ěeti. It is confirmed that they do not have land anywhere. In 1612 they and their aunt applied for land from the estate of the late Bogdan Rostopčin. Grigorej Neganovskoj also applied for land from the same estate.

Decision of the boyars, dated 19 March 1612, to allocate land from Bogdan Rostopčin’s estate to these four individuals. It is noted which peasants and bobyli live on the land allotted to each of them, and how much land they farm.

Petition from Timofej and Pavel Rostopčin, similar in content to the first one. This petition was handed in on 23 March 1613.

On 29 March 1613 the matter was presented to De la Gardie and Odoevskij, who decided to institute inquiries as to whether and, if so, when Bogdan Rostopčin’s widow Krestina married Mikita Miljukov. If everything is as Timofej and Pavel assert, their petitions will be granted. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great.

Instructions to nesluživoj Mikifor Izedinov to carry out the boyars’ decision.

A starosta of the village, Dmitrejko Gavrilov, had disappeared, along with some of its peasants. Gavrilov said that they had been hiding from pristav Ivan Trubica. They were afraid of Trubica, claiming that he killed people. They also maintained that they had delivered the grain required. Ivan Trubica claimed that the peasants had fled without reason, and that they had not paid in the rye. Summary

1. Petitions to Evert Horn and Ivan Odoevskij from peasants in the areas stated above, complaining about taxes and other impositions. The petitions were handed in on 28 February 1615. Some of the peasants also complain that they have had Swedish troops billeted in their village and have had to provide for them for weeks. They do not have enough horses for their work, as they have been seized by the Swedes or stolen by robbers and Cossacks. Many peasants have fled or died; those who remain ask to be exempted from certain additional taxes, and want a new census to be carried out to ensure that the burdens placed on them correspond to the actual population. The petitions indicate what kinds of obligations the peasants had during this period. They also indicate what losses they suffered, in terms of food and human lives, as a result of the presence of the Swedish troops.

Instructions from Evert Horn and Ivan Odoevskij to conduct a census in the areas in question. When it is completed, the men officiating are to take the documents to the Dvorcovoj prikaz in Novgorod the Great without delay and hand them to d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev.

Instructions, dated 30 March 1615, to Fedor Butorlin and under-secretary Vasilej Zadenskoj to go to Korolevo and Tesovo. Similar instructions to Ondrej Nogin and under-secretary Ondrej Kolomskoj, who are sent to Rakomo and Trjasovo, and to Fedor Odincov and under-secretary Michajlo Kostjantinov, who are sent to the other places mentioned above.

Extract from the census books (perepisnye knigi) for Korolevo, drawn up by Gost’ Kokovcov and under-secretary Vasilej Zadenskoj in 1613–14. Extract from the census books for Tesovo, drawn up by Gost’ Kokovcov and under-secretary Ulan Sobakin in 1613–14.

Instructions to Fedor Odincov and under-secretary Vasilej Zadenskoj to go to Tesovo and take a census. The task had been entrusted to Fedor Butorlin, but after conducting a census of Korolevo he had fallen ill. 15 May 1615.

Report on the examination of peasants carried out in conjunction with Butorlin and Zadenskoj’s census of Korolevo. D’Jaček Vaš’ka Prokof’ev acted as scribe. May 1615.

Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from the peasant Mosejko Fedorov in Korolevo, complaining about the census taken by Fedor Butorlin and Vasilej Zadenskoj.

Instructions to Butorlin and Zadenskoj in response to the petition. April 1615 (no day of month).

Another two similar petitions from peasants in Korolevo, with the instructions arising from them.

Record of the examination of peasants carried out in conjunction with Odincov and Zadenskoj’s census of Tesovo. D’Jaček Pimenko Ignat’ev acted as scribe. 8 June 1615.

Extracts from the census books (perepisnye knigi) for Rakomo and Tesovo, drawn up by Gost’ Kokovcov and Vasilej Zadenskoj in 1613/14.

List of inhabited and deserted vity in Rakomo, dated 8 April 1615.

Surety bonds provided by peasants in Rakomo and Trjasovo. They stand surety that a number of destitute peasants and widows will not live as bobyli or leave their volost’. D’Jački Bogdaško Vasil’ev and Subotka Těchovoj acted as scribes. 24 May 1615.

Similar documents from Tesovo, Trjasovo, Golino and Korolevo.

Record of an examination of the peasant Tomilko Negodjaev, who on 4 May 1615 had been sent to Medvedčkoj, Strupinskaja, Ljubynskaja and other pogosts to order starosty and sworn men to report to Fedor Odinco and Michajla Kostantinov with lists of peasants and bobyli and the land they farmed. It turned out, however, that these areas were completely deserted, and nothing had been sown in the fields.

Petition to Horn and Odoevskij from Ondrej Nogin and Ondrej Kolomskoj. Their orders were to go to Rakomo and Trjasovo to take a census. They give a detailed account of the tasks entrusted to them, and report that they have now duly conducted the census in Trjasovo. Rye has been sown in only five villages, and not to the extent indicated by earlier estimates. Spring-sown grain has not been sown anywhere. Many peasants are lying ill, in Novgorod or in the villages. In other cases, poverty has prevented the peasants from sowing. Nogin and Kolomskoj dare not reduce the obligations placed on them without orders from the boyars. Their letter was handed in on 1 May 1615 by Volod’ka Zachar’ev, starosta of Trjasovo.
Instructions to Nogin and Kolomskoj in response to the above letter. It is pointed out that their orders stipulate that destitute peasants are to be registered as bobyli. After this, Nogin and Kolomskoj are to go to Rakomo, since that village is larger. 1 May 1615.

Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Fedotko Zachar’ev and Jakuško Larionov, crown peasants in Korostynskoj pogost, making a complaint against the peasants Foka Nebrasov, Ogofonka Karpov and Šostačko Olekseev. These peasants remained in hiding during Fedor Odin-cov and Michajlo Kostantinov’s census, and their unsown allotments were recorded as abandoned land. After the census, they returned, bought horses, ploughed the land and sowed it with spring-sown cereals. They are not paying taxes to the Crown like the other peasants. Fedotko and Jakuško call for these three peasants to be included and taxed, to ease the burden on the others.

Instructions to Charka Fadeev, starosta of Korostynskoj pogost, arising from the above petition. He is to obtain sureties for Foka, Agafon and Šostačko. 11 June 1615.

Instructions, dated 29 April 1615, from Horn and Odoevskij to the voevody of Porchov, Ivan Meščerskoj and Fedor Voronov, concerning taxation of the crown villages in the Porchov area.

The instructions are in draft form.

Their document includes an order in Russian to give five people from the Chancellery of the voevoda and 46 other people 4 četi of rye each. There is no explanation in Russian in the document as to why these individuals should be given provisions. The petitioners want instructions on the matter.

Addressed on the reverse to Grand Prince Karl Filip. Handed in on 11 October (no year).

On the reverse, a draft text stating that no priests, starosty or sworn men were present at the threshing of grain in certain pogosts. Nor is it known who wrote the threshing books. The grain has been sent to Novgorod the Great and to Staraja Russa. Unconnected with the text on the recto.

Notes
Captain Petr is presumably Peter LaKrut, a captain in the cavalry regiment of Jesper Andersson Cruus. The latter is also mentioned in the roll.

Area(s) Derevskaja pjatina, Lažinskoj pogost.

Summary
Petition from the Tatars Pavaško Tereberdeev, Bogdanko Teregulov and Enalejko Bodrakov and the newly baptized Christofor Ivanov, asking to be allocated estates in Lažinskoj pogost previously belonging to Ivan Matfeev syn Kropotov and Vasilej Šestoj syn Narmackoj, with a total area of 572 četi.

On the reverse of the petition is the date 26 July 1614.

According to a decision of De la Gardie and Odoevskij from 1613/14, Bogdan Teregulov and Enalej Bodrakov were entitled to service estates of 300 četi each and Christofor Ivanov to 250 četi.

According to land grant books from 1603/04, Ivan Kropotov owned 250 četi in Derevskaja pjatina, and according to grants of land made in 1610/11, Vasilej Narmackoj owned 322 četi.

On examination, the Tatars said that Kropotov and Narmackoj had turned traitor.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided on 28 July 1614 to allocate the estates to the three Tatars, granting one third to each of them.

Petition from Vladimir Vasil’evič Narmackoj, dated 12 August 1614, addressed to Grand Prince Karl Filip and handed in to Ivan Odoevskij and Måns Mårtensson, asking to be allowed to retain the family estate, on the grounds that his father had been in the service of the state and had captured “thieves” (vory), who had been sent to Moscow.

Decision, dated 9 August 1614, to allocate to Vladimir Narmackoj, his mother and his sisters the newly cultivated land at Buček Bol’šoj until De la Gardie returned to Novgorod the Great.

Instructions to otdel’ščik Mikita Dirin to parcel out the land in accordance with the decision.

Sheet 5v. By order of Ivan Odoevskij and Måns Mårtensson, a decision was taken to give Volot’ko Vasil’ev syn Narmackoj, together with his mother and sisters, a letter confirming his title to his father’s estate, including the peasants and grain that might be found there. The reason was that his father Vasilej had captured “thieves” when he was with Bogdan Terpigorev. The newly baptized men were not allocated this estate, as they had submitted an untruthful petition. Signed by d’jak Semen Lutochin. 12 August 1614.

Petition from Christoforko Ivanov to be granted the parts of Narmackoj’s estates that had been allocated to the two Tatars. One of them had fled to Pskov and the other had died. 4 August 1615.

Ivan Odoevskij and Måns Mårtensson decided to allocate Christofor Ivanov the one-third share which he had originally been granted (but not taken possession of), and to institute inquiries concerning the other two Tatars' shares, in order to establish who held what land. These inquiries and the parcelling of the land were to be recorded in the relevant books, which were then to be sent to Novgorod the Great.

Sheets 4–14 are signed on the reverse, across the joins, with the skrepa of d’jak Semen Lutochin.

Descriptive heading on the verso of sheets 4 and 10. August 1615.

Seals of Måns Mårtensson and Novgorod the Great on sheets 7 and 14 (that of Novgorod the Great is well preserved). Seals of De la Gardie (although it seems to be Måns Mårtensson’s) and Novgorod the Great on sheet 4.

Summary
1. Surety bonds furnished by peasants in Šelonskaja pjatina. Two examples:
   a) Peasants in Čerečenskoj pogost stand surety that a chosen representative, Klim Charlampiev, will deliver money and skins to the d’jaki Semen Lutochin and Andrej Lyscov in Novgorod the Great. 25 November 1611.
   b) Surety bond for Inrej Seleckoj, representative of Berezovskoj rjadok, who is being sent to Novgorod the Great with tax and court money. December 1611 (no day of month).

2. Reports from and instructions to various officials concerning requisitions of provisions. Complaints from peasants about overwhelming burdens, from landowners about plundering by Swedish troops, and from officials about difficulties carrying out the requisitions. Petition from the Tichvin Monastery requesting that no requisition of provisions for Ladoga be made from the monastery’s estates; this request is granted.

A picture emerges of theft, bribery and threats at various levels. Sometimes the goods delivered fail to reach Novgorod the Great, and sometimes it is impossible to collect taxes and produce owing to military action or peasants refusing to cooperate, for example because there are Lithuanian soldiers in the area. In one case, rebellious peasants are reported to have seized the newly prepared inspection books.

In conjunction with details of provisioning, a good deal of information is provided about Swedish and Lithuanian/Cossack troop movements.

3. Reports to the boyars from the voevody of Staraja Russa, Vasilej Buturlin and Ivan Sekirin, the voevoda of Porchov, Prince Ivan Meščerskoj, and the voevoda of Tesovo, Grigorej Murav’ev, concerning difficulties maintaining strel’cy and Swedish troops.

4. Report to the boyars from Ondrej Šachovskoj on the situation in Staraja Russa. 8 February 1612.

5. Reports to the boyars and d’jaki on events in Ustreckoj stan in connection with the invasion of the Polish Cossacks. Handed in on 18 February 1612.

6. Lists of provisions (grain, meat, butter, hops, skins etc.) supplied to Swedish soldiers.

Notes
This roll contains a great deal of information about the living conditions of peasants, officials and troops.
Summary

1. Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from the peasants on the Chutyn’ Monastery’s estates in several pogosts in Obonežskaja pjahina, complaining about labour obligations and large requisitions of provisions for Ladoga, imposed regardless of the new inspection that has been undertaken. Instructions from Odoevskij to Vasilej Butorlin to base the requisitions on the new inspection. Draft.

2. Instructions from the boyars to Parfen Narbekov to take grain to Novgorod from some twenty granaries in the pogosts around Ustreckoj stan. It is rumoured that the granaries are full to the roofs. This grain should have been delivered by Ostaš Perchurev in December, but there has been no word from him. If it turns out that Perchurev has embezzled the grain, he is to be punished with death. 31 December 1611. Draft.

3. Instructions from the boyars to Firs Oničkov and under-secretary Selega Fomin. They are to requisition food, furs and woollen cloth in Derevskaja pjahina, polovina Grigorija Morozova. 6 January 1612. Draft.

4. Instructions from Odoevskij to under-secretary Tomilko Rodionov, sending him to Bronickoj pogost to investigate complaints from the peasants on the estate of the Anton’ev Monastery there. Within this pogost, Russian and Swedish troops are constantly on the move, and on the main road messengers hurry back and forth between these troops and Novgorod the Great. All kinds of provisions are being requisitioned from the peasants, including vodka (vino) and beer. The pogosts round about are not supplying anything. Rodionov’s task will be to share out the requisitions over several pogosts. 20 December 1611. Draft.

5. Letter from Odoevskij, Lutochin and Lysov to Vasilej Butorlin and Ivan Şeja Sekirin in Ladoga in response to a petition from Iosif, igumen of the Tichvin Monastery (sheet 14). Butorlin and Sekirin are requisitioning provisions from the monastery’s peasants over and above the stipulated norm. They are also demanding 100 sledges from the townspeople of Tichvin for the embassy that is to leave for Sweden. The letter calls for a more even distribution of these impositions. Draft.

6. Documents of the same type as above, i.e. instructions and letters from the boyars to various officials, and the officials’ reports.

After Christmas 1611, the voevoda Klaus Irikovič (Claes Eriksson Slang) and Prince Ivan Vasil’evič Kropotkin had sent an order from Orešek to the three pogosts of Dzagilinskajoi, Sujdeckoj and Kipinskoj, directing that provisions and means of transport were to be requisitioned for Swedish soldiers in Dzagilinskajoi pogost, through which the Swedish army was due to pass. The peasants of Sujdeckoj and Kipenskoj pogosts had refused to comply with the requisition, and as a result the entire burden of supporting the Swedes had fallen on the peasants of Dzagilinskajoi pogost. A list of what was taken.

2. Order from Ivan Odoevskij and the d’jaki Semen Lutochin and Andrej Lyscov to Matfej Semenovič L’vov, stating that in future he is not to requisition provisions from Smolinskoj, Dubrovenskoj and Opotskoj pogosts, as those pogosts are to supply Porchov. to be received from monastery estates and the estates of boyars’ sons in Bežeckaja pjatina, Belozerskaja polovina. The officials sent there were to camp, from various pogosts in the Porchov area and from the town of Porchov, as a result of the ravages of the Lithuanians on and after 7 January 1612. Estates were plundered and many peasants were killed or fled. Boyars’ sons sent to Michajlovsкоj pogost to make the requisition reported that they had been unable to find a single living soul there. Petr Nogin and his assistants request instructions as to where they can requisition provisions. On the reverse, an address and a note to the effect that the report was handed in by Fedor Ekimov in Novgorod the Great on

Summary
An investigation and trial arising from a complaint from the priest Il’ja Vasil’ev against the crown bailiff Lučanin Eremeev and under-secretary Vasilej Zadenskoj, accusing them of theft of grain belonging to the Crown. According to the complaint, Eremeev and Zadenskoj had not taken the priest with them to Korostynskoj pogost, where grain was to be taken charge of. Despite this, they had ordered him to sign their reports. He had refused to do so, as they had taken some of the grain and shared it with named peasants. The complaint was handed in to the Chancellery on 28 September 1614. The investigation was ordered by d’jak Måns Mårtenson and conducted by pristav Vasilej Ušakov, under-secretary Login Perfi’ev and under-secretary Semenka Kurbatov, who reported to d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev and the Swedish interpreter Erik Andersson. The accused, together with Semen Boborykin, had failed to record in their inspection books all the grain which the peasants were to supply. The peasants had been allowed to keep some of the grain, in return for bribes. Allotments of land had been parcelled out and recorded in the books as belonging to peasants who had run away or died. The harvest from these allotments had been shared between the accused and surviving peasants. The state was thus deprived of grain, while the proceeds were shared between the peasants (though they had had to give bribes) and the accused.

Attached to the investigation report are extracts from books recording the peasants’ allotments of land. After suspects and witnesses had been examined, Semen Boborykin, Lučanin Eremeev, Vasilej Zadenskoj and others were convicted by the voevoda Ivan Odoevskij and Måns Mårtenson of accepting bribes. They were fined a total of 200 roubles and ordered to deliver all the grain that had been withheld.

It is noted that the fine was collected in full and handed to under-secretary Isak Mānschin (Månsson).

Year(s) 1614–1615

Area(s) Šelonskaja pjetina, StarajaRussa, Starorusskoj uezd.

Summary
1. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from rossyl’sčik Petruška Korpovskoj, complaining that the voevoda Smirnoj Otrep’ev sowed rye “by force” in fields on Korpovskoj’s estate in Starorusskoj uezd. Later, Smirnoj betrayed Grand Prince Karl Filip and defected to the “thieves” (vory).
Prince Ondrej Šachovskoj then applied for the use of the rye, and was granted half the harvest. Furthermore, Petruška’s belongings were destroyed in a fire at the fortress, and when he went to Novgorod by boat other property belonging to him was stolen. He now asks to be allowed to keep some of the rye from his estate, so that he and his family will not be ruined. On the verso, a decision signed by Semen Lutochin: “Petruša may keep the fifth sheaf, the rest will go to the Crown.” 3 August 1614.

Instructions to Oleksej Kolyčov and under-secretary Posnik Kuvšinov relating to the matter. The crown grain is to be sent by boat to the granaries in Novgorod the Great. 12 August 1614.

2. Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Aleksejko Kolyčev and Posničko Kuvšinov. They have been instructed to carry out an inspection in Staraja Russa and Starorusskoj uezd, and to ensure that the grain is harvested and threshed and delivered to the granaries in Staraja Russa. Some of the rye from a taxpaying village belonging to the Spasskij Monastery had already been harvested and threshed when they arrived there, and had been taken by the Cossacks. The rest was being threshed by Captain Frans Dücker for his own use. The peasants in the monastery villages are giving their grain to Swedish or Polish troops. Previously, they gave the fourth sheaf to the monastery and 10 altyn and 4 den’gi per obža to the state treasury. Similarly, on other estates belonging to the monastery, order is not being maintained. Kolyčev and Kuvšinov want instructions. The petition was handed in on 26 August 1614 by the Novgorodian Ivanko Perevožčik.

Instructions in response to the petition. The old ukase still applies. Frans Dücker is not to have the grain. He has received a letter to this effect from Måns Palm. Draft. 28 August 1614.

3. Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Ivaško Boranov and Ofonka Bražnikov. They have been instructed to carry out an inspection of the Staraja Russa district, and to ensure that the grain is harvested and threshed and delivered to the granaries in the town of Staraja Russa. A great many peasants have been killed by Swedes, Lithuanians and Cossacks. Those who survive have no horses and are unable to sow crops for next year’s harvest. For the same reason, it is not possible to deliver the dead peasants’ grain to Staraja Russa. The route to the town by water has dried out. Boranov and Bražnikov want instructions from Novgorod. Petition handed in on 30 August 1614.

Report from Boranov and Bražnikov on an inquisition (obysk) in Dolžinskij pogost, Starorusskoj uezd. Handed in on 13 December 1614 by Ivan Boranov.

4. Surety bonds provided by a number of peasants in various villages in Snežskoj and Dretenskoj pogosts. Before Boranov and Bražnikov, they guarantee that several named peasants will remain on their land and pay taxes, as they have said before. The documents are written by Ivanko Ti-chonov, d’jaček of the Church of St Elias in this pogost. (Sheets 18–48.)

5. Further reports on requisitions. Conditions in the countryside are described: When they were in power in Staraja Russa, Lithuanians and Cossacks took the peasants’ horses. As a result, the peasants now have to carry the rye from the fields to the barns themselves. What is more, many barns have been burnt down, and it will take time to rebuild them. The boyars order the grain to be threshed undried. Owing to the shortage of horses, a good deal of land remains unploughed, and no rye has been sown. Some areas are dangerous, as robbers (šiši) are at large. The requisitioners have asked for protection from Swedish soldiers, but this is usually denied them. When they do manage to collect grain, it is difficult to get hold of vehicles or boats to take it to Novgorod the Great, and they ask for the boyars’ assistance with this. The boyars send orders to the voevoda Prince Ondrej Šachovskoj and Captain Franz Dücker in Staraja Russa to sort out the problems.

6. Petition from the peasants in Burežskoj pogost. They complain that they are being forced to pay taxes and other levies for peasants who have fled. Prince Ondrej Šachovskoj and Fet’ka Vitovtov submit a petition describing in graphic detail the relationship between the peasants and the bailiffs (sheets 94, 97–100). Grigorej Murav’ev and under-secretary Semenka Šustov are instructed to seek out the fugitive peasants.

7. List of fugitive peasants in Korostynskoj and Burežskoj pogosts, prepared by Petr Nogin. It states where and in whose homes they are now living. Many are in Novgorod the Great and in Starorusskoj prisud. (Sheets 109–116.)

8. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from starosta Timoška Efrimov and other peasants in Burežskoj pogost. They ask for a new inspection, as they cannot cope with both their own taxes and those of peasants who have fled or been killed. The names of a number of fugitive peasants are given, with particulars of sureties and their present whereabouts. (Sheet 117.)

Fragment of instructions to seek out fugitive peasants and obtain sureties for them. Instructions from Evert Horn and Odoevskij to Grigorej Murav’ev and under-secretary Semenka Šustov to carry out a new inspection in several pogosts in Starorusskoj uezd. Two petitions from the peasants of Burežskoj pogost, calling for fugitive peasants to be traced and returned.

Instructions to Ivan Boranov and Ofonasej Bražnikov from Pjatoj Grigor’ev. The latter may possibly have added to the instructions in his own hand. (Sheet 127.)

Area(s)  Vodskaja pjatina, village of Tesovo.

Summary
On 25 October 1613 Grigorej Mikulin from Tesovo handed in a petition (dovodnaja čelobitnaja) to De la Gardie and Odoevskij making accusations against vydel’ščik Nikita Obol’njaninov, prikaščik Ivan Poreckoj and sworn men who had collected tax in Tesovo. After hearing the petition, the boyars passed it on to d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev and ordered an investigation of the matter on the spot.

Instructions from the boyars to Ivan Boranov and under-secretary Ondrej Beloj to go to Tesovo and investigate why Obol’njaninov and Poreckoj have delivered much less grain than the previous year (1612/13) and why certain particulars are missing from the books (vydel’nye knigi). 28 October 1613.

Report from Boranov and Beloj, handed in to the boyars on 19 November by the sworn man Miška Pervuchin from Tesovo (sheets 11–15). They have checked and corrected the particulars which Obol’njaninov and Poreckoj provided.

Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from under-secretary Griška Mikulin, complaining about the way Andrej Beloj is carrying out his instructions in Tesovo. Beloj is helping Poreckoj and the peasants. Boranov and one of the sworn men have insulted Mikulin, called him a heretic and threatened to kill him. The petition was handed in by Mikulin on 20 November 1613.

D’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev reports to the boyars and decides to replace Beloj with under-secretary Grigorej Sobakin. Instructions to Sobakin (sheet 19).

On 13 December Sobakin hands in a list of state grain (gosudarev pašennoj desjatinnoj chleb) to the Dvorcovoj prikaz.

Information from the peasants in the Tesovo area concerning the quantities of wheat and oats threshed for the Crown in the different villages. The document is witnessed by Ivan Boranov.

Further documents relating to the matter (sheets 25–37), including records of examinations of the peasants. Entries in the books (vydel’nye knigi) drawn up by Obol’njaninov and Poreckoj are contrasted with the real state of affairs.

Extract from the threshing books (desjatinne umolotnye knigi) kept by Obol’njaninov and Poreckoj.

Further particulars concerning the size of the harvest from earlier inspection and revenue books (Ivan Boranov’s inspection) and an examination of the peasants (sheets 44 ff.). Questions are also asked about what areas the peasants and bobyl’i are farming rent-free. The sworn man Ivanko Četveretca claims that he saw Nikita Obol’njaninov recording these particulars in his own hand. Why they are now missing from the books he does not know (sheet 54).

Summary, dated 25 March, of Grigorej Mikulin’s petition to Pjatoj Grigor’ev. Mikulin is referred to here as the former prikaščik of Tesovo. The petition involves complaints against Ivan Poreckoj, starosta Ivanko Chujlov and Ivanko Četveretca for irregularities that have occurred in the collection of tax. Četveretca put the crown grain in the barn of his relative Mišučka Grigor’ev in the village of Zapole.

Pjatoj Grigor’ev has rossyl’sčiki Oleša Epančin and Trofim Nekljudov, prikaščik Ivan Poreckoj, and starosty and sworn men, including Ivanko Četveretca, called in for questioning (sheets 55 ff.). Poreckoj and the others say that they put the grain in the peasants’ barns because the Crown does not have any barns in Tesovo. Obol’njaninov and the sworn man Četveretca sealed the barns, but then Swedish soldiers came and removed the seal from one of them. The interrogation continues over many pages.

Pjatoj Grigor’ev orders extracts to be made from Obol’njaninov and Poreckoj’s books for 1613 (sheets 64 ff).

The case is presented to De la Gardie and Odoevskij, who sentence Ivan Poreckoj, Ivanko Četveretca and Michalko Pervuchin to be flogged (sheet 67). Poreckoj may no longer work in Tesovo. The grain which the peasants have failed to deliver to the state is to be collected.

Instructions to Gost’ Kokovcov and under-secretary Ulan Sobakin to go to Tesovo to carry out the punishment of Četveretca and Pervuchin and to collect the grain, send it to Novgorod the Great and draw up correct records of its collection. 17 April 1614. (Sheets 70 ff.)

Particulars provided by Ivan Boranov, village by village, of the grain which Obol’njaninov and Poreckoj failed to collect.

Petition from Kokovcov and Sobakin to De la Gardie and Odoevskij, handed in by Kokovcov on 6 May 1614. They have had Četveretca and Pervuchin flogged, but complain of difficulties collecting the grain. On examination, Kokovcov says that some peasants are so poor that it is not possible to take anything from them.

Instructions to Ulan Sobakin, dated 6 May 1614. He is to collect grain from those peasants who are able to provide it.

Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Ulan Sobakin, handed in on 22 May 1614 by the peasant Ivanko Moskva from Tesovo. Sobakin explains which parts of his instructions he has carried out. He is now having difficulty continuing the collection of the grain, as the peasants are fleeing and Swedish soldiers have seized several horses. He asks for further instructions.

Summary

Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Fed’ko Semenov syn Charlamov, handed in on 16 January 1612. His salary has been set at 300 ěti and he has 195 ěti at his disposal in Šelonskaja pjatina, Zaleskaja polovina. This estate has been occupied by “thieves” (vory) and he himself has not had access to it for more than three years. He therefore has to beg for his living, at the same time as he is serving the state in every possible way. He recently served with Prince Ivan Ofonaševič Meščerskoj at Porchov. After that he went with Evert Horn to Pskov, then on to Gdov, before eventually arriving in Novgorod the Great, where he is now “dying of starvation”. He previously asked the boyars for land from Fedor Koseckoij’s estate, but this request was rejected and he was urged to look elsewhere. Now he is applying for land from the estate of Mosej Ivanov syn Ovcyn in Šelonskaja pština, Zarusskaja polovina. Ovcyn left no children, and his widow has remarried, to Kuz’ma Čerkasov. The estate stands empty, and there are no peasants there. On the verso: 16 January 1612.

Extract from the land grant books sent to Moscow in 1604, relating to Mosej Ovcyn’s estate. The information was obtained from Leontej Akšakov’s cadastres for 1582 (sheets 4–6). Fedor Charlamov was examined at the time the extract was made, and provided the same information as in his petition.

Report that Fedor Charlamov has left Novgorod the Great without appointing an agent to represent him.

On 9 January Ofonasej Semenov syn Chvostov of Vodska pština handed in a petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij. He had been granted land from the estate of Vasilej Skobel’cyn, but that land has been given back to Skobel’cyn. Chvostov now wants land from the estate of Mosej Ovsyn instead.

Extract from the land grant books for 1612/13 relating to Ofonasej Chvostov’s holding of land. In 1610 his salary was set at 400 ėeti by Tsar Vasilij Ivanovič. He currently has 200 ėeti from the estate of his brother Ivan in Derevskaja pština, and this year, 1612, De la Gardie and Odoevskij granted him 200 ėeti from the estate of the “traitor” Vasilej Skobel’cyn. However, on 18 December 1612 the boyars decided to take these 200 ėeti from Ofonasej and give them back to Vasilej, as the latter had been taken to Pskov against his will.

On examination when the extract was made, Ofonasej Chvostov said that he had received Vasilej Skobel’cyn’s estate because the land he had had in Derevskaja pština had been burnt and laid waste.

Decision of the boyars, dated 13 January 1613. Ofonasej Chvostov is granted 200 ėeti of Ovcyn’s estate. Charlamov’s petition is rejected on the grounds that he has left Novgorod the Great without waiting for the boyars’ decision and without appointing an agent. The remainder of Ovcyn’s estate therefore reverts to the state. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great.

Instructions to nesluživoj Martemjan Pleškov in Šelonskaja pština to carry out the decision.

Sheets 3–12 signed on the verso with the skrepa of d’jak Semen Lutochin.

Summary
Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Afonka Vasil’ev syn Dirin of Derevskaja pjatina. His salary has been set at 150 četi, but he does not have a single čet’, even though he is serving both winter and summer. He now wants land from the estate of Ivan Petrov syn Oničkov. The latter has been killed by Lithuanian soldiers, leaving neither wife nor children.

Extracts from older books. In Prince Michail Katyrev Rostovskoj’s service rolls (desjatnja verstan’ja) from 1606, Dirin’s salary is set at 150 četi; this information is attested by under-secretary Fed’ka Larionov. Extract from nesluživoj Ivan Sjanov’s land parcelling books for 1607 regarding Oničkov’s holding of land in Derevskaja pjatina; the particulars given are attested by Ždanec Molevanov, who has also checked that Dirin’s name does not appear on Mikita Vyšeslavcov and Ignatej Charlamov’s lists of men who have failed to report for duty in Kotlovan Lipetskoj, Ustreckoj stan or Staraja Russa.

On examination, Dirin confirms the information given in his petition and says that this year, 1612, Oničkov was killed on his estate by Lithuanian soldiers. The estate now stands empty.

The boyars’ decision on the matter, dated 15 June 1612. Dirin is allocated 150 četi from Oničkov’s estate. The remainder, 150 četi, reverts to the state. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great.

Fragment of instructions to nesluživoj Jakov Moložaninov in Derevskaja pjatina to carry out the decision. Draft.

Sheets 1–6 are signed on the verso with the skrepy of d’jaki Semen Lutochin and Andrej Lyscov.

Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Prince Fedor knjaz’ Bogdanov syn Kropotkin’s daughters Fedos’ka and Fedorka in Derevskaja pjatina. On Whitsun Eve 1612, Lithuanian soldiers came to Pirovskoj pogost, killed their father and mother and took their brother prisoner. The newcomer pan Petr Privorskoj has received 50 četi of their father’s estate, and the rest, 150 četi, has reverted to the Crown. The girls have not been granted any part of the estate for their support, and now ask for such a grant until such time as their brother is released.

Extract from the books of De la Gardie and Odoevskij for the current year, 1613. The newcomer pan Petr Privorskoj has received 50 četi from Prince Fedor Kropotkin’s estate and 150 četi from that of Prince Zacharej Kropotkin. Of the latter’s estate, 50 četi went to his widow Polageja and his unmarried sister. Of Fedor Kropotkin’s property, 50 četi have gone to Prince Ivan Kropotkin’s widow Tat’jana. 100 četi have reverted to the Crown. There then follows an extract from the confiscation books of nesluživoj Ivan Tolmačev, detailing which villages, peasants and pustoši have reverted to the Crown. The same person was instructed to parcel out land to the widow Tat’jana, but he did not do so as he was unable to find her in Pirogovskoj pogost. This information is attested by Ivanko Zadenskoj.

On examination in connection with this, Prince Bogdan Kropotkin’s servant Ignaško confirms the circumstances described by Fedos’ja and Fedora in their petition.

The boyars’ decision on the matter: Fedos’ja and Fedora are allocated 100 četi from their father’s estate. The rest of the estate, 50 četi, remains the property of the Crown. The decision is dated January 1613 (no day of month) and bears the seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great.

Instructions to nesluživoj Aleksej Alekin to carry out the decision.

All the sheets are glued together and bear the skrepy of d’jaki Semen Lutochin and Andrej Lyscov.

Summary

1. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Bogdaško Ivanov syn Tyrkov, applying for land from the estate of Ivan Sukin in Vodskaja pjetina. Sukin has defected to Tichvin.

   Particulars from the books relating to Tyrkov’s salary and current holding of land. According to De la Gardie and Odoevskij’s service rolls from 1613, Tyrkov’s salary is set at 300 četi. In 1614 the boyars granted him 190 četi in Vodskaja pjetina. Particulars from the land grant books for 1609/10 and 1611/12 concerning Sukin’s land holdings in Bežecka ja and Vodskaja pjetiny. The information is attested by under-secretary Kostja Petrov.

   On examination, Tyrkov confirms that Sukin has betrayed Grand Prince Karl Filip and defected to Tichvin. His estate in Bežecka ja pjetina is occupied by “thieves” (vory), while his estate in Vodskaja pjetina stands empty.

   Decision of the boyars, dated March 1614 (no day of month). Tyrkov is granted 110 četi from Sukin’s landed estate, bringing him up to his full salary. The remainder of the estate is confiscated by the Crown. Seals of Evert Horn and Novgorod the Great.

   Instructions to under-secretary Semejka Gusakov to carry out the decision. 17 March 1614. Draft.

   Petition from Ivan Tyrkov, handed in to the boyars on 11 April 1614, complaining that the peasants are preventing Gusakov from carrying out the boyars’ decision. They are beating the men sent to officiate and refusing to pay any levies. Tyrkov wants the boyars to order Stepan Timašev in Zarečče to round the peasants up and send them to the boyars in Novgorod the Great.

   Fragment of a petition to Stepan Fomič from Ivan Odoevskij and Semen Lutochin. The problem of the insubordinate peasants is presented. Draft. On the verso: Extract from the service rolls for 1605/06 relating to Levka Mart’janov’s salary and estate in Šelonskaja pjetina. All this text has been crossed out.

Summary
Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Michalko Oničkov, asking to be granted Parfenej Obuchov’s estate in Vodskaja pjalina, which has been given to Ofonasej Ondronnikov. Oničkov has applied for grants of land in Vodskaja and Derevskaja pjaliny, but the estates in question have been given to others. He owns only six deserted vytii in Soleckoj pogost. He lost his old estate long ago, and does not own a single peasant. Obuchov and Ondronnikov have left.

Inquiries into Michajlo Zlobin syn Oničkov’s salary and the land granted to him. In d’jak Semen Lutochin’s land grant document (v dače) from 1612/13 it is stated that his salary is 700 ěeti. Particulars of his estates in various pogosts in Vodskaja pjalina are given.

It is also noted that the land grant document issued by Semen Lutochin and Ondrej Lysoev in 1612, Parfenej Vjalicyn syn Obuchov holds 200 ěeti, but that in 1614 this land was given to Ofonasej Ondronnikov.

On examination, Oničkov said that these 200 ěeti stood empty. Ondronnikov had betrayed the King’s Son and gone over to the Moscow troops. His old estates in Derevskaja pjalina were now owned by Moscow people.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to grant Michajlo Oničkov the 200 ěeti belonging to Ofonasej Ondronnikov. The latter had defected to Pskov.

8 August 1614.

Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great (sheet 4).
Signed with a skrepa across the joins on the reverse of sheets 1–4.

Petition to King Gustav Adolf from Ugrim Ivanov syn Lupandin of Beżeckaja pjalina, asking to be allocated the estates of Parfenej Obuchov in Sabel’skoj pogost, Vodskaja pjalina, and the grain belonging to them, which have subsequently been given to Ofonasej Ondronnikov. Lupandin has a salary of 550 četi, but holds no land. Petition handed in on 11 October 1614. (Sheet 6.)

On the reverse: “His Royal Highness has granted Ugrim Lupandin this estate and its grain, provided that it has not been given to anyone else.” Signed by Hans Brakiel (in Latin characters). (Sheet 6v.)

Petition from De la Gardie to Odoevskij requesting the parcelling out of the estate of the “traitor” Ofonasej Ondronnikov, including its grain, to the boyar’s son Ugrim Lupandin of Bežeckaja pjadina. Lupandin has been granted the estate, as well as Ondronnikov’s property in Nikitina ulica. De la Gardie asks for the estate to be parcellled out and for the property to be transferred to Lupandin, and also requests that the latter should be allowed to serve as before. Addressed on the reverse to Ivan Nikitič.

Petition from Michajlo Oničkov’s widow Annica and her three daughters, addressed to Grand Prince Karl Filip, asking to be allocated Parfenej Obuchov’s estates, which have subsequently been given to Ofonasej Ondronnikov, and referring to other estates that belonged to Annica’s husband. Lupandin has applied for Ondronnikov’s estate, but it belongs to no one. Petition handed in on 13 October 1614. No decision. On the reverse, Semen Lutochin has written: “13 October 1614. Paste in where appropriate.”

Summary
Petition to Tsar Vasilij Ivanovič from Lavrentej Stepanov syn Žitkov of Šelonskaja pjetina. Žitkov has a complaint against nesluživoj Janyš Opalev, who he claims has parcelled out estates forming part of Žitkov’s salary to Petr Skobel’cyn’s wife and children. He asks not to be granted haymaking rights in the village of Penkovo, on remote meadows by the rivers Drižnja and Pljusa, despite the fact that the haymaking there is recorded in the pripravočnye knigi and land parcelling books. Otdel’ščik Janyš Opalev has entered this haymaking in the Pelešo pustoši in the name of Petr Skobel’cyn, without first removing Lavrentej’s name from the books. On the reverse, the date 20 November 1607.

Extract from Pervoj Pažinskoj’s land parcelling books for 1599/1600, showing that Žitkov had been allocated land from Ofonasej Eremeev’s estates in the village of Penkovo. Other parts of Eremeev’s estates had been confiscated by the state. In 1606/07 these areas had been allotted to Petr Skobel’cyn, as shown by Janyš Opalev’s land parcelling books from 1606/07. Extracts from Janyš Murav’ev’s pripravočnye knigi from 1571 and Leontej Aksakov’s cadastres from 1582, concerning hay meadows and yields.

Summary
Instructions from d'jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev to Ivan Odoevskij and d'jak Semen Lutochin. They are called on to see to it that under-secretaries Ždan Maksimov and Ivan Neelov deliver to the crown granary certain quantities of rye, wheat and oats, from the estates of “traitors”, which were missing from the amounts they delivered for one/six/one/three/six. March/one/six/one/five.

Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Griška Obol’njaninov, Michalko Neelov and under-secretary Ždanko Maksimov. They claim that the grain was dispatched, but that some of the vehicles were delayed en route. They have since been traced by Ivan Neelov. What is more, the people supplying and receiving the grain used different units of measure – derevenskaja and tañožennaja mera, respectively – and this, too, explains why grain appears to be missing.

Instructions to d'jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev, explaining the contents of the above petition. He is to investigate whether a wagon-load of grain really was left behind in the camp at Belaja and, if so, whether any of the grain is left. In addition, he is to establish how much grain arrived at the granary. If any is missing, it is to be collected from the three petitioners. March 1615 (no day of month). Draft.

According to a decision of De la Gardie and Odoevskij from 1611/12, Obol'njaninov has a salary of 600 četi and has 442 četi of land at his disposal.

Summary
Applications from Istomka Demidov and Tomilko Sergeev to be assigned plots of land in the “Stone City” during the occupation, and decisions to measure out the plots. The third decision, allocating a plot of land close to the property of the priest Maksim to Nikifor Koptev, under-secretary at the Dvorovoj prikaz, arises from an application in II:93. Two of the survey documents were drawn up by under-secretary Rodja Babin, the third by under-secretary Nikita Nefed’ev. They are all dated 1 June 1613. On the reverse of each is a decision, e.g. “Assign a site, where one can be found, and record it in the books.” (Peremernoj spisok.)

Vodskaja pjatina, Kipenskoj pogost.

Summary

Instructions to an unnamed individual to parcel out land in Vodskaja pjatina, by order of Tsar Dmitrij Ivanović and as directed by the boyar and voevoda Prince Michajlo Petrović Katyrev Rostovskoj and the d’jaki Vasilej Aljad’iin and Efim Telepnev.

Semen Ondreev syn Kobylin had applied for the estates of his brother Fedor in Kipenskoj pogost, comprising 300 četi. Fedor had entered a monastery in 1603/04 owing to ill health, and the estate now had no owner. Semen was to enter the service of the state, but his salary had not been set and he had no estates. His father Ondrej, who died 12 years ago, had held estates of 196 četi in Vodskaja and Šelonskaja pjatiny. These estates had been given to Semen’s brother Petr. Inquiries were to be made to establish whether the information given regarding the ownership of the land was true, and whether Fedor really had entered a monastery.

Tsar Dmitrij Ivanović decided to allocate 200 četi of the estates to Semen and 100 četi to his brother Petr. Cultivated and uncultivated land, as well as villages, peasants, meadows, forests, taxpaying land etc., were to be divided between the brothers. February 1606.

Sheets 37

Year(s) 1610–1612

Area(s) Derevskaja pjatina, Lažinskoj pogost. Vodskaja pjatina.

Summary
1. Fragment of instructions from the boyars to nesluživoj Fedor Izdinov in Derevskaja pjatina, relating to a grant of land. The instructions explain that Roman Babkin had been killed in service by Lithuanian soldiers, leaving a wife and children. His estate was then taken over by his son Pabalit, but he too was killed by the Lithuanians. The widow Dar’ja was left on her own with her daughters Luker’ja and Vasilisa. Pan Davyd Oševkin applied for the estate, but concealed the existence of the widow and daughters. He was granted the estate, but when he arrived there and found it laid waste by bands of robbers, he left. Now Bogdan Obol’janinov wishes to marry Luker’ja and, together with Dar’ja, has applied for the estate to be transferred. His salary has been set at 450 ěeti, but he has no land. The petition has been granted, and the decision of the bo-yars is to be carried out. Draft.

Further down the roll there are additional documents relating to this petition, e.g. sheet 26, which is a copy of the marriage contract between the widow Dar’ja’s daughter Gliker’ja and Bogdan Stepanov syn Obol’- njaninov. The original was handed to Dar’ja. The document was drawn up on 4 November 1612 by Kirilko Deev and witnessed by Bogdan Obol’njaninov and Mitrofan Nikitin.

2. Instructions from d’jak Ondrej Lyscov to Grigorej Ofonas’ev, dated November 1610 (day of month illegible). Ofonas’ev is to send ten pails (vedra) of vodka (vino) to Ivan Odovskij on account of the arrival of a party of Swedes. The instructions were written by Ondrej Lyscov himself. Another two documents giving similar instructions (sheets 6–8).

3. Decision of the boyars, dated 2 October 1611, in response to a petition from Ortenej Puljaev regarding a grant of land in Vodskaja pjetina. It concerns the parcelling of land from his service estate (pomest’e) to his hereditary estate (votčina). Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great.

5. Surety bond. Seven peasants in Lažinskoj pogost stand surety before under-secretary Postnik Kufščinov that four other peasants will guard the grain and hay confiscated from Ondrej Palicyn’s estate. The document was written on 2 December 1611 by d’jaček Ondriška Nesterov. It is witnessed on the verso by the priests Samuilišče Kirilov and Nikiforišče Ivanov.

6. Petition to the boyars from Sen’ka Palicyn. He wants a share of the grain that has been confiscated from the estate of his brother Ondrej, as his father’s estate has been laid waste by Prince Vasilej Tjumenskoj and his robbers.

    Decision of the boyars, dated 13 December 1611, concerning the grain confiscated from the estate of the “traitor” Ondrej Palicyn in Vlažinskoj pogost. The estate previously belonged to Petr Narmackoj and has now been granted to Petr Licharev and Ivan Selivanov. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great (sheet 31). Further down the roll there are additional documents relating to this matter.

7. Petition to the boyars from Petruška Licharev. He applies for exemption from certain duties (četvertnye pošliny) payable on his estate in Derevska-pjetina, as it has been laid waste by Lithuanian soldiers and the peasants have fled.

    Sheets 9–12 and 18–31 are signed with the skrepy of d’jaki Semen Lu-tochin and Ondrej Lyscov.

Notes
The sheets making up this roll are not in a logical order.

Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great, both relatively well preserved.
Summary

1. Instructions from Tsar Vasilij Ivanovič to the voevody Prince Andrej Petrovič Kurakin and Prince Ivan Vasil’evič Golovin and to the d’jaki Efim Telepnev and Ivan Timofeev, in response to a petition from Popalit Romanov syn Babkin, of Derevskaja p'jatina, for the estate of his deceased father. They are to make inquiries regarding the estate in cadastres and land parcelling books, and to record in the land parcelling books that Babkin has been granted his father’s estate and that he is to provide for his family, his mother and two sisters.

On the reverse, the document is addressed to the voevody Andrej Kurakin and Ivan Golovin and the d’jaki Efim Telepnev and Ivan Timofeev. Handed in by Popalit Babkin on 11 November 1610. Seal of the Tsar (?) above the address. Also on the reverse, witnessed by Vas’ka Savin, with the annotation: “Fee five altyn”.

Signed on the reverse with the skrepa of d’jak Tarasej Martem’janov.

24 January 1610.

Petitions from Bogdan Pervovo syn Musin, Semen Kazarinov syn Verevkin, both serving in Derevskaja p'jatina, and the newcomer pan Davyd Jakolev Olševskij, applying for Popalit Babkin’s estate. According to Olševskij, Popalit Babkin was killed by Lithuanians in 1612. He had no family, and his estate stood empty.

According to Dmitrej Zamyckoj’s cadastres from 1581/82, Roman Babkin had been granted 110 četi in Piroskoj pogost, Derevskaja p'jatina. According to a letter from Tsar Vasilij Ivanovič, sent in 1610 (see above), ownership of the estate had passed to his son Popalit and the rest of the family (mother and two sisters). However, Popalit had not asked for confirmation (o spravke) of his father’s estate, and it had therefore not become his property.

According to Michajlo Saltykov’s service rolls (desjatnja verstan’ja) for 1605/06, Semen Verevkin had 350 četi, but the estates had not been investigated (syskano). The records of d’jaki Lutochin and Lysov from 1612 showed that Bogdan Musin had a salary of 300 četi, but had only 80 četi at his disposal. Olševskij had 200 četi, but this land had not been investigated. The inquiries made are attested on the verso of sheet 10 by Kostja Petrov.

The boyars decided to give Popolit Babkin’s estate of 110 četi to Davyd Olševskij as he was a foreigner. Bogdan Musin’s application was rejected because he already had estates. Semen Verevkin’s petition was rejected because he had left Novgorod the Great.

Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great. (Sheet 11.)

Signed on the reverse of sheets 2–11 with the skrepa of d’jak Andrej Lyscov. On the reverse of sheets 10 and 11, across the join, are the skrepy of d’jak Semen Lutochin and d’jak Andrej Lyscov. 20 August 1612.

2. Petition from Ivanko Negodjaev of Derevskaja pjtina, asking to be granted Prochor Obuchov’s estate. According to tax books, it consisted of 4 vyti.

On the verso, 11 December 1611 and the order: “Make extracts”.

In 1612 Ivan Negodjaev had been given a salary of 300 četi by De la Gardie and Odoevskij, and he had 150 četi in Vlažinskoj (Lažinskoj) pogost at his disposal. Particulars are given of Aleksandr Obuchov’s estates, on the basis of Dmitrej Zamyckoj’s tax books from 1581/82.

On examination, Ivan Negodjaev said that Prochor had served the state in return for his father’s estate, but had now fled to Pskov. His estate now stood empty for the fourth year in succession, and had not been given to anyone else.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to allocate Prochor’s estate of 150 četi to Negodjaev. March 1612.

Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great (the latter now missing).

Signed on the reverse of sheets 12–17 with the skrepy of d’jaki Semen Lutochin and Andrej Lyscov. Attested on the reverse of sheet 16 by Kostja Petrov.

Petition to the boyars from Ivanko Negodjaev, asking for a period of exemption from tax on his newly granted land. Decision on the reverse to grant exemption from tax until Easter 1612. (Sheet 18.)

Petition to King Gustav II Adolf from Ofonas’ka Bačin of Šelonskaja pjetina. He has managed to get to Novgorod the Great from Pskov. His wife and children have been left behind in Gdov. Some of his estates, which used to belong to his father, have been confiscated by the Crown, and some have been granted to Grigorej Obol’njalinov. Bačin is now applying for this land to be returned to him. On the verso: March 1615.

Particulars from the land grant books of De la Gardie and Odoevskij for 1611/12, relating to Bačin’s salary and holding of land. His salary has been set at 500 četi.

On examination, Bačin says that he was deprived of his land while he was caught up in the siege of Gdov. When Gdov was captured by the Swedes in 1612, he made his way to Novgorod the Great, and now he is petitioning for the return of his estate. Grigorej Obol’njalinov has exchanged his estate in Šelonskaja pjetina for land in Vodskaja pjetina, and the estate in Šelonskaja pjetina has been confiscated by the Crown.

Decision of Evert Horn and Odoevskij, dated March 1615 (no day of month). Bačin is granted 202 četi and 1 osmina of his old estate in Šipeleckoj pogost, Šelonskaja pjetina, Zalesskaja polovina. The part of his estate that is near Gdov will remain the property of the Crown. Bačin is being granted this land because the King has pardoned him. Seals of Evert Horn and Novgorod the Great.

Instructions to the voevody Astrein Ivanovič and Fedor Grigor’evič Aminev to carry out the decision. Draft. Fragment.

Sheets 1–4 are signed with the skrepa of d’jak Semen Lutochin.

Summary
Petition from Senka Gulidov, applying for the estates of Semen Kobylin. Kobylin was killed last year, leaving only a daughter. His estates stand empty. Gulidov states that his salary is 250 ěeti and that he has been granted 170 ěeti in Kipenskoj and Ižerskoj pogosts.

According to grants of land made by De la Gardie and Odoevskij in 1611/12, Semen Gulidov had a salary of 250 ěeti. His estates are described in Oleksiej Tret’jakov’s tax books from 1595/96. They comprise 140 ěeti.

In the land grant books of d’jak Neljubo Sukalenov, which were sent to Moscow in 1604, it is recorded that Semen Kobylin was given 200 ěeti of his brother Fedor’s estate. His brother Petr was also granted land, 100 ěeti. However, no inquiries had been made as to which villages, taxpaying lands etc. these grants included.

On examination, Gulidov said that Semen Kobylin had been killed the previous year and that his wife had been killed in the siege of Orešek.

The boyars decided to allocate Kobylin’s daughter Okulijka 50 ěeti for her support. Gulidov was granted 80 ěeti, bringing him up to his full salary. The rest of the estate, 70 ěeti, was to go to the state. 30 September 1612.

Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great (half broken off) on sheet 4.

Signed on the reverse, across the joins, with the skrepy of d’jadi Semen Lutochin and Andrej Lyscov. Attested by under-secretary Ždanko Alabuchin on the verso of sheet 3.

Summary
This roll contains petitions in which a number of individuals apply for the dower estates of two women, each comprising 50 ćeti. The women concerned are Natal’ja, the deceased daughter of Onton Çortov, and his widow Mavra.

1. Dmitrej Ivanov syn Tyrkov of Vodskaja pjatina applied to the boyar and voevoda Prince Ivan Odovskij and d’jaki Kornilo Ievlev and Semejko Samsonov for the dower estate of Čortov’s daughter Natal’ja, comprising 50 ěeti. 30 April 1611.

Inquiries regarding Tyrkov’s salary. According to d’jak Ivan Timofeev’s land grant books for 1609/10, Onton Čortov’s widow Mavra and her daughter Natal’ja had been given estates of 100 ěeti for their support, in accordance with a decision by the boyar Prince Ĭondrje Petrovič Kurfakin. An extract from Vasilej Beketov’s land grant books for 1609/10 described Mavra’s estates in Ižerskoj pogost, Vodskaja pjatina.

On examination, Tyrkov said that Natal’ja’s 50 ěeti stood empty. He asked to be granted this land, in addition to the 166 ěeti he already held. Ivan Odoevskij and the d’jaki Kornilo Ievlev and Semejka Samsonov decided to grant Natal’ja’s 50 ěeti to Tyrkov. 7 May 1611. (Sheets 6–10.)

Other inquiries arising from a petition from Tyrkov on the same matter (not included) revealed that Natal’ja, who had married Ortem Puljaev, had died and that d’jak Kornilo Ievlev had promised her 50 ěeti to Tyrkov (sheets 1–4).

2. Artjuška Puljaev of Derevskaja pjatina applied in a petition, addressed to Ivan Odoevskij, the cupbearer (čašnik) Vasilej Ivanovič Buturlin and the d’jakt Semen Lutochin and Ĭondrje Lyscov, to be allowed to keep the 50 ěeti of his wife Natal’ja, which had been granted to him by Ivan Saltyskov. 13 June.

According to a land grant document with a red seal, issued in 1609/10 by the former tsar Vasilij Ivanovič, Puljaev had a salary of 600 ěeti, based on grants of land made in 1607/08. An account is given of how Puljaev had come to marry Natal’ja.

Another petition from Puljaev, applying to Ivan Saltykov for the 100 ěeti belonging to his wife and mother-in-law. Saltykov had given him his wife’s 50 ěeti as his salary and the 50 ěeti of his mother-in-law for support. A decision (gramota) relating to these 100 ěeti has been lost.

3. Petitions to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Dmitrej Ivanov syn Tyrkov and the widow Mavra, applying for Natal’ja’s 50 ěeti. 30 October 1611.

In his petition, Tyrkov asked for a land parcelling document relating to Natal’ja’s 50 ěeti, which according to an annotation by d’jak Kornilo Ievlev he had already been granted. For five years, he had been living in poverty in Novgorod the Great with his wife and his servants. His estates in Korpovskoj nezd were in the hands of robbers from Ivangoorod, Jamo and Kopoře.

Petition handed in on behalf of the widow Mavra by her son-in-law Ortemej Puljaev. Her husband Anton had died and his estate had been given to Ivan and Dmitrej Čortov. She and her daughter Natal’ja had received 100 ěeti. Last year, 1609/10, Natal’ja had married Ortem Puljaev, but she had died on St Elias’s Day. Mavra asked to be allowed to keep the land, pointing out that other daughters and widows were given 100 or 50 četi for their support. 30 October.

On examination, Tyrkov said that he had been promised these 50 četi in 1610/11, but that he had not received a land parcelling document, as the estate had ended up in the hands of robbers. The widow Mavra now lived in Orešek, while he himself was serving the state in Novgorod the Great.

Another petition from Tyrkov concerning the 50 četi promised to him in 1610/11. He asked for inquiries to be made and a land parcelling document to be issued.

4. Petition from Petr Chomutov to De la Gardie and Odoevskij. He had a salary of 450 četi, but held no land. He asked for Natal’ja’s estate, for which Dmitrej Tyrkov and Grigorej Čortov had also applied. 21 November 1612.

On the basis of a decision by De la Gardie and Odoevskij, and according to statements from okladčiki in Vodskaja pjatina, Chomutov had estates of 450 četi by way of salary. Some of these estates had been taken from him in 1609/10, pursuant to a decree (gramota) issued by Tsar Vasilij Ivanovič. This year, 1612/13, he had had 150 četi restored to him.

5. Petition from Petr Obramov to De la Gardie and Odoevskij asking for Natal’ja’s estate, as she had died and her land had not been given to anyone else. He had a salary of 200 četi. 27 January 1613.

Obramov’s 200 četi were recorded in Ivan Timofeev’s land grant books for Vodskaja pjatina from 1606/07, in accordance with a decision of Tsar Vasilij Ivanovič and d’jak Gerasim Martem’janov.

6. Petition from Bogdan Ododurov of Vodskaja pjatina. His salary was 600 četi, but he held estates of only 270 četi. He asked for Natal’ja’s estate. 2 February.

Service rolls (verstal’nyj spisok) confirmed that Ododurov had a salary of 600 četi. The extract was written by under-secretary Timocha Odinčov.

7. Petition from Mit’ka Čortov, asking for the 50 četi of his cousin Natal’ja.

8. Two petitions from Danila Skrypicyn of Vodskaja pjatina. He had a salary of 200 četi, but held no land. He asked for Natal’ja’s estate and for the 50 četi belonging to Mavra.

Inquiries to establish whether Skrypicyn held any estates.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij heard the petitioners’ submissions and decided to give Natal’ja’s 50 četi as a grant to Skrypicyn, who had no land, as well as Mavra’s 50 četi for support. The reason he was also given Mavra’s share was that everything belonged to the same estate. The petitions from the others were rejected, as they had applied for estates in addition to land already granted. 6 March 1613. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great.
Instructions to nesluživoj Posnik Gubačev to investigate whether Natal’ja’s 50 četi stood empty and to parcel them out to Skrypicyn. 9 March 1613.

Summary

Report on an inquisition conducted by Petr Ondreevič Nagin (Nogin) and under-secretary Vasilej Ušakov in Il'inskoj-Tigodskoj pogost, by order of Ivan Odoevskij and sekretar' Måns Mårtensson. The persons officiating investigated the estates of Ivan Sekirin by asking priests, sworn men and local representatives how much rye, barley and oats there was in granaries and fields, and about other property, such as livestock, clothes, jewellery, household utensils of silver, copper and pewter, and money. They also investigated how much grain had been given to Swedish soldiers, how much was left, and how much of what remained had been threshed. The report includes statements from a number of named individuals who were examined concerning conditions on Sekirin's estates. It was written by Ivanko Kondrat'ev, il'inskoj d'jaček in Tigodskoj pogost.

Petr Ondreevič Nagin (Nogin) and under-secretary Vasilej Ušakov were questioned by a number of named individuals about how much grain there was on Sekirin's estates, how much had been threshed, who had threshed it, how much had been given to the Swedes, and generally what had become of Sekirin's grain. In addition, they were asked about the activities of the “threshing officials” (zamolotčiki) Mikita Kalitin and Ondrej Neelov: how much they had threshed from the granaries, how much had been given to Swedish soldiers etc. The men questioned described conditions on Sekirin's estates, giving detailed measurements from various villages, including the village of Pelgo, and from different granaries. Among other things, Swedes had been given money in lieu of rye, and this money had been used to buy 12 horses from the peasants. The peasants of Il'inskoj pogost had collected money, 30 roubles in all, and bought the horses back from Andrej Neelov in Novgorod the Great. The messenger Oleška had had 18 roubles left, and this had been given to the Swedes for provisions.

Kalitin, Neelov and others have taken some of Sekirin’s grain for their own use. It is stated how much. Sekirin’s wife Ogaf’ja has had household utensils and jewellery stolen, but it has not been possible to make a full list of the items taken, as Oleša Nazarov, who was supposed to find out about this, did not appear for examination. The record of the examinations was written by Ivanko Kondrat’ev. August 1615.

Instructions to Vasilej Gur’ev to ascertain how much of Ivan Sekirin’s rye has been threshed in Pelgo and in Novikin by order of Mikita Kalitin and gubnoj Ondrej Neelov. It is stated how much was threshed in these two villages on different days of the week. The instructions were written by Ivanko Kondrat’ev. 17 April 1615.

Report from Mikita Sakin and Mikifor Rachmanov, who threshed Ivan Sekirin’s rye by order of Mikita Kalitin and Ondrej Neelov. It is stated how much rye was threshed each day over 11 days. Mikita Kalitin had then taken this rye for his own use. The threshing report was written by Ivanko Kondrat’ev. 27 April 1615.

Report from Jakov Šepjakov who, acting on instructions from Mikita Kalitin and Andrej Neelov, threshed rye on Sekirin’s land in the village of Pelgo. Of this rye, some had been given to two detachments of Swedish soldiers at the Ravun (?) fortress. Neelov had given some of it to Kalitin’s peasants and in memory of Sekirin’s wife Agaf’ja. The report was written in Jakov Šepjakov’s own hand.

23–29 May 1615.

Inquisition conducted by Petr Nogin and under-secretary Vasilej Ušakov in Soleckoj pogost, by order of Ivan Odoevskij and Måns Mårtensson, similar to the one described in the first paragraph, relating to Ivan Sekirin’s estates. The individuals questioned – priests, sworn men, local representatives and threshing officials – replied that they did not know anything. Nor did they know whether Kalitin and Neelov had taken grain for their own use. Ivan Sekirin’s grain and other property had been entrusted to a number of people, including his peasant Oleša. The examination and inquisition report was written by Kazarinko Vasil’ev, pokrova prečistyje d’jaček from Soleckoj pogost. August 1615.

Inquisition similar to that described in the first paragraph, conducted on Ivan Sekirin’s estates in Krivinskaja volost’, Il’inskoj-Tigodskoj pogost. The record of the examinations was written by the priest-monk (černoj svjaščennyik) Antonej Fedorov of Krivickaja volost’. August 1615.

Inquisition similar to that described in the first paragraph, conducted on Ivan Sekirin’s estates in Gruzinskoj pogost, Kereskaja volost’. The record of the examinations was written by Pavlešče Ivanov, pokrova prečistye Bogorodicy pop in Kereskaja volost.

   Extract from older books concerning land holdings in Svinoreckoj pogost. The extract is attested by under-secretary Kostja Petrov.

   On examination, Jakimov said that the pustoši of Velikoe Boloto had belonged to Bogdan Dubrovskoj, but that the latter had turned traitor and fled to Moscow. He wished to be allocated 20 četi of these pustoši.

   De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to allocate Jakimov 15 četi of Bogdan Dubrovskoj’s estates in Velikoe Boloto. Five četi were to go to the state until a new decision could be taken. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great.

   Draft instructions to parcel out the land, dated August 1614. On the reverse, a descriptive heading: “Šelonskaja pjatina, rossylščik Griša Jakimov” and the year 1613/14 (sheet 4).

2. Petition from Ondruška Čerkasov to Grand Prince Karl Filip. Čerkasov had applied for land in the village of Bolšoe Morsino, Dovoreckoj pogost, from the estates of Bogdan Bobošin, and in Velikoe Boloto, Svinoreckoj pogost, from the estates of his uncle Ivan Čerkasov. Čerkasov asked to be allowed to present extracts from older books, and requested that a ukase be issued. On the verso of sheet 5, a note directing that he be given the stated area of land, and the date 20 August 1614. Autograph signature of Måns Mårtensson.

   Another petition from Ondruška Čerkasov, making the same request as above (sheet 6). On the reverse, the date 12 August 1614.

   From the land grant books of d’jak Neljub Sukalenov and the land parcelling books of gubnoj starosta Pauko Kositkoj, it emerged that in 1597/98 Nikifor Bobošin’s widow Grofena, with her grandchild Bogdaško Bobošin, had been given the village of Bolšoe Morsino in Dovoreckoj pogost, with its farms and peasants, as a dower estate comprising 250 četi. At the time, Bogdaško was 10 years old.

   Inquiries into Ivan Čerkasov’s estates in Svinoretckoj pogost.
On examination, Ondrej Čerkasov said that the widow Ogrofena was long since dead, and that Bogdan had disappeared. The village of Bolšoe Morsino and the pustoš of Velikoe Boloto had not been given to anyone.

In response to Ondrej Čerkasov's petition, De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to send someone to make inquiries concerning the widow Grofena's village of Bolšoe Morzino. They also decided to investigate what land Ivan Čerkasov held in Velikoe Boloto and whether the estates stood empty. If they did, it was decided that they should go to Ondrej Čerkasov.

3. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from the newly baptized men Daniło Sekizov and Levka Avlešev, applying for the estates of Bogdan Bobošin in Šelonskaja pjatina. According to land grant books, Sekizov held 200 ěeti in Logoveskoj pogost. (Sheet 13.)

According to service rolls for 1613/14, Levka Avlešev had a salary of 150 ěeti. Kazarinko Bašmakov acted as scribe.

Extract from land grant books, according to which Sergej Michajlov syn Kostjantinov had been granted 250 ěeti of Nikifor Bobošin’s estates in 1597/98. Nikifor Bobošin’s widow Ogrofena had received a dower estate of 250 ěeti. Together, they had 500 ěeti at their disposal.

Extract from land parcelling books from 1597/98, according to which gubnoj starosta Pauk Kosickoj had parcelled out a total of 252 ěeti in Dovoreckoj pogost to the widow Ogrofena and her grandchild Bogdan.

On examination, Sekizov and Avlešin said that Sergej Kostjantinov was a traitor who had fled to Pskov. Bogdan Bobošin and Ogrofena were long since dead. Their estates stood empty and had not been given to anyone. Sekizov’s estates had been taken by thieves from Gdov. Avlešin had no land.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to give Sekizov and Avlešin 150 četi each by way of salary from the estates of Sergej Kostjantinov and the widow Varvara (sic) (presumably Ogrofena). 200 četi were to go to the state. 31 July 1614.

Instructions to under-secretary Semen Šustov to parcel out estates to Sekizov and Avlešin in accordance with the boyars’ decision. 2 August 1614. Draft.

Another two petitions from Sakizov and Olišov. They had been granted land from Bogdan Bobošin’s estates and were serving the state in Staraja Russa. They had been given permission to travel to their estates. Ondrej Čerkasov had arrived there and chased them away. They now asked to be allowed to keep the estates, and requested confirmation of their title to them.

Inquiries into Zekizov’s and Vlišov’s salaries in Šelonskaja pjatina and the estates they have been allocated. Inquiries into the land granted to Ondrej Čerkasov. August 1614.

23 September 1614. De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided that 50 četi in the village of Bolšoe Morzino were to belong to Zekizov and Vlišev in accordance with an earlier decision, and that the same area of land should be taken from Ondrej Čerkasov. The latter had already received 4 četi from the estates of his uncle Ivan Čerkasov, bringing him up to his full salary.

There was uncertainty, however, about the area Čerkasov had been granted in Bolšoe Morzino. The grant was not known in Novgorod the Great. The land parcelling books had not been sent there. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great.

Beginning of a document relating to the same application. Fragment. The sheet is damaged.

Signed on the reverse, across the joins, with the skrepa of d’jak Semen Lutochin (sheets 1–18 and 25–27).

Notes
Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great (sheets 3, 8, 18 and 27).

Sheets  19
Year(s)  Not given.
Area(s)  Ilʼinskoj-Tigodskoj and Soleckoj pogosts. Krivinskaja and Kereskaja volosti. Novgorod the Great.

Summary
1. Inquisition report (obysknye reči) relating to Ivan Sekirin’s grain and other property. The inquisition was conducted by Petr Nogin and under-secretary Vasilej Ušakov, who examined priests and local representatives from Ilʼinskoj-Tigodskoj and Soleckoj pogosts, Krivinskaja and Kereskaja volosti – in all, 4 priests and 37 local representatives. It was mainly concerned with what had become of Sekirin’s grain, but also covered possessions such as clothes, silver and pearl jewellery, money, and household utensils of silver, pewter and copper. These possessions had been kept in pits, and the grain in stacks and shocks.

Priests and local representatives in Soleckoj pogost claimed that Mikita Kalitin and Ondrej Neelov had taken grain from pits and granaries and threshed rye, barley and oats in the fields for their own use. Local representatives and the priest in Krivinskaja volost’ said that they did not know whether the threshing officials (zamolotčiki) had appropriated the grain or given it to someone.

On examination, the estate bailiff (prikaščik) Tomilko Vasil’ev syn Koblelev and the sworn men, Ivan’s peasants Ivanko Sidorov and Jakuš Še parev, said that in Sekirin’s village of Pelgulo and in the Korytino pustoši there were 115 četi of the old threshed rye in the granaries. The quantities of oats and barley to be found in other places are also noted. As instructed, the threshing officials Mikita Kalitin and Ondrej Neelov threshed a stated quantity of rye. The record indicates what quantities of rye, oats and barley were threshed for Swedish soldiers and how much was given to them as provisions. For want of threshed grain, the Swedes were also given money.

What remained of Sekirin’s rye in the village of Pelgulo, and of that of Jakov Šepjakov, was threshed by prikaščik Oleša Nazarov and others under the supervision of a large number of people from Il’inskoj pogost. Some of this rye was taken for Swedish soldiers, and local representatives took some for themselves.

When examined, Tomilko Kobelev and others reported on Sekirin’s other property, including his livestock.

2. Lists of people in Novgorod the Great and those lodging with them, street by street. Sometimes it is noted where the lodgers come from (sheets 11–19). The streets mentioned are Nutnaja, Bardova, Vareckaja, Pavlova, Končanskaja, Janeva, Rozvaža, Kuz’modem’jana, Cholop’ja, Pruskaja and Jakol’ja ulicy.

Summary
Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from the taxpaying malt dealers at the malthouses. Ofonasej Lopuchin, the granary keeper (žitnoj ključnik), has received malt for the household of Jakob De la Gardie, but the malt dealers have only been paid for some of their deliveries in September–October 1611. They are now asking for their money. 27 February 1612.

Similar petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from the taxpaying malt dealers Ivanko Dmitriev, Tret’jačko Ondreev, Pervuška Klimentiev and other malt dealers. 21 September 1611. Noted on it is the decision: “Pay these three”.

Extracts from the books concerning the quantities delivered. The malt dealers are to receive 25 altyn per četi. It is stated how much malt they supplied between 1 October 1611 and 1 January 1612: 223 četi, and for this they are to be paid 130 roubles, 15 altyn and 2 den’gi. It is also noted how much the hop dealers delivered to De la Gardie’s household over the same period, and how much they are to be paid.
Order from De la Gardie to the voevoda Klaus Hall and Mikita Kalitin regarding peasants from Sumerskaja volost’ who are stealing in the Jama area and harbouring “thieves” from Pskov. These people have been wreaking destruction in the vicinity of Novgorod the Great, at the mouth of the river Luğa. Bogdaško Širjakov, a townsman of Jamo, had reported that a storehouse by the Luga belonging to the “English embassy” had been destroyed. Fedor Aminev had been ordered to look into the matter and ensure that those responsible were punished. De la Gardie now calls on the voevody of Jamo to write to Ivangorod directing the local voevoda to order the starosty and peasants of Sumerskaja volost’ not to harbour “thieves” and “robbers” among them or give them shelter. In addition, the voevoda Klaus Hall is to put 50 foot soldiers and 30 cavalymen at Fedor Murav’ev’s disposal in Jamo. The latter is to clear the area around the river Luga of “robbers”, from Jama to Tesovo, so that honest people and merchants can travel in safety. Draft.

Legal proceedings relating to a theft of horses (fragment).

Petition to Gustav II Adolf from Muratko Peresvetov. He had left his two horses at pasture with the horse keeper Radej Semenov and his assistants. The colour of the horses is described and their value stated. When Peresvetov returned from De la Gardie in Ladoga and asked for his horses, he was told that one of Semen Lutochin’s servants had stolen them when he fled to...
Moscow. Now Peresvetov wants Semen Lutochin and the horse keepers put on trial.

Similar petitions from Nikiforec Meščerskoj, Griška Neganovskoj and Istromka Demidov.

Petition to Gustav II Adolf from the horse keeper Radejko Semenov and his assistants. On 17 September 1616, Semen Lutochin’s servant Potaška and Charka, the servant of Ivan Šval’, stole horses from the herd and fled from Novgorod the Great, heading in the direction of Moscow. Several of the horse keepers’ day labourers followed them. The colours of the horses are described. The horse keeper and his assistants wish to be spared any penalties for their own part.

Investigation by the voevody Svante Banér and Hans Boije to determine who is liable to pay compensation for the stolen animals: the horse keepers or Semen Lutochin and Ivan Šval’. They order that a search be made for precedents in older law books, but none are found.

Examination of the parties. The horses’ owners estimate their value.

It emerges that both the horse keepers and Semen Lutochin and Ivan Šval’ are held liable.

Petition to Gustav II Adolf from Semen Lutochin, handed in on 26 September, in which he reopens the case and makes a complaint against Radej Semenov, claiming that his day labourers had persuaded Potaška to run away. Before fleeing, Potaška had stolen money and a number of objects from Lutochin. Their value is stated. Lutochin calls for previous horse keepers and sworn men to be questioned about how such cases have been dealt with in the past, and about what markings there were on the horses. (Sheet 19.)

Banér and Boije order such an investigation. It is undertaken by pjatikonoeckye starosty, and their findings are submitted to the Zemskaja izba.

It emerges from their report that, if horses are branded with the mark of the state, the horse keepers have to pay for them if they disappear. But no one can say what should be done in this specific case, with the city occupied and closed. Banér and Boije will have to rule on it at their own discretion.

Surety bonds for several of those involved, dated 19 and 23 September 1616, guaranteeing that they will not leave Novgorod the Great.

The final ruling on the case is missing.

Year(s)  Not given.

Area(s)  Not given.

Summary
Interrogation of prisoners from Isaak Sunbulov’s detachment concerning the state of the war and other matters. Elčanin Nikifor Nepljuev, astrochanec Ivaško, Onikejko Vasilev and others said, among other things, that Trubeckoj was in Toržek and had a thousand men and seven towns on his side. He was preparing to unite his troops with those of Zarukoj, who was in a stronghold with 500 Cossacks. Ivan Odoevskij and Miron Vel’jaminov had tried to catch up with him and destroy him, but without success. Furthermore, the Khan of the Crimea was waging war at Tula. There was talk of ties with Turkey and Lithuania. Pan Strus was corresponding with the Lithuanian government about exchanging himself for some envoys from Moscow, who were in Lithuania. Strus’s wife was appealing on his behalf. The demands had been rejected, however, on the basis that “a single Strus is not sufficient as an exchange for the envoys”. The document, which has no beginning or end, is undated, but judging from the context probably relates to 1616. Fragment.

Notes
Nikolaj Strus was a colonel in the service of the second False Dmitrij. In 1612 he commanded one of the Polish garrisons in Moscow. He was captured and eventually (in 1619) exchanged in Vjaz’ma for Russian prisoners, among them Patriarch Filaret.

9. Letter from De la Gardie and Odoevskij to starosty, sworn men and local representatives in Oštinskoj stan concerning expected deliveries of grain for Swedish soldiers that have been delayed. The person officiating was Nechorošej Veljašev. In the end, the grain had been sent on three ships “with the last departure for the autumn” (poslednim osennim putem), but because the vessels had been poorly loaded, the grain had ended up on the bottom. No further demands will be made for this grain. The recipients of the letter are warned not to make the same mistake in future. The letter also gives instructions relating to the collection of money in the area. Novgorod the Great, November 1612.

Summary
Instructions to Grigorej Stepanovič Obol’njaninov and under-secretary Ivan Prokof’ev from De la Gardie and Odoevskij, directing them to collect rye, barley and wheat for the state. In 1613, starosty and local representatives in the pogosts mentioned had been granted an extension of time to deliver their grain until winter conditions set in, and a certificate to this effect (perevodnaja zapis’) was to have been drawn up by the gubnye starosty and other officials and sent to Novgorod the Great. Such a document was never sent, and on 3 January 1614 it was discovered that the grain had been stolen. If this grain was not delivered to the state, it was to be collected from Grigorej Stepanović Obol’njaininov personally. Seal on sheet 2.

A number of named individuals living on the same street are questioned about Denis Sapožnik and his wife Ovdocija and their alleged criminal activities. Denis’s neighbours claim that he is running a brothel, and want him off their street. The record was written by d’jaček Ignatko Jakovlev. Witnessed on the reverse by Semenišče and Ivan, priests of the Church of St Egor (sheet 1).

Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from starosta Tomilko Voronov and the sockoj of Nutnaja ulica, on behalf of the residents. In a letter to the zemskoj dvor from the royal lords of Novgorod, bearing a seal and the signatures of the d’jaki, it was certified that no criminal activity was taking place on the street, neither drunkenness nor prostitution. But now prostitutes are living at the house of Denisko Sapožnik, and Swedes and Russians are going there. Denesko and the prostitutes are threatening the residents and making false accusations. The complainants write that they can no longer live on the street, and fear that they will be fined on account of these people. They ask for a ukase, so that they will not have to pay fines. On the verso of sheet 2, a note referring to an investigation into Denisko’s criminal behaviour and into prostitution on nearby streets. On the verso of sheet 3, an annotation by Semen Lutochin concerning an investigation of nearby streets.

Named residents testify under oath that Denis is operating a brothel. The record was written by d’jaček Ivaško Fedorov.
Witnessed on the reverse (sheet 3) by the priests Vasilej and Petr, by Grigorej Chamov, Michalka Isakov and Michalka, and by starosta Tomilka.

Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Denis’s wife Ovdotica. She wants an investigation to be carried out in order to clear her name on Lubjanica ulica and elsewhere.

Summary
1. Record of a collection of money and various taxes in 1614/15 in the crown villages of Porchov and by the Ladoga Rapids in Michajlovskoj pogost, and on both sides of the boundary between Bežeckaja and Obonežskaja pjatiny.

The sums collected were calculated on the basis of areas cultivated, as recorded in inspection and other books. In addition, stipulated levies were collected.

Money was for example collected in Osečenskaja volost’ on the basis of inspection books kept by Fedor Žadovskoj; in the village of Korolevo in accordance with inspection books drawn up by Ivan Kuzminskoj in 1613/14; and in the village of Tesovo on the basis of inspection books prepared by Dmitrej Nefnev and under-secretary Larion Lazorev in 1611/12 and census books (perepisnye knigi) drawn up by Gost’ Kokovcov and under-secretary Ulan Sobakin in 1613/14. In addition, in the village of Tesovo, revenue for the current year 1614/15 was entered in the books, a total of 12 roubles and 5 den’gi plus 26 altyn and 1 den’ga.

Order to collect money on named streets – Rozvaža ulica, Kuz’mo-dem’jana ulica, Cholop’ja ulica and one other street (the document is incomplete) – from gosti, millers, pjetikoneckie starosti and merchants, and to hand this money to the Swedes. 10 August 1611.

De la Gardie had informed Ivan Odoevskij and gosti, pjetikoneckie starosti, millers and merchants that he had taken Novgorod the Great. Boyars, officials, gosti and others had sworn the oath to King Karl IX and asked him to choose one of his sons as Prince of Novgorod the Great and of Moscow and All Russia. De la Gardie and his generals promised that this would be done. He also promised to fight against Poles and robbers.

At Pskov there is now a robber who calls himself a son of the Tsar. And the towns of Ivangorod, Jama, Kopor’e and other towns not in alliance with the Novgorod State all stand alone. The soldiers are asking him for money and are anxious to mount an attack on the “robbers”. But the gosti and others have no funds. De la Gardie has therefore asked to borrow money against receipts, in order to be able to attack the enemy. They are unable to borrow money anywhere, but if they are allowed sufficient time they will mortgage their houses and pledge their possessions and give money to the armed forces. The money is to be collected on the basis of a list bearing the signatures of the d’jaki and handed to Odoevskij immediately. Russian and Swedish pristavy are to be sent to the people concerned. The officials responsible are warned not to accept bribes, and will be punished if they do not discharge their duties. Seal of Novgorod the Great (cut off). (Sheets 1v–4v.)

Details of names and amounts, street by street. Money is collected from artisans and other townsman and from poor people. The sums vary from 1 grivna to as much as 5 roubles. Most of the sums are very small.

Summary
The widow Marica, wife of Ivan Kiškin, applies to De la Gardie and Odoevskij to be allowed to keep the estate which she received as dower land on the death of her husband, and which Ignatej Nosakin has now applied for. He has previously been granted 55 četi of Kiškin's estates.

Petition from the widow Mar'ja, asking for an allocation of land from her husband's estates, which will otherwise be granted to others. (This petition must have been written before the first one.)

According to Michajlo Saltykov's service rolls, signed by d'jak Tomilo Lugovskoj in 1606, Ivan Bol'soj Zvorykin syn Kiškin had a salary of 350 četi in Vodskaja pjatina. Witnessed by under-secretary Feđ'ka Larionov.

Inquiries into the estates of Ivan Bol'soj and Ivan Men'soj Kiškin in Egorevskoj pogost, as recorded in land parcelling books from 1603.

During 1611/12, De la Gardie and Odoevskij have allocated Ignatej Nosakin 125 četi of Kiškin's estates. The widow Mar'ja wishes to be granted these 125 četi. January 1613.

Semen Murav'ev handed in a petition from his sister Mar'ja, in which she asked for land from her husband's estates for her support.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to allocate the widow Mar'ja 50 četi from her husband's estates that had previously been allotted to Ignatej Nosakin. The latter was granted 55 četi of Kiškin's estates. 31 January 1613.

Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great (sheet 10).

Signed on the reverse of sheets 2–10, across the joins, with the skrepy of d'jaki Semen Lutochin and Andrej Lyscov.

Instructions to nesluživoj Oleksej Obuchov to parcel out land in Egorevskoj-Lopskoj, Nikol'skoj-Jarosl'skoj, Vozdviženskoj-Korbosel'skoj and neighbouring pogosts, in accordance with the boyars' decision. Obuchov is to send land parcelling books, duly signed, to Novgorod the Great. January 1613.

On the verso of sheet 13, a descriptive heading and the year 1613.

A note stating that Oleksej Obuchov has not sent the land parcelling books to Novgorod the Great.

Petition from Ignatej Nosakin requesting the return of 50 četi of Ivan Kiškin's estates which had first been allocated to him, but then given to Kiškin's widow Mar’ja for her support. Nosakin’s salary is 500 četi. He has estates comprising 140 četi. In addition, in 1612 he was granted 150 četi of Kiškin’s estates. This year, however, he has had to give up 35 četi to Nevskoj ostróżek and 50 četi to the widow Mar’ja. He believes that Mar’ja intends to marry and that she wants to trade (torgovat’) her 50 četi and give them to Semen Murav’ev.

Nosakin was examined and put his case. Witnessed on the reverse of sheet 17 by Ivanko Zadenskoj.

Semen Murav’ev handed in a petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from the widow Mar’ja, asking to be allowed to keep the 50 četi from her husband’s estates which Ignatej Nosakin has applied for. 28 February.

On examination, Semen Murav’ev, representing Mar’ja, said that Ivan Kiškin had served in Orešek, but had died in 1609/10. Mar’ja has no children. She has a land parcelling document relating to the 50 četi which Nosakin is claiming, but the land has not been parcelled out.

On 13 March, Fedor Brovcyn, a boyar’s son serving in Vodskaja pétatina, handed in a petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij asking for the 50 četi belonging to the widow Mar’ja. Mar’ja is the daughter of Ivan Brovcyn, and Fedor’s cousin.

According to grants of land made by De la Gardie and Odoevskij, Fedor Brovcyn had a salary of 300 četi. In 1598 he had been allowed to inherit his father’s estates of 180 četi. In 1611/12 these estates were taken from him and given to others. The same year he was granted the dower estate of the widow Olen’ja, comprising 140 četi, but this too had been taken from him.

On 16 March Ignatej Nosakin submitted a further petition, claiming that the widow Mar’ja planned to marry and would use her 50 četi as a dowry. He applies for these estates, pointing out that he was sent to Sweden to escort a party of Swedes.

On 30 March Grigorej Murav’ev handed in a petition from the widow Mar’ja. This petition is missing.

The document is incomplete.

As a rule, on the reverse of the petitions is the instruction: “Make extracts” (vypisati). On the reverse of sheet 15 there is also the date 21 February 1613. On the reverse of the petition on sheet 18 is the instruction: “Paste in where appropriate” (prikleiti gde lu).

Report from Ignatko Kulikov on the discharge of his instructions, handed in by Larej Mjasnik on 8 March 1611 (the report is to be found on sheets 113–114). They did not receive all their wages (in grain and money) for 1611, and for 1612 they received no wages at all. This year, 1612/13, they want permission to fish in the millpond. Extracts from previous years’ books concerning revenue from fishing in the pond, attested by under-secretary Ždanko Maksimov. Another petition from the millers, pointing out that they need money to take over a boat and nets from the people who previously fished in the pond. Decision of the boyars, dated 27 September 1613, granting the petitions. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great (sheet 24). Inquiries into the petitioners’ and Dirin’s holdings of land.

Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Mikitka Kurasov, who wants land from the same estate. Inquiries into Kurasov’s holding of land. Dirin’s failure to appear for muster is confirmed by Obolenskoj’s roll call of 14 March 1613.

The officials (gubnye starosty) Semen Gorjajnov and Boris Mjakinin, of Šelonskaja pjatina, were instructed to parcel out land in accordance with the grants decided on below. The petitions are missing, but from the land parcelling document it emerges that Ondrjuška Ivanov syn Naščokin had applied for the estate of his father Ivan. Ondrjuška Ivanov syn Naščokin asks for a new certificate of title to the land granted to him. This year, 1595, the people on his estate have fled, taking with them the certificate of title to the 400 četi he had been granted following the death of his father. Summary
The newly baptized man Ivanko Osanov of Šelonskaia pjatina applies to Grand Prince Karl Filip for Vasilej Esipov’s estates of 100 ětji in Ručevskoj and Ostrovskoj pogosts. His own estates comprise 350 ětji, but 230 ětji have been taken from him. His estates have been laid waste by “robbers”, his wife has been taken prisoner, and all his possessions have been stolen. On the reverse of the petition is the date 23 September 1613.

According to a decision of De la Gardie and Odoevskij from 1612/13, Osanov had a salary of 350 ětji and owned estates of 230 ětji. These had been given to two other people, but had since been returned to him.

Description of the estates of Vasilej Esipov in Ručevskoj pogost, as recorded in the land parcelling books of the bailiffs Grigorej Skryplev and Petr Esipov for 1585/86, and in Ostrovskoj pogost, as recorded in nesluživoj Pavel Nebarov’s land parcelling books for 1600/01.
Attested on the verso of sheet 3 by under-secretary Kostja Petrov.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to grant Esipov’s 100 četi to Osanov, as Esipov was not serving the state. 26 October 1613. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great (sheet 4).

Summary
Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from starosty Charka Fateev and Seljuška Lobanov in the name of all the peasants in Korostynskoj and Burežkoj pogosts. They complain that this year, 1614/15, under-secretary Devjatoj Ivanov, acting on instructions signed by d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev, has ordered six men to go to the vodka (vino) distillery at the Oleksiev Gate in Novgorod the Great. At the same time, Lučanin Eremiev is demanding labour to weed the crown orchards and mend the fences. The peasants wish to be excused from working at the distillery, as so many peasants in their area have fled or been killed.
Summary
Petition to the boyars from Griša Stepanov syn Obol’njaninov, handed in on 6 August 1611. His estate near Gdov has been laid waste by “thieves”, and on his estate near Novgorod the Great there is not a single peasant left. His horses, cattle, clothes and the equipment he needs to perform his duties have been taken by the Swedes. He now applies for land from the estate of Dmitrej Ignat’ev syn Čortov, as the latter has defected to the “thief” (the third False Dmitrij) in Ivangorod.

Petition to the boyars from Mit’ka Samsonov syn Puščin of Vodskaja pjatina. His salary has been set at 400 ěti and he has 213 ěti. He now applies for land from the estate of the “traitor” Dmitrej Čertov. On the verso: 3 September 1611.

Petition to the boyars from Ivanko Munzorin. His salary has been set at 600 ěti and he has 180 ěti in Vodskaja pjatina and 89 ěti in Šelonskaja pjatina, all of it lying waste or in the hands of the “thieves”. He now applies for land from Dmitrej Čertov’s estate. On the verso: 6 September 1611.

Another nine petitions (from Timoška Veljašov, Ofonko Chvostov, Ivaško Suslov, Ondrjuška Miloslavskoj, Bogdanko Zabelin and Tichanko Mart’janov, Kričko Zabelin, Fedor Ivanov syn Munzorin and Danilko Eleckoj), asking for land from Čertov’s estate. Several petitioners write that Dmitrej Čertov is dead. The petitions are dated 5–7 September 1611.

Extracts from older books concerning the petitioners’ holdings of land: service rolls for 1605/06 and land grant books for 1603/04 and 1609/10. The information given is attested by under-secretary Fed’ka Larionov.

Decision of the boyars, dated 20 September 1611. Of Čertov’s 268 ěti and half an osmina, 120 ěti are granted to Ivan Munzorin, as his estate in Vodskaja pjatina lies waste and his estate in Šelonskaja pjatina is in the hands of “thieves”. Grigorej Obol’njaninov is granted 20 ěti, and the rest goes to Ivan Munzorin’s son Fedor, as he has no land. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great (sheet 21).

Instructions to Michail Neelov, gubnoj starosta in Vodskaja pjatina, to implement the decision. Draft.

Petition to the boyars from Ivaško Munzorin. Michail Neelov has not yet carried out his instructions. In a response to a petition from Nikon Buturlin, Pimin Kalitin is going to Ižirskoj pogost. Munzorin wants him to take the land parcelling document (отделная грамота) from Neelov and perform the task entrusted to him.

Instructions from the boyars to Pimin Kalitin, dated May 1612 (no day of month), directing him to do this.

Petition from Mit’ka Čertov, handed in to the boyars on 15 July 1612. He writes that he was serving at Orešek and was given leave to travel to his home village. There he was captured and taken to the “thief” (the third False Dmitrij) in Ivangorod, who prevented him from returning to Novgorod the Great. He now wants his estate back.

The boyars order a report from Prince Efim Myšetskoj at Orešek. In the report, Myšetskoj and others write that Čertov was taken to Ivangorod by force by Mikita Zenov’ev, Pjatoj Voronin and a number of стрельцы.

Examination of Pjatoj Voronin by the boyars. He confirms that Čertov was held prisoner in Ivangorod.

Extract from Michail Saltykov’s service rolls for 1605/06 concerning Čertov’s salary. The information is attested by under-secretary Vaška Častoj.

Petition from Ivan Munzorin, handed in to the boyars on 1 August 1612. He writes, among other things, that Dmitrej Čertov, along with his brother Ivan, went to Ivangorod of their own free will. Ivan was killed in the vicinity of Pskov and Dmitrej was wounded. Dmitrej was lord-in-waiting (столник) to the “thief” (the False Dmitrij) and was granted an estate near Kopor’e. When the “thief” was captured at Pskov, Dmitrej had nowhere to go and felt compelled to return to Novgorod the Great.

Summary

1. Petition to the boyars from Mit'ka Čertov. He is dying of starvation, as he has no estate to make a living from. His four brothers all have such small estates that they cannot provide for him. On the basis of a mendacious petition from Ivan Munzorin, the boyars have granted his estate to Munzorin, the latter’s son and Grigorej Obol’njaninov. Munzorin claims that Čertov is a traitor, but in actual fact it is Munzorin who has been with the “thieves” of his own free will. Čertov was carried into captivity by strel’cy from Kopor’e. He now applies for the return of his estate.

   The boyars order an investigation of the evidence of Čertov having been taken to Ivangorod against his will. The report of Prince Eufimej Myšetskij and others is cited, as is the examination of Pjatoj Voronin (cf. II:193 a). Voronin says that the “thief” (the third False Dmitrij) sent Mikita Zinov’ev from Ivangorod to Kopor’e, where he himself and 50 strel’cy were collected, and that they went from there to Ižerskoj pogost, where three boyars’ sons – Dmitrej and Ivan Čertov and Fedor Brovcyn – were taken prisoner.

   Decision of the boyars, dated 18 December 1612. Čertov is given back parts of his old estate: 120 četi are taken from Ivan Munzorin and 20 četi from Grigorej Obol’njaninov. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great.

   Instructions from the boyars to neslužiloj Nečaj Ošivkin in Vodskaja pjetina to carry out the decision. 18 December 1612.

2. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from the taxpaying townsman Isıtomka Leont’ev syn Železnik of Zapolskaja ulica. The properties adjoining his own stand empty, and he now applies for permission to make use of them. They were previously occupied by Dmitroška Krasil’nik and Mikita Sapožnik (sheet 8).

3. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from the newly baptized man Ivaško Nuraleev and comrades. In 1611/12 they took the Tatar Enalejko Botakov prisoner near Pskov, hoping to obtain valuable information from him, and took him to Novgorod the Great. He is now in prison and is close to perishing as a result of his privations. Nuraleev and his comrades want Botakov released on bail, with themselves as sureties. Granted on the reverse. 28 December 1612.

Summary
Ivan Neelov and his son Andrej lay claim to a horse that has been taken to d’jak Pjatoj Grigoriev. Several horses, including this one, were stolen from a paddock on 29 August 1614. The peasant Eremka Kirilov has also submitted a claim to the horse. Both parties describe the animal. Eremka says that it is marked with the brand of the Spasskij Monastery. He bought the horse for 3½ roubles from the peasant Ortjuško in 1614, but nothing was written in the books. D’jak Pjatoj Grigoriev decides on 24 January 1615 that the horse is to be given to Andrej Neelov. On the recto and across the join on the verso is the skrepa of Pjatoj Grigoriev. On interrogation, Zinov’ev denies this and says that it was Tyrkov who took hay from the pustoši. In conjunction with his interrogation, he hands in a report on deliveries of hay from Vzdylitckoj and Djagilinskaja pogosts, drawn up by d’jaěk Efimko Mikitin in November 1614. Ivan Tyrkov claims that this report is false and that Mikitin is in collusion with Zinov’ev.

His father's estate now stands empty, and Kiril asks to be granted estates in Jarosol'skoj and Tegodskoj pogosts.

In the service rolls (verstal'noj spisok) of Michajlo Saltykov and others for 1605/06, signed by Tomilo Lugovskoj and sent to Novgorod the Great from Moscow in 1606/07, it is stated that Rusin Danilov syn Chomutov had a salary of 350 četi. Under-secretary Timocha Odincov acted as scribe.
For the current year, 1612/13, no salary has been set for Kirilko Rusinov.

In land grant books from 1604/05, signed by d’jak Neljubo Sukalinov, it is recorded that Rusin Chomutov’s estates previously belonged to Vasilej Naščokin and comprised 150 četi.

On examination, Kirilko said that his father had been killed by the Swedes in the attack on Novgorod the Great, and had left no wife or other children. His estate now stood empty and had not been given to anyone. Kirilko asks the boyars to allocate his father’s estates of 150 četi to him for his support until he enters the service of the state at the age of 15. He is currently 12 years old.

Investigation and decision concerning an alleged theft of two icons.

Sheets 20

Year(s) 1611

Area(s) Novgorod the Great.

Summary
Examination of gost’ Stepan Igolkin, who explained to Ivan Odoevskij and the d’jaki Kornilo Ievlev and Semejko Samsonov how, together with d’jak Ivan Timofeev, he had been involved in making an inventory of seized household effects at the home of Michajlo Tatiščev. Among the items seized were two icons, one of them dedicated to St Nicholas the Miracle Worker, and both framed in gold and decorated with gold, pearls and precious stones. These icons were not recorded in d’jak Petr Tret’jakov’s revenue and expenditure books, and their present whereabouts were unknown. When Igolkin had helped make the inventory of Tatiščev’s belongings, Timofeev had not shown him the icons. April 1611.

Timofeev, when he was examined, said that Prince Michajlo Vasil’evič Šujskij had ordered him to make the inventory together with gost’ Stepan Igolkin and other merchants. Among the household effects were the two icons. He did not know why they had not been entered in the books. He claimed that Šujskij had ordered the icons to be given to Protopope Amos at the Cathedral of St Sophia. Amos had requested this as Tatiščev was his confessor.

Under-secretary Fedor Larionov had been sent to Amos on two occasions to ask if he had the icons. Amos had explained that Šujskij had given him Tatiščev’s icons, but that he (Šujskij) had written and asked that they be sent to him.

Amos said that he had been given the icons because he was Tatiščev’s confessor. Šujskij had written to him from Aleksandrova sloboda and asked for the icons to be sent to him. Amos had sent them with his servant Fed’ka, and they were now in Moscow. Amos had received a letter from Šujskij confirming that he had received his household effects. On the reverse, the letter is addressed to Protopope Amos.
Ivan Odoevskij and the d’jaki Kornilo Ievlev and Semejko Samsonov considered Amos’s statement and the letter, and objected that the latter referred only to household effects (ruchljad’), and not to icons. Amos was enjoined to say where the icons were and to give their names. They belonged to the Tsar, and if Amos failed to produce them his property would be searched.

Amos replied that he had sent the icons to Šujskij by order of the boyars. He asked for two weeks’ respite, so that he could send to Moscow for them.

Oleksej Davydov, under-secretary Ždan Molevanov, merchants and uličkie starosty were ordered to search Amos’s property and to bring the icons to Odoevskij and the d’jaki if they could be found. The individuals sent to carry out the search discovered the icons in Amos’s attic.

Amos admitted that he was guilty in the sense that he had initially denied having the icons. It had been his intention to send them to Moscow.

The boyars had ordered Timofeev to make a transcript of the inventory of Tatiščev’s belongings, which included the icons, and to note how they had been described. In addition, they ordered Stepan Igolkin, with the help of silversmiths from the serebrennoj rjad, to prepare a description of the icons.

Timofeev’s transcript included particulars of the value of the icons found in Amos’s house, and was followed by Igolkin’s detailed description of them.

Ivan Odoevskij and the d’jaki Kornilo Ievlev and Semejko Samsonov decided to fine Amos and Ivan Timofeev 173 roubles, corresponding to the value of the icons. Timofeev was convicted because he had described the icons incorrectly in his transcript of the inventory of Tatiščev’s possessions. Furthermore, he had claimed that the description of the icons had been entered in books which Šujskij was alleged to have had with him when he left Novgorod the Great. No such books existed, and Šujskij wanted nothing to do with the matter. When the inventory of Tatiščev’s belongings was made, Timofeev had allegedly told Igolkin, on Protopope Amos’s instructions, that the icons did not have to be shown to him, as they belonged to the Tsar. It was clear that Timofeev and Amos had together intended to appropriate the icons. Amos was convicted because he had said that the icons had been given to him by order of Šujskij.

Surety bonds were to be obtained to ensure that Amos and Timofeev paid their fines. For the time being, the icons were to be kept in the St Sophia Cathedral.

Under-secretary Vasilej Ušakov and Ivan Brjancov were instructed to collect the money and to obtain surety bonds. The instruction document is missing. The roll is incomplete.

The accusations are levelled at the Swede Arman, Anc Termanov’s servant. In June 1614, together with Swedish soldiers from the fortress in Butkovskoj pogost, he is alleged to have stolen grain and livestock, tortured and killed people on the farms, and burnt down farms. They had also taken horses. From Fedor Butorlin they had taken five foals. Jakov Boborykin’s five servants (listed by name) had been tortured to death. Furthermore, cows and calves had been taken. Summary
Letter (podušnaja gramota) from De la Gardie (name crossed out), Odoevskij and d’jak Semen Lutochin (name added) to the peasants in the village of Staj in Butkovskoj pogost, requiring them to obey their estate owner Semen Fedorov syn Murav’ev, plough the fields and pay the taxes and other levies which he imposes on them. The estate used to belong to Ivan Oničkov and has now been granted to Semen Fedorov syn Murav’ev. September 1615 (no day of month). Draft.

On 7 September 1615 Ugrim Lupandin handed in to Ivan Odoevskij a royal decree bearing a royal seal, issued in response to a petition from Semen Murav’ev asking to be granted the estate of Ivan Sekirin. The petition has been granted, on condition that Murav’ev provides for Sekirin’s daughter. The decree was written in Swedish (nemeckim pis’mom) and a draft Russian translation of the contents is given. The draft ends with the date 9 September 1615. The decree also states that the peasants on the estate are to be sent a letter requiring their obedience, and that Murav’ev is to provide for Ivan Sekirin’s daughter Mar’ja until Sekirin comes to Novgorod the Great.

Petition to Karl Filip from Semen Murav’ev. He has received a royal decree confirming that he is to be allocated three villages from the estates of Ivan, Filon and Vasilej Oničkov. He now wants a land parcelling document (otdel’naja gramota) from the boyars. On the reverse: “Have the royal decree translated and issue a letter requiring obedience.”

Instructions, dated 3 August 1615, from De la Gardie and Odoevskij to a person (name omitted) in Vodskaja pjatina, Polužskaja polovina. This year, 1615, Semen Murav’ev submitted a petition stating that his salary is 400 četi. He had been granted 150 četi from Prince Semen Kropotkin’s estate in Obo-nežskaja pjatina, but that land was not accessible. To compensate for this, he wished to be given land from the estate of Filon Onićkov in Butkovskoj and Chrepel’skoj pogosts. Filon Onićkov has defected to Moscow and no one has laid claim to his estate. The boyars have granted the petition. The decision is now to be put into effect and the new particulars entered in the books by the zemskoj or cerkovnoj d’jaček. The books are then to be sent to Novgorod the Great.

Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from the newly baptized man Ond-rjuška Alisin. He is 70 četi short of his full salary of 400 četi. The land he has is poor. After eight years of service he is in debt, and he now wants land from the estate of the “traitor” Filon Onićkov in Vodskaja pjatina.

Extract from Michail Katyrev’s service rolls for 1605/06 concerning Alisin’s salary. The information is attested by Vas’ka Častoj.

Extracts from the land grant books for 1604/05 and 1613/14.

Alisin is allocated 64 četi from Onićkov’s estate in Vodskaja pjatina.

Summary
Petruška Licharev and Ivaško Negodjaev applied to the boyars of the Muscovite and Novgorodian dominion for 150 četi each from the estate of Ondrej Palicyn.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to send the official Posnik Kuvšinov extracts from books relating to the estates of Petr Narmackoj that had subsequently been given to Palicyn. They ordered Kuvšinov to make inquiries in Lažinskoj and neighbouring pogosts to establish whether Narmackoj’s estates had been or were to be parcelled out to Palicyn. If Palicyn was found to be the owner of the estates, 300 četi were to be parcelled out – together with what was found on this land in the way of clothes, other objects, horses, cattle and grain, both in barns and in the fields, threshed and unthreshed – to Petr Licharev and Ivan Negodjaev, 150 četi each, as their salaries. 20 November 1611.

Summary
Petition to King Gustav Adolf from Tichonko Čirkin, a refugee from Pskov, applying for a land parcelling document. His salary is 500 četi. He previously had estates in Pskovskoj uezd, but they have been taken over by Moscow people. In their place he has applied for the estates of his nephew Ivan in Gdov, comprising 125 četi, which used to belong to Ivan’s father Grigorej. He claims that he has been granted these estates and that they were to be parcelled out to him. He asks for a parcelling document, and for the land to be parcelled out. On the reverse, the instruction: “Issue a document”.

Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Tichonko Čirkin, applying for a grant of land. He writes that he owns no land, and that he and his children are forced to beg. He asks to be granted land in Olzovskoj uezd, the estate of his nephew Ivan Čirkin. (Sheet 2.)

Inquiries into the land holdings of Tichan Semenov syn Čirkin show that he has not been granted any land in Novgorod the Great, as he is a landowner in Pskov. His estates in Pskov had been granted by Vasilej Petrovič Morozov.

In cadastres from Pskov from 1587 and 1588 it was recorded that, in Gdovskoj uezd, Kušel’skaja guba, a number of people, including Čirkin, owned the estate of Vasilej and Suvor Vešnjakov, the village of Voskreinskoe by the river Ven’ka. A description is given of the village, with its church, farms, peasants and land. The estate was peaceably divided between a number of individuals, including Grigorej and Tichan Čirkin. In all, they owned 125 četi.

On examination, Tichan said that his brother Grigorej had been sent to Karelia and had been killed there. Grigorej’s son Ivan now owned the 125 četi, but he had turned traitor and defected to Pskov.

Evert Horn and Ivan Odoevskij decided to give Tichan Čirkin the 125 četi near Gdov that had belonged to Ivan, and to register this estate under Gdov. 16 April 1615.

If noblemen and boyars’ sons arrive in Gdov to serve the state, they are to be sent immediately to Novgorod the Great to do so there. And if they refuse, they are to be punished, their estates are to be confiscated by the state, and their names are to be recorded. Drawn up in Novgorod the Great in April 1615. Summary Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Bogdaško knjaž’ Kudejarov syn Meščerskoj, of Vodskaja pjatina. He is “dying of starvation”, as he has no land. His father’s estate has been granted to Semen Meščerskoj, and he now wants a share of it.

According to the records of Ivan Saltykov, Bogdan Meščerskoj should have a salary of 500 četi. In the land grant books for 1604, the salary of Semen knjaž’ Ofonas’ev syn Meščerskoj is given as 400 četi, and this was confirmed by De la Gardie and Odoevskij in 1613. Detailed particulars then follow of how much land Semen Meščerskoj holds in various places. In 1612/13 he was granted 162 četi from the estate of his uncle, Prince Kudejar Meščerskoj.

Extract from Semen Gulidov’s land parcelling books for 1612/13. The information is attested by under-secretary Kostja Petrov.

Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Sen’ka Meščerskoj of Vodskaja pjatina, handed in on 27 April 1613. He has been allocated land from Kudejar Meščerskoj’s estate, as the latter’s son Bogdan left them in Orešek and defected to the “thief” (the third False Dmitrij) in Pskov and swore an oath of allegiance to him. Previously he had betrayed the Tsar and gone to the “thief in the camp” (the second False Dmitrij), and from him to the King of Lithuania and then back to Moscow. Now, though, he has come to Novgorod the Great from Pskov and is applying for his father’s land. Semen asks the boyars not to deprive him of his uncle’s estate.

Decision of the boyars, dated 4 June 1613. Prince Bogdan Meščerskoj is allocated land from his father’s estate – from the part that remained after land had been parcellled out to Semen Meščerskoj and from the part that reverted to the Crown. Some of the land is to be shared between Bogdan and Semen. Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great.
Instructions to nedel’ščik Filip Skrypicyn to carry out the boyars’ decision. 4 June 1613. Draft.

Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Semen Meśčerskoj, handed in on 5 July 1613. Bogdan Meščerskoj had applied to the boyars to be granted his father’s estate, but as a punishment for his treachery he was given none of the 160 ěčeti allocated to Semen. He was, though, given land from the 130 ěčeti of the estate that had not been granted to anyone. Now Bogdan has taken some of Semen’s land and has given him unploughed land in exchange. Bogdan is living on Semen’s land and harvesting his grain. Semen asks the boyars to send new instructions (peredel’naja gramota) and a new official to rectify the matter.

Complaints about requisitions of grain for Swedish soldiers.

Sheets 5

Year(s) 1614/15

Area(s) Šelonskaaja pjatina, Medvedskoj pogost, Strupinskij pogost. Village of Bor.

Summary
An account of what was collected from Ivan Boranov, Fedor Nekljudov and Maksim Charlamov for Swedish soldiers during the previous month. Ivan and Fedor are alleged to have obtained grain by force from other estates. (This is the final section of a longer account, the first part of which is missing.)

In a report addressed to Grand Prince Karl Filip, Fed’ka Nekljudov and Ivan Boranov deny allegations by Prince Ivan Kropotkin and Ždan Kvašnik about their having taken provisions for Swedish soldiers from Medvedskoj pogost. They only requisitioned provisions from the pogosts included in lists signed by d’jak Semen Lutochin. However, the Swedes did take supplies for themselves and their horses when they came from Pskov and Gdov and had one company encamped in Fed’ka’s village in Strupinskij pogost and two companies in Anc Brakilev’s village. 26 November 1614.
Ivan Kropotkin and Ždan and Ivan Kvašnik claim in a report to Grand Prince Karl Filip that they were ordered in a state ukase to collect provisions and grain for the Swedes from Ivan Boranov, Fedor Nekljudov and Maksim Charlamov. They allege that these men stole the grain that was required, and also took grain from Kropotkin’s and Kvašnik’s villages, but not from their own estates.

Fedor Nekljudov says in a submission that the Swedes have taken grain, hay and other supplies from him and his peasants, both last year, 1613/14, and this year, 1614/15. When the Moscow troops were fleeing from Bronnica, the Swedes encamped in his village, Bor, for four days on their way to Staraja Russa, and took oats, barley and wheat. He lists the names of people who knew about this.

The Swedes arrived from Pskov and Gdov on 5 October 1614 and took rye to feed to their horses both in the village of Bor and in Anc Brakilev’s village. They took threshed rye and malt, rye flour, rusks and hops.

When the Swedes were at the crossing over the river Šelon’, they were given 200 loaves of bread by Nekljudov’s peasants. When they advanced on Porchov and Staraja Russa, they were ferried across the river by his peasants and received provisions. Swedish soldiers and others were ferried across all summer. Swedish pristavy were staying with Nekljudov at the time and can confirm this.

Summary
Vas'ka Nazimov and Vas'ka Čebotaev apply to Grand Prince Karl Filip for the estates of Dmitrej and Luka Egnotev in Gdovskoj uezd, Košel'skaja and Kamenskaja guby. Vodskaja pkatina, Djagilinskij pogost.

The estates in question used to belong to Vasilej Čebotaev and Dmitrej Voronov. Dmitrej and Luka Egnotev are “traitors” and have fled to Pskov. Nazimov says that he has a salary of 250 četi and has been granted 100 četi, but that this land has been laid waste. Čebotaev has a salary of 400 četi and has been granted 350 četi, but 100 četi of this land, which are under or close to Pskov, are not under his control.

According to Michajla Saltykov’s service rolls from 1605/06 and a grant of land made by De la Gardie and Odoevskij in 1611/12, Vasilej Borisov syn Nazimov of Vodskaja pkatina has a salary of 250 četi. He has been granted 120 četi in Djagilinskij pogost, Vodskaja pkatina.

Vasilej Čebotaev has no salary in Novgorod the Great. His estates comprise 150 četi, according to the books sent from Gdov in 1612/13. According to a grant of land made by Evert Horn, Čebotaev has 200 četi in Gdovskoj uezd, Košel'skaja guba.

Inquiries into Luka and Dmitrej Egnotev’s estates, as recorded in land grant documents from 1611/12 and books sent from Gdov in 1612/13. Dmitrej Egnotev had estates in Kamenskaja and Košel'skaja guby.

On examination, Čebotaev said that he had no control over his estates in Pskov. He also said that Luka and Dmitrej had turned “traitor” and defected to Pskov, and that their 200 četi had previously belonged to him. He is now asking for these 200 četi and for the village of Voronovo, comprising 20 četi.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to make inquiries regarding Luka and Dmitrej Egnotev’s estates in Kamenskaja and Košel’skaja guby and to grant Vasilej Nazimov and Vasilej Čebotaev 120 četi, half to each of them. 16 September 1613.

Report: On 21 October 1613, the townsman Pervuša Šataj of Il’ina ulica notified De la Gardie and Ivan Odoevskij that the boyar’s son Mikita Obol’njaninov, who had previously resided with his wife and children on Šataj’s property, had disappeared without trace. De la Gardie and Odoevskij instruct Nikon Buturlin and under-secretary Chariton Semenov to make an inventory of Mikita Oboljaninov’s belongings and, following a valuation, to sell them.

Buturlin and Semenov’s report: On 21 October 1613 they went to Il’ina ulica and, in the presence of starosta Jurej Mednik, sockoj Ivan Mikulinec, des-jackoj Pankratej Mjasnik and neighbours, made an inventory of Obol’njaninov’s belongings: a small icon, five loaves of bread, a feather bed, two pillows, a small table, empty boxes etc., stores of food and household utensils. Summary

Interrogation of Grigorej Oboljaninov and Michajlo Neelov on 11 March 1615. In 1613/14 they sent Dmitrej Tyrkov to Djagilinskoy, Sujdetckoy, Ozereckoy and other pogosts to make inventories of grain and chattels on the estates of individuals who had defected to Pskov or Tichvin. Since then they have not seen Tyrkov, but he has written to them and sent them books. After examining these books, they sent Mikita Dosadin, Pervuša Kabalin and a Swedish pristav to him. On the way, Dosadin and Kabalin were killed by bands of robbers, and the pristav was taken prisoner. Consequently, they do not know who has been detailed to guard the grain.

Notes
This document is undated, but it does mention that the provisions are intended for the monthly maintenance of the Swedish troops left behind at the Zareč’e fortress after Jacob De la Gardie had departed for Rugodiv (Narva). On that basis, it may be assumed to relate to the autumn of 1614.

Summary
Krik Voronov and Ivan Sidorov, under-secretaries from Moscow, apply to Grand Prince Karl Filip to be allocated, by way of payment, the chattels of Michajlo Žerebcov. They have previously received 1 rouble each. A list is given of the items in question, which are being held at the property of the merchant Boriska Svečnik, under the seal of the boyars.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to instruct under-secretary Rodja Babin to investigate and make an inventory (dosmatrival’naja pamjat’) of Michajlo’s possessions, together with the starosta and other residents of Fedorova ulica. 10 September 1613.

Rodja Babin’s inventory of Michajlo’s chattels and stores, including copper and pewter objects, grain and flour. 11 September 1613.

Petition from Stepan Ivanov syn Teglev, asking for rye from Žerebcov’s stores.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided to give rye flour, barley and a jar of fat to Krik Voronov and Ivan Sidorov (presumably – their names are not given in the decision), as a supplement to their salaries for 1612/13. They will then each have received a total of 8 roubles of their annual salaries for 1612/13, leaving another 4 roubles to be paid to each of them.

The remaining chattels were sold following a valuation. Hams and salt meat were given to guards at the chancelleries on account of their poverty. Teglev and under-secretary Rodja Babin were also given food. The value of the other possessions is stated. It is also noted to whom the remaining items were sold, and for how much. The sums were entered in books and the money was handed in at the Bol’soj prichod by Ivan Lazarev.

Summary
1. Particulars of areas of taxpaying land, with names of villages. It is stated whether grain has been sown or the land left fallow. The areas belonging to peasants who have been killed or disappeared are given. The beginning and end of the document are missing. Undated. (Sheets 1–5.)

2. Decision by De la Gardie (presumably; a piece of this sheet has been torn off) and Odoevskij to refuse an earlier submission concerning grain (not included) from starosta Ivanko Chujlov of Tesovo village, sworn men and others, who had accused prikaščik Grigorej Mikulin of having taken grain confiscated by the state for his own use, without the knowledge of the sworn men. Mikulin denied this. The boyars and voevody decided to convict Mikulin and the peasants on account of this grain. Draft. (Sheet 4v.)

3. Instructions to Bogdan Dubrovskij and prikaščik Lučanin from d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev, directing them to confiscate for the state a quarter or a fifth of the grain in the village of Golino and neighbouring villages, in Golinskij, Strupinskij, Medveckoj, Svinoreckoj, Ljubinskij, Korostynskoj and Bureskoj pogosts, and in the village of Dvoricy. In addition, they are to collect rent and find out if anyone is growing grain without paying rent. They are also to record which peasants have been killed and to confiscate the grain on their land. They are urged to carry out their instructions without committing any criminal act, to record everything in confiscation books, and to send the books to Novgorod the Great. Draft. April 1614. (3v–1v.)

4. Order from De la Gardie and Odoevskij to the voevoda Ondrej Šachovskoj and rochmistr Franc Djukir to pay salaries for 1612/13 and 1613/14 to three under-secretaries and their families, who had come to Novgorod the Great from Staraja Russa and been attacked on the way by soldiers, losing all their possessions. Draft. (5v.)
Summary

1. Instructions issued by order of Måns Mårtensson to, among others, Ivan Michajlovič Oničkov, under-secretary Grigorej Sobakin and Kuz‘ma Konoplev, prikaščik of the village of Korolevo, to supply grain to the cavalry troops of Captain Klas Kristerson (Krestelson, Kresterson) and to Sifrej (Sigfrid) Munk, Erik Andersson, Petr Brjums (Per Bröms) and d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev. 2. Fragment of instructions from d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev to unnamed individuals to go to an (unnamed) monastery to establish whether its monks and peasants really have been killed by the Swedes and, if that is the case, to harvest the grain on the monastery’s land and transport it to Novgorod the Great in the name of the state (verso of sheet). 4. Correspondence relating to an allocation of grain to the pristav Sifrej (Sigfrid) Munk. Clearly there is a language problem here. Munk has in his possession a list in Swedish setting out his allocation, but nothing in Russian. Erik Andersson is instructed to write a list in Russian. Instructions to Ivan Oničkov and under-secretary Grigorej Sobakin concerning Munk’s allocation of grain. September 1614. (Sheets 3, 10–12.)

Area(s) Not given.

Summary
Rossyl'sčik Trofim Nekljudov brought the peasants Ivaška Nečaev, from the Troeckij-Klopskij Monastery, and Juška Trofimov, from the village of Korablevo, before d'jak Pjatoj Grigor'ev – along with a horse, ownership of which was in dispute.

Nečaev claimed that in 1613/14 he had bought a mare that was bay roan (v čale gned) in colour from the peasant Griša, and paid 2 roubles for her. No contract had been written. It was alleged that the interpreter Irik Ondreev had taken the animal in the summer of 1614 to provide transport. Trofimov said that he had purchased the mare from under-secretary Login Perfir'ev in 1614, before the Feast of the Transfiguration. He had paid 1½ roubles for her. Again, no contract was written.

Pjatoj Grigor’ev inspected the mare and found her to be bay in colour.

On examination, under-secretary Login Perfir’ev said that he had sold a roan mare to Trofimov, not a bay one. He could not remember which side the mane lay on or how old the animal was.

The case is not concluded. 4 January 1615.

On the verso, an order, dated 7 July 1616, from under-secretary Grigorej Sobakin to Oleksej Kolyčov to require the peasants in the village of Trjasovo to make hay for the boyars’ households, irrespective of the number of labourers from Šaterno.

Year(s) 1614–1615

Area(s) Korostynskaja volost’. Burežskoj pogost. Korolevo. Tesovo.

Summary
1. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Šen’ka Boborykin, Lučaninko Eremeev and under-secretary Vaš’ka Zadenskoj. They had previously reported that they had taken 12 horses from the peasants of Korostynskoj and Burežskoj pogosts to transport rye, and as a result the peasants are short of horses for ploughing and the fields are becoming overgrown with grass. Now d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev has instructed them to requisition even more horses. For the sake of the new harvest, they ask to be excused from doing this. Petition handed in on 16 September 1614 by Ivaško Semenov, a peasant of Korostynskaja volost’.

2. Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Ivaško Oničkov. He had threshed wheat from the crown tithe fields in Korolevo and then ordered the starosta, sworn men and peasants of the village to present themselves with horses, vehicles and sacks to transport the grain to Novgorod the Great. At that point, starosta Fedor Titov had asked to be allowed to go to the city to obtain boats, but he has yet to return. Now the oats have also been threshed, and Oničkov has asked the peasants to bring vehicles and sacks, but they are refusing to obey. There are only two granaries in Korolevo, and they are already full. Oničkov is afraid that he will be punished if the grain is not delivered. Petition handed in on 7 October 1614.

3. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Nikitka Tyrkov and Ivaško Prokof’ev. They have been instructed to harvest and thresh the state grain in Tesovo and send it to Novgorod the Great. They are also to have the fallow fields ploughed. On 8 August they arrived in the village and summoned together the peasants, who had been hiding in the forests from bands of thieves and Swedish soldiers. The peasants told them how the Swedes had fought against the Cossacks. Swedish troops had subsequently come from Rugodiv and Lithuanian soldiers from Karelia and Toržok, and they had spent two weeks in Tesovo. Many peasants had been killed or beaten and plundered of their grain, horses and other property. Now they have no horses for ploughing. Tyrkov and Prokof'ev reported the situation to Jakob De la Gardie when he was encamped at Tesovo, but he said nothing, urging them to write to Novgorod for instructions. Petition handed in on 19 August 1614 by Ivanko Moskva.

4. Another two petitions on similar matters from Sen’ka Boborykin, Lučanin Eremeev and Vaš'ka Zadenskoj (sheets 5–7).

5. Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Ivaško Oničkov, Kuzemka Konoplev and under-secretary Griška Sobakin. On 11 September they arrived in Korolevo to thresh grain, whereupon the sworn men Vlasko Pavlov and Terech Sidorov told them that Swedish soldiers had threshed the crown grain secretly during the night, just by the stack. The sworn men had seen nothing, as they slept at the granary with the Swedish pristavy, a long way from the stack. Petition handed in on 12 September 1614 by the sworn man Ivanko.

6. Instructions relating to grain.

7. Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Ivaško Oničkov. On 6 September 1614 Swedish soldiers arrived in Korolevo by night. The sworn men Terech and Vlas heard them. Together with the peasants who had come to thresh grain, they shouted at them. The soldiers then went to the village of Bobrovo, where they plundered the peasants and took two horses. Swedish pristavy have been instructed by the boyars to guard the crown grain, but they do not spend the night there. If anything happens the pristavy are to blame, and Oničkov does not want the boyars to punish him. Petition handed in on 8 September 1614 by Paško Dmitriev.

8. Report from Boborykin, Eremeev and Zadenskoj concerning completed deliveries of grain to Novgorod the Great by boat. Handed in on 15 September 1614 by under-secretary Semen Zverev.

9. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Boborykin and others concerning difficulties sowing crops, owing to a shortage of horses. Handed in on 3 September by Ivanko Semenov, a peasant of Korostynskaja vo-lost’.

10. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Boborykin and others, reporting on completed deliveries of grain to Novgorod the Great. They also report that the Swedes have been there and plundered the granaries. The Swedes were encamped at Verjaž for two days and two nights. Later, a hundred men came with Ofonasej Bražnikov and halted at the same place for just as long. Now there is no forage left. Petition handed in on 15 January 1615 by Lučanin Eremeev's man Yešnjačko Varfolomeev. On the reverse, a text in German and the year 1623.

Now he is dying of starvation, and asks to be released. On the verso, a decision by De la Gardie, dated 6 April 1614, to release Larion Opalev from prison and obtain

4. Instructions to Fedor Buturlin and under-secretary Vasilej Zadenskoj, dated April 1615 (no day of month). 2. Petition from Stepanko Pustoškin of Šelonskaja pjetina. 4. Petition from Družinka Ododurov and Oleksijko Charlamov. While they were on active service in 1611, Družinka was taken prisoner by “thieves” in the vicinity of Pskov, and Oleška at Porchov. 10. Petition from Fetić Tretjakov of Derevskaja pšatinja. He has served under the command of Evert Horn in Ustreka. Horn launched an attack on Lithuanian troops in Boroviči. Many Lithuanians were killed and many taken prisoner. They then went to Mlevo and, there too, killed many Lithuanians and captured a colonel. In recognition of his valiant service, Horn sent Tretjakov to Novgorod the Great ahead of all the others, to report the news to the boyars. He has received no payment whatsoever for this. He now asks to be paid, so that he need not feel ashamed in front of his comrades-in-arms. Added in another hand: 12 December 1611. The remainder of the roll (sheets 17–28) consists of petitions of a similar kind to those above, together with a good deal of text in Swedish concerning payments to various people.

All the petitions in the roll are addressed to De la Gardie and Odo-evskij, unless otherwise stated.

Notes

On the reverse of the petitions there is also text in Swedish and the signature of Måns Mårtensson. On the verso of sheet 16 is the signature of Jakob De la Gardie.
On 2 May 1615, the mason Chudjak Potapov files a complaint with d'jak Pjatoj Grigor'ev against the peasant Melecha Onanin, who lives in the crown village. The d'jak summons the two parties for examination. Chudjak wants 10½ roubles for a horse which Melecha hired for a day at a rent of 10 altyn. The horse was taken away by a third person, the dog keeper Dmitrej, who used it to transport oats to the mill. It emerges that the horse died at the mill. Melecha rejects the claim for 10½ roubles as completely unreasonable. Chudjak presents three declarations, in which he states on oath that various named individuals witnessed him hiring out the horse to Melecha. Melecha challenges all these witnesses. No decision.

Notes
See II:199 for another document relating to this dispute: a complaint from the peasant Melecha Onanin. Note the three declarations, which are not signed by Chudjak.

Three declarations (tri pamjati ssyločnye), 5 cm long sheets.

1. Receipt from Bogdan Dubrovskoj for 20 roubles, which he has received to go “to the boyars” in Moscow by order of De la Gardie. Handed in on 27 September 1612. The same information in Swedish, with the year 1612.

2. Petition to Monša Martynovič (Máns Mårtensson) from the taxpaying townsman Mikitka Chmelevik. Following a fire at Mikitka’s property, Monša took hops for his household and paid only 30 roubles for them. He owes him another 40 roubles. Mikitka has no money to rebuild his house or buy more hops. He now asks for the money. On the verso, the year 1612.

3. Petition from Pachomka Stepanov syn Kolačnik, of Lubjanica ulica in Lukinskaja tret’. After St Simeon’s Day (2 February) this year, 1612/13, the Swedes Matfej and Danila collected 20 pud of hops for the households of De la Gardie and Máns Mårtensson. Pachomka has not been paid for these hops, and now asks for his money.

4. Petition from Ivaško Zolin, asking for a contribution to pay for food. 23 June 1612. On the verso, in Russian: “Go to Monša.”

5. Petition from Mitja Puščin. Grigorej Murav’ev sent him to Kopor’e, where he was wounded in the stomach. He has previously received 1 rouble from the boyars to pay for treatment of the wound. His injured comrades, however, have received up to 4 roubles, despite being less seriously wounded. Mit’ka now applies for the same sum as his comrades. Added on the same side: “26 July 1612, two roubles paid out.”

6. Petition from the monk Isaf from the Spasskij Monastery in Jamagorod. This year, 1612, hops have been collected from him for De la Gardie’s household. He now asks for 8 roubles for what he has supplied. He is into his sixth week in Novgorod the Great, and there is no one to attend to things back at the monastery. 1 August 1612. On the verso, dated 1 August (no year).

8. Petition from Tretjačko Jakuškin. His wife died this month, on 19 March, and he cannot afford to bury her and hold a mass for her. He does not live in Novgorod the Great, and has no landed estate. His son has been sent to Sweden on official business, so he is all on his own. On the verso: “Go to Monša Martynovič, he will issue a ukase.”

9. List of 38 Cossacks, giving only their names. Added at the bottom: “16 September 1612, 44 roubles.”

10. Petition from the millers Omel’janko Ivanov and Efimko Omel’janov. They work at the mill day and night without a break. Last year they received only half their wages (in grain and money), and for this year, 1611/12, they have received nothing at all. They now ask to be paid all their outstanding wages, so they do not die of starvation. On the verso, the year 1612.
Extract from the expenditure books for 1611. The miller Omel’janko is to receive 7 roubles in wages and his son Efimko 5 roubles. They have been paid their wages for 1610/11, but have received nothing at all for 1611/12. Their petition is granted. The information given is attested on the verso by under-secretary Ždanko Maksimov.

11. Petition from the newly baptized man Ivanko Gordeev and his 20 comrades. In 1612 they received 1 rouble each from Captain Karbel’ (Jaques Corobel) in Porchov, but apart from this they have not been paid. They have already sent one petition on the matter to the boyars, who asked for an extract from the books. Although the extract was laid before them, nothing has happened. Gordeev and his comrades now want to receive their pay. No decision.

Unless otherwise indicated, the petitions are addressed to De la Gar-die and Odoevskij.

Notes
On the verso of most of the petitions is Måns Mårtensson’s decision in Swedish (granting the petition), together with his signature. Sometimes the text of the decision is also given in Russian.

Year(s)  1614/15

Area(s)  Derevskaja pjatina, Morozovskoj and Cholovskoj pogosts.

Summary
By command of Grand Prince Karl Filip and on the instructions of d’jak Semen Lutochin, the Swedes (nemčiny) Vlas and Mokej Brjancov arrived in Morozovskoj and Cholovskoj pogosts in 1614/15 (no day or month) to investigate a complaint from Vasilej Trusov (obysknye reči). In 1613/14, Swedes had arrived in seven boats on the river Msta, and in three of Trusov’s villages they had milled 50 čertvi of rye, which they had then taken with them to Novgorod. In addition, they had seized rye that had been loaded into a rowing boat and a larger boat, both belonging to Trusov. The peasants are questioned about the extent of the theft. Carja konstantinovskoj pop Ivanišče Polikarpov acted as scribe.

Instructions to Mokej Brjancov, dated 29 September 1614, concerning grain from the estate of Ofonasej Motjakin. Vasilej Trusov has received some compensation from that quarter.

The sheets are signed with the skrepa of d’jak Semen Lutochin.
Osip Puljaev’s widow Tat’jana asks Grand Prince Karl Filip for permission to leave Novgorod the Great, where she has been living with her people for three years. Her son Ortemej is in Sweden for a year in the service of the state. She has no means of support, and is dying of starvation. All her belongings have been sold to buy food. She needs to travel to her estate to attend to obtain bread and gather her people together.

Notes
On the reverse, four lines of text in Swedish: “Ortemir Pulaief’s mother requests leave to live on her estate in Derefski Patin, without hindrance from our people.”
were all handed over to Prince Ondrej Šechevoskoj. Under-secretary Mit’ka Ignat’ev acted as scribe.

Decision of the boyars, dated November 1613 (no day of month), to have Vtoroj Goleniščev’s chattels valued and sold, as he has left Novgorod the Great and not yet returned. Under-secretary Torop Beljakovskoj was instructed to collect the things from Ivan Volodimerov’s property and take them to the Chancellery (v rozrjad). All the objects are listed, but now many of them are described as old, rotten and eaten by mice. Many items are missing compared with the earlier inventory. Ivan Volodimerov’s servant Vas’ka Osinovik is called in for questioning before the boyars, and tells them that the people living on the property have presumably misappropriated the objects, as they have been there a long time.

Valuation of the chattels. Their total value is put at 2 roubles, 13 altyn and 4 den’gi. At the Chancellery, an icon is sold to under-secretary Šustov and a feather bed to Vasilej Buturlin. The other things are handed to poslyločnoj Mikiforko Naumov, who is to see to it that they are sold in the market.

On 25 November, Naumov handed in 1 rouble and 7 altyn for the objects sold. The unsold items were returned to the Chancellery, where Ivan Odoevskij and Semen Lutochin decided that the valuers were to buy them on the basis of their valuation.

On 15 December 1614, Ivan Odoevskij and Semen Lutochin decided that money corresponding to the value of the missing objects was to be collected from the monk Iona (whose name “in the world” had been Ivan Volodimerov), as they had been deposited on his property. The missing items are listed and valued at 6 roubles, 28 altyn and 4 den’gi. Seal of Novgorod the Great.

The monk Iona asks for respite, and is given until Epiphany (6 January) 1615 to pay.

All the sheets are signed by d’jak Semen Lutochin.

Captain Anc Term (Hans Termo) and Juder Chanov (?) and their 200 men have been stationed at the Tesovo fortress for twenty days. Derevskaja pjetina.

Summary

Petitions to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Bogdan Ondreev syn Musin and Maksim Pervoj syn Musin of Derevskaja pjetina concerning grants of land. 14 April 1612.

Bogdaško Ondreev complains that Maksim has taken his father’s estate. According to Bogdan, Maksim has not served and has not fought in battle.

Maksimko Pervoj syn Musin complains to De la Gardie and Odoevskij that he has had to pay duty (četvertnye pošliny) on an estate which he had been granted, but which was wrongfully taken from him by Vasilej Buturlin. Instead, he has been allocated the estates of his grandfather, Ondrej Musin, and his brother, Fedor Musin. He wants the duty to be calculated on the basis of those estates.

Petition to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Maksimko Musin. He has been allocated Ondrej Musin’s estate, and asks to be allowed to keep it. On-drej’s son Bogdan is claiming the estate.

Inquiries into Ondrej Musin’s estates and an account of the dispute between Maksim and Bogdan. It is noted that Bogdan has 300 četi at his disposal. Confirmed by the signature of under-secretary Oksenko Danilov. On-drej Musin’s estates are recorded in land grant books sent to Moscow in 1604. He is long since dead, as is his wife. His son Bogdan stands accused of treason in Toržok, and the father’s estates have therefore been allocated to Maksim Pervoj syn Musin. – On examination, Maksim said that he received Ondrej’s estate this year, 1612, because Bogdan was a traitor. Bogdan had been sent to Novgorod the Great as a guard with Nikita Vyšeslavcov. Bogdan accused Maksim of having abandoned his post with Vyšeslavcov. Maksim claimed that he had not left his post in Lipenskoj Kotlovan. Vyšeslavcov had sent him to Novgorod the Great with a letter, and he had fallen ill there and been ordered to stay in the city. Then he had been sent with the Swedes to Nevskoe Ust’e and Staraja Russa. – Bogdan is now applying for his father’s estate, which has been given to Maksim. Attested on the reverse by Kostja Petrov.

An extract from lists of individuals who have failed to report for duty (netnoj spisok) has been sent. Maksim is not included on the list from Kotlovan, but does appear on the one from Ustreckoj stan.

Bogdan asks the authorities to charge him duty on his estate.

De la Gardie and Odoevskij decided that Ondrej Musin’s estate should go to his son Bogdan. 24 June 1612.

Seals of De la Gardie and Novgorod the Great on sheet 12.

On the reverse, across the joins, the skrepy of Semen Lutochin and Andrej Lyscov (sheets 1 – 12).

Petition to De la Gardie and Ivan Odoevskij from Maksim Musin, asking to be allowed to harvest the spring-sown grain he has sown in the village of Evanicy, on the estate now granted to Bogdan.

On the reverse, an annotation by Semen Lutochin that it is to be recorded in the land parcelling document that Maksim is entitled to the spring-sown grain (sheet 13v).

Instructions to parcel out the estate to Bogdan and to allocate to Maksim the spring-sown grain which he has sown. A piece has been torn from the bottom of the last sheet.

Summary
Report describing how, in December 1613 (no day of month), by command of Grand Prince Karl Filip and by order of Jakob De la Gardie and Ivan Odolevskij, Ondrej Neelov and under-secretary Bašmak Kontrat’ev went to make inventories of chattels on properties previously belonging to Družina Oničkov, Pjatoj Musin, Bogdan Nogin, Bogdan Dyrin, Sila Ivkov, Semenka Poryvaev, Ivan Boranov and Petr Licharev. All these men had absconded from Novgorod the Great. The properties were on the following streets: Nikitina, Borova, Michajlova and Rogatica ulicy. Relatives and officials (starosty, sockie and desjackie) were questioned. Very few belongings had been left by any of the men concerned. However, Ivan Boranov’s wife said that her husband had left behind rye, oats and barley, 12 hens, two quilts, a bedspread, a barrel of cucumbers and a barrel of apple kvass, but that his aunt, the widow Varvara, had taken everything – an accusation which the latter strenuously denied.

Summary
Petition from Tichan Ododurov’s widow Marica and her children, asking for an allocation of rye from the estate of her brother-in-law Grigorej Ododurov. This estate was first granted to Gavrilo Beketov and subsequently to Ivan Oničkov.

It is noted that on 30 November 1611 Gavrilo Beketov was granted 247 četi of Grigorej Ododurov’s estate in Peredol’skoj pogost. On 9 October 1612 this land was taken from Beketov and granted to Ivan Oničkov. Beketov asked to be allowed to keep that year’s harvest and the stores of provisions (malt, oats, barley, wheat, hempseed, peas and linseed), which were kept in a pit. Oničkov then accused Beketov of having appropriated Grigorej Ododurov’s harvest, of having charged the peasants double tax, and of not having used rye for sowing in the way he had been ordered to do.

Extract from Akinf Murav’ev’s harvest books (uzinnye knigi) for 1612/13, stating how much rye was sown and harvested on Grigorej Ododurov’s estate in 1611/12. Some of the harvest was given to Beketov as seed, and the rest was confiscated and placed in a stack, and was to be supervised by Fed’ko Borisov, starosta of Peredol’skoj pogost.

Decision of the boyars, dated 12 November 1612, to allocate Ivan Oničkov 23 četi of Grigorej Ododurov’s rye on account of his poverty.

Examination of Grigorej Ododurov’s nephew Dmitrej Tichanov syn Ododurov, who confirms the particulars that have already emerged. He also says that Akinf Murav’ev made false entries in the books, for Murav’ev’s own benefit and that of the local representatives. Dmitrej’s father Tichan and his uncle Grigorej lived together. Tichan was killed in service, his estate has been laid waste by the Lithuanians, and his widow Maria and their children are now begging for their living. They wish to be allocated a share of Gavrilo Beketov’s rye.

Summary
1. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from the townsman (posadskoj tjagloj čelovek) Mokejko Lyscov Mjasnik, a resident of Nikitina ulica. He complains that Jakov Kren’ has not carried out an investigation of his property, and asks for this to be remedied. In 1612/13, Nečaj Bobrovnik conducted an investigation following a large fire, in which Lyscov’s six shops and a good deal of merchandise, including valuable furs and rye, were destroyed. Some goods, sent with Jurej Cholmitin to Kolyvan, have disappeared. Others have been stolen. Lyscov’s losses amount to 400 roubles, in addition to taxes. He also complains that he has been overtaxed by Jakov Kren’, who has placed himself in a lower tax category. (Sheet 1.)

Instructions from De la Gardie and Odoevskij to pjetikoneckoj starosta Dokučaj Slasnicyn and fellow officials to carry out an investigation of Mokejko’s taxes and merchandise and those of Jakov Kren’, and in that connection to ask people living in Nikitina and Končanskaja ulicy, in Slavenskoj konec, and at the silk and butchers’ shops. A report on their investigation, signed by priests and the investigators themselves, is to be sent to De la Gardie and Odoevskij. Signed by d’jak Semen Lutochin. 13 February 1614. (Sheet iv.)

Three examination and investigation reports, prepared by order of De la Gardie and Odoevskij:
Dokučaj Slasnicyn asked a large number of named residents of Nikitina and Manicyna ulicy about Mokej’s property, but they did not know how much had been destroyed in the fire or how much had been stolen. Mokej has been placed in a high tax category because he is single, with no children or nephews and nieces. The report was written by under-secretary Griša Brefin. Signed by priests across the joins on the reverse. (Sheets 2–4.)

On the instructions of Dokučaj Slasnicyn, slavenskoj starosta Larion Perevoznik asked residents of streets outside the city about the property and taxes of Mokej Lyscov and Jakov Kren’. The people questioned knew that Jakov had appropriated property belonging to Fedor Popov and Onton Šelkovnik, but not how much. Apart from that, they knew nothing. The record of their examination was drawn up by petrovskoj d'jaček Šen'ka Jur'ev. On the reverse, signed by the priest Lazorišče Borisov on behalf of the residents. (Sheet 5.)

On Dokučaj Slasnicyn’s instructions, slavenskoj starosta Ovsej Lin’ev, of Končanskaja ulica, asked the residents of that street about the property and taxes of Mokej Lyscov and Jakov Kren’. They gave the same answers as in the preceding examination record. February 1614. (Sheet 6.)

3. Confiscation of rye for Swedish soldiers. Draft. (Sheet 7v.)

Summary
Petition to the boyars from Matfej Dirin’s widow Ovdot’ja, of Derevskaja pjetina. Her husband has been killed in service by Lithuanian soldiers. He had supported himself from his father’s estate, which had been divided between Matfej and his two brothers. The two surviving brothers have now appropriated Matfej’s share of the estate. Ovdot’ja asks for a dower estate for herself and her two daughters Marinka and Irinka.

Transcript of the document by which Matvej Dirin and his brothers divided up their father’s estate, farm by farm. Vasilej Rumjancov, Osan Chvostov and Grigorej Mel’nickoj acted as witnesses and Ignaško Fomin as scribe.

On examination, the widow Ovdot’ja says that the estate was previously divided up amicably among four brothers and three sisters. The eldest sister has since married Ivan Rozladin. Now Ovdot’ja and her daughters have been driven from the estate by her husband’s brothers, and are having to beg for their living.

Petition to the boyars from Matvej Dirin’s brothers Juška and Ivaško, making the same accusations as above against the widow Ovdot’ja. They wish to keep Matvej’s share of the estate.

Extract from the service rolls of Prince Michail Rostovskoj Katyrev for 1605/06 concerning Matvej Dirin’s salary. At the time, Matvej had recently come of age, and his brothers were 11 and 6 years old.

Two petitions from the widow Ovdot’ja, handed in on 4 January 1613, asking the boyars to disregard the petition from her brothers-in-law. She wishes to confront her husband’s relatives before the boyars.

Decision of the boyars, dated 16 January 1613. The widow Ovdot’ja and her two daughters are granted three-quarters of Matvej Dirin’s share of the estate. One-quarter is to go to the sister with whose support Matvej had been entrusted. The other sister is to be provided for by the brothers Jurej and Ivan. Summary Petition to De la Gardie and Ivan Odoevskij from Ovodotica, the widow of Bulat Nepejcyn. Her husband has been killed by Lithuanians, and she herself has been held captive. The grain on her husband’s estates in the village of Seglino has been confiscated by the state at the request of Družina Oničkov, who has taken over his debts. The widow asks to be given enough of the grain to pay off the debts and make a gift in memory of her husband. On the reverse, the instruction: “Record how much grain”.

Inquiries are made into the ownership of the grain.

Last year, on 12 August 1612, Družina Oničkov had handed in to the boyars a “written undertaking and inventory” relating to an estate in Derevskaja pjatina, in the village of Seglino, with its pustoši, 8 obži, which his grandmother Onus’ja had transferred to him. Bulat Nepejcyn was to take the grain harvested on the estate to Novgorod the Great and to give the proceeds to Onus’ja. He had failed to do this. Instead, he is alleged to have sold the grain for 50 roubles. Now Bulat is dead and his wife has been held captive by Lithuanians.

Bulat Nepejcyn had claimed in an undertaking that his aunt Onus’ja had given him 80 ěeti of her estate in Seglino. He was to transport her grain to Novgorod the Great and, as provided in the undertaking, receive half of it. He had failed to do this, and a claim for 50 roubles should now be made against him. Written on 15 May 1611.

An order to make inquiries in Derevskaja pjatina as to whether all the information in the undertakings submitted was correct. August 1612.

On the reverse, across the joins (sheets 1–5), the skrepy of d’jaki Semen Lutochin and Andrej Lyscov.

Funds are needed, among other things to receive Grand Prince Karl Filip, and boards and other timber are being brought in to build a house for him. The inhabitants are urged not to protest, as no one in the rest of the Novgorod area is protesting. Draft.

Two petitions to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Ortremej Osipov syn Puljaev, asking to be granted abandoned parts of the crown village of Novinka in Derevskaja pjatina. His salary is 600 četi, but he holds only 395 četi. The estates granted to him have been laid waste by Lithuanians and Swedes.

On the reverse of sheet 1, a note by Semen Lutochin to the effect that the abandoned parts of the village are to be given to Puljaev, but that the peasants are not to be included in the grant.

Particulars of the land, peasants, and cultivated and abandoned areas of the village of Novinka, as recorded in Prince Vasilej Zvenigorodskoj’s tax books from 1584, Oleksej Odin cov’s inspection books from 1611, Stepan Laptev’s inspection books from 1612, and under-secretary Omel’jan Elizarov’s “inquisition record” (obysknoj spisok) from 1612.

Summary
1. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Nikita Tyrkov and Ivaško Prokof’ev. They complain – not for the first time, as they point out – that Swedish troops on their way to and from Novgorod the Great are making excessive requisitions of hay in Tesovo and the surrounding area. Petition handed in by Petr Sobakin on 23 November 1613.
2. Report to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Nikita Tyrkov. He reports that on 3 November (no year) he sent haymaking books (zakosnye knigi), together with a record of the election of sworn men and surety bonds, from Tesovo to Novgorod the Great with under-secretary Ivan Prokof’ev.
3. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Nikita Tyrkov and Ivaško Prokof’ev, complaining bitterly about the depredations of Swedish officers and soldiers in various crown villages around Tesovo. Handed in by Istomka Ivanov, a peasant from Tesovo, on 1 November 1614.
4. Petition to Grand Prince Karl Filip from Nikita Tyrkov and Ivaško Prokof’ev. On 21 November they wrote to the boyars of Novgorod the Great, informing them that they had taken four wagonloads of hay from the company of Juren Chanov (Göran Hansson?) and left this hay, which belonged to the Crown, in the village of Zapol’e near Tesovo. On 23 November, 53 men from Krister Hansson's company arrived, scattered the hay and plundered grain and other property from the peasants, heedless of Tyrkov and Prokof'ev's protests. They have informed the lieutenant of Göran Hansson's company about the incident, so as not to fall into disfavour on account of the hay. The petition was handed in by Petr Sobakin on 23 November 1614.

6. Detailed instructions to under-secretary Fedor Charlamov and Login Perfir'ev, dated 4 July 1615. They are to go to the crown villages of Korolevo, Rakomo and Tesovo to requisition labour for haymaking, a total of 40 people with scythes, rakes and three months' supplies. The hay is then to be closely guarded by sworn men, and subsequently horses and carts are to be procured.

7. Instructions to prikaščik Lučanin Eremeev, dated 4 July 1615, directing him to find as soon as possible, in Korostynskoj and other pogosts, ten people with scythes, rakes and three months' supplies. He is to obtain reliable sureties for them, to ensure that they complete the work and do not run away. The surety bonds are to be sent to Pjatoj Grigor'ev at the Dvorcovoj prikaz.

10. Fragment of instructions on how order is to be maintained in the taverns. Probably 1600–1604 (the document is undated, but it refers to d'jak Grigorej Trusov, who was active in Novgorod the Great during this period). The text has been crossed out.

Summary

1. Two sharply worded letters from De la Gardie and Odoevskij to Ondrej Konstjantinović Šechovskoj, voevoda of Staraja Russa, and under-secretary Fedor Vitoftov, insisting that they ensure that outstanding revenue from the townspeople of Staraja Russa and the peasants of the surrounding pogosts is sent to Novgorod the Great without delay. Draft. Undated.
2. Order from the boyars to Prince Mikifor Meščerskoj and under-secretary Semen Sobakin to go to Staraja Russa and Starorusskoj uezd to conduct a new inspection following the ravages of the Lithuanians. 3 July 1612. Draft.

3. Order from the boyars to Šechovskoj and Vitoftov to report on operations at the salt boileries. 1612 (no day or month). Draft. Further documents relating to deliveries of salt. Drafts.

4. Letter from De la Gardie to d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev, referring to the order given to Mikifor Jakovlevič Meščerskoj and under-secretary Semen Sobakin to inspect areas which, owing to military action, have not previously been inspected (Staraja Russa and Starorusskoj uezd).

5. Two letters from Pjatoj Grigor’ev to Šachovskoj and Vitoftov (sheets 23 ff.), presumably in his own hand, concerning among other matters the inspection of areas not inspected by Luka Miloslavskoj. Filon Oniček has been entrusted with carrying out the inspection. Rye that has been sown on land farmed by peasants who have been killed or fled from the Lithuanians is to be harvested and confiscated by the state. Draft.

6. Several letters to De la Gardie and Odoevskij from Ondruša Šachovskoj and Fed’ka Vitoftov concerning various tasks entrusted to them, including inspections (here, Ivan Nazimov and under-secretary Fedor Charlamov are mentioned). They also deal with land that has been classed as abandoned (pustye učastki) because the peasants have died, fled or been taken prisoner. The peasants who remain want this classification to be rescinded. In addition, the letters refer to taxes in the form of money that are to be collected from the pogosts around Staraja Russa, and to forage for the Swedes’ horses in preparation for the arrival of Karl Filip. Forage is proving difficult to come by, as the meadows are waterlogged and cannot be mown. There is also a report on the salt boileries. Šachovskoj and Vitoftov have been instructed to report how many lub of salt there are in Staraja Russa. The salt is to be sent to Novgorod the Great, using boats taken from the townspeople and the monasteries. However, the salt boileries have had great difficulty obtaining firewood. Three boileries are reported to be operating on 3 July, and another two are ready to begin operations as soon as firewood is available. Šachovskoj and Vitoftov promise to report how many lub of salt are produced. They are worried, though, that some salt will be sold on the open market (vol’nym torgom), and if the peasants are given permission to do this, the salt boileries will come to a standstill. (Sheets 36–42.)

7. Report from rossyl’ščik Bogdan Podol’skoj who, by order of Šachovskoj and Vitoftov, has carried out an inspection of the pogosts around Staraja Russa.

8. Report to Pjatoj Grigor’ev from Šachovskoj and Vitoftov on the steps they have taken to ensure, as ordered, that the rye sown in the fields of dead or missing peasants is harvested and confiscated by the Crown.
9. Petition to the boyars from the peasants of three villages in Čertickoj pogost. Starosta Vlasko Kirilov reports how, on Friday 29 and Saturday 30 May (v pominal’nuju subotu) 1612, Swedish soldiers plundered the villages, making off with livestock (cattle, pigs and sheep) and food. The peasants ask for a ukase from the boyars to save them from ruin.

This is followed by several complaints from peasants about Cossacks who passed through Dretenskoj, Ramyševskoj and Dolžinskij pogosts between Whitsun and the Fast of St Peter (i.e. at least the whole of June), pillaging, killing, and taking prisoners and torturing them.

11. A long petition to the boyars from Ždanko Petrov syn Subotin, a servant at the Spasskij Monastery, concerning the apple orchard which he leases on land belonging to the state and to the Nikolo-Ostrovskij Monastery, and for which he pays a regular rent. Now starosta Bogdan Makataškin in Staraja Russa has registered him as a taxpaying townsman, even though he does not live in the town or engage in any craft. He asks to be relieved of this unjust imposition.

12. Petition to the boyars from Filaret, kelar’ at the Jur’ev Monastery, concerning the monastery’s salt boileries in Staraja Russa and problems with its operation. He points out, among other things, that the boileries produce salt for use at the monastery, and not for sale, and asks that there be no change in the conditions that have previously applied.

13. Petition to the boyars from Ivanko Martem’janov, a taxpaying townsman of Staraja Russa, who “before the prohibition” had purchased firewood for his salt boileries. Now the wood is waiting by the river Lovat’, and he is unable to have it transported to the boileries.

14. Petition to the boyars from Fedor Korpovskoj’s widow Agafica. Korpovskoj was a rossyl’sčik in Staraja Russa and has been killed by Lithuanian soldiers. Agafica asks for a dower estate from her husband’s land (1 obža). On the verso, the order: “Issue a letter to Staraja Russa saying that they should do as was customary before.” (Sheet 64.)

All four petitions are accompanied by draft instructions from Pjatoj Grigor’ev to Šachovskoj and Vitoftev to rectify matters. The instructions quote the petitions almost verbatim. They are probably in Pjatoj Grigor’ev’s own hand.

Year(s) 1612, 1613

Area(s) Vodskaja, Derevskaja and Šelonskaja pjadiny, Lake Il’men’, Novgorod the Great, Korostynskoj and Burežskoj pogosts, the villages of Trjasovo, Golino, Rakomo and Cholyn’, and other areas.

Summary
Petitions for leases relating to cultivation of grain, haymaking or fishing, together with associated documents, including surety bonds and references to older books, among them cadastres from 1500, 1563, 1564 and 1584, books of leases from 1564, and payment books from 1573. There is also a petition to lease the right to collect duties, and another requesting permission to rebuild a farm. In most cases, the same pattern recurs: first there is the petition itself, then extracts from older books stating who held the lease before, where the area is located, and that it is now vacant, and finally the contents of the petition are reiterated. Sometimes a surety bond is attached. The decision is divided up, the first part being written across the joins on the recto and the rest below the text on the recto. The petitions are addressed to De la Gardie and Odoevskij or, in the case of the last three, to Grand Prince Karl Filip.

The areas and places mentioned include Vodskaja, Derevskaja and Šelonskaja pjadiny, Lake Il’men’, Novgorod the Great, the villages of Trjasovo, Golino, Rakomo and Cholyn’, Korostynskoj and Bureskoj pogosts, and the rivers Šelon’, Msta and Kormino (?).

On the reverse of the last sheet relating to each petition, an under-secretary has written the word spravil (attested) and his name. A total of 43 petitions, most of them for leases of haymaking rights. All of them are for the year 1612/13.

Examples:
1. Efrosenica, the widow of Petr Narmackoj, of Vlažinskoj pogost, Derevskaja pjadina, applies for the right to fish in a quarter of Lake Kolovo, which since her husband’s death has not been used for fishing. She asks for the rent for the fishery to be determined.

   Extract from d’jak Grigor’ej Trusov’s books of leases from 15 May 1605, in which the location of the lake is described: beyond Lake Il’men’ by the river Volchov. Narmackoj had been granted fishing rights to the lake for four years from 1605, subject to a rent of 13 altyn and 2 den'gi and a duty of 4 den'gi. This money had not been paid to the state treasury. No fishing had been possible, as the people on the farm had died of the plague and robbers had been at large.

Decision to grant the fishing rights at the same rent, on account of the misfortunes suffered.

2. Nečaj Bolšakov, a townsman of Novgorod the Great, applies for a lease of tax-farming rights (otkup) for the year 1612/13, relating to duties (paddle pošliny) on fishing in Lake Il'men' and its tributaries.

Extract from the revenue books of d'jak Semen Lutochin dated 31 August 1611, showing the duties on this fishery collected for the state treasury in 1610/11 and 1611/12. Surety bond for Bolšakov.

Decision to grant the lease to Bolšakov.

Extract from Grigorej Volynskoj’s cadastres for 1564, giving particulars of hay meadows by the Volchov and at a number of monasteries, including the Jur’ev Monastery, and the sums charged in rent.

Several similar petitions for haymaking leases.

4. Petition from Stepanko Kuzikov to lease the right to cultivate spring-sown grain in 1612/13.

Extract from Prince Vasilej Zvenigorodskoj’s cadastres for 1584, giving particulars of cultivated areas and leases in the village of Tesovo. Surety bond for Kuzikov dated 1 April 1613.

5. Gubnoj starosta Ivan Puškin of Vodskaja pjatina, Korel’skaja polovina, applies for the right to sow spring-sown grain in 1613 and rye for 1614 in pustoši in the village of Navoloko. Surety bond for Puškin.

Extract from the cadastres of Dmitrej Kitaev and Mikita Guba Moklokov for 1500, giving particulars of rye and hay harvests in the village of Navoloko by the Volchov, in Ladožskoj nezd, Gorodenskoj pogost.

Transcript of an “immunity charter” (l’gotnaja gramota) issued on 30 December 1587 to Igumen Iona and the monk Varlam at the Duchov Monastery, exempting the monastery from taxes on pustoši in the village of Navoloko in Michajlovskoj pogost for ten years, from 1587 to 1597. After that, a rent was to be charged, depending on the crop and the type of land. The land was cultivated by the monastery from 1597 until 1610, but has since been left untilled.

Decision to grant Puškin the lease.

6. Petition from Igumen Varlam at the Michajlo-Klopskij Monastery, seeking permission to build a farm by the Ilovskoj stream, on a vacant piece of new farmland belonging to the village of Trjasovo. A farm previously belonging to the monastery was destroyed by the great spring flood of 1612, and crops can no longer be grown there.
Extracts from Vasilej Zvenigorodeckoj’s cadastres for the village of Trjasovo from 1584 and from the census books (perepisnye knigi) of undersecretary Grigor’ej Mikulin from 1606.

Decision granting permission to build a farm, tend the forest and build an enclosure.

2. Instructions to d’jak Pjatoj Grigor’ev concerning a requisition of food in Obonežskaja and Derevskapjatiny. 30 June 1612.
3. Petition to the boyars from Treška Jur’ev of Cholovskoj pogost, Derevska pjatina, a peasant of the Spaso-Chutynskij Monastery. He complains that this year, 1611/12, various troops have passed to and fro through the area, seizing food and forage. These requisitions have been on top of the usual levies. At the same time, the peasants in the pogosts have been unable to avoid a range of impositions.

Instructions to Ivan Birjulev to look into the complaints. 3 June 1612. Draft.

4. Petition to the boyars from Kuzemka Nikitin of Morozovskoj pogost, Obonežskaja pjatina, a peasant of the Spaso-Chutynskij Monastery. He makes complaints against a large number of named individuals, who have themselves complained in a petition to the boyars about excessive requisitions for Swedish troops, Cossacks and Lithuanian soldiers, and about other peasants in neighbouring pogosts avoiding such impositions. This claim is denied, and detailed examples are provided. (Sheet 6.)

Instructions to Ivan Birjulev also to look into these complaints. 3 June 1612. Draft.

5. Two reports from under-secretary Grigorej Ivanov, who has visited various pogosts in Vodskaja pjatina, Polužskaja polovina, and questioned priests and peasants about the Lithuanian troops that have passed through the area in the direction of Kopor’e. 16–19 July 1612.

6. Instructions to the Swede Matfej Lavrev (?) and Vasilej Lavšin, who are to go to Šelonskaja pjatina, Zarusskaja polovina, and investigate whether Swedish troops have set up camp in the area and, if so, what they have taken from the peasants for their support. July 1612 (no day of month). Draft. (Sheet 13.)
8. Letter to King Karl IX and the boyars from Hans Munk, Vasilej Npljuev and Vasilej Zmiev, providing information on troop movements around Kargopol’ and Beloe ozero, on cooperation between the Swedes and Russians against the Poles, and on requisitions of provisions. The letter was handed in on 7 July 1612.
9. Petition to the boyars from Ivaško Matfeev of Vodskaja pyatina, complaining that Lithuanian soldiers had passed through the area and seized provisions. Instructions from the boyars to under-secretary Grigorej Ivanov, dated 12 July 1612, directing him to go to the area and investigate the matter.

11. Four similar documents concerning requisitions.
12. Letter to the boyars and the d’jaki Semen Michajlovič and Ondrej Kostjantinovič from Borisko Unkovskoj, gubnoj starosta in Nagornaja polovina, Obonežskaja pyatina. He is having difficulty carrying out the ordered requisitions on time, partly because the pogosts are far apart and because only one zemskoj djaček is available. Handed in on 11 July 1612.
13. Letter to the boyars from Dem’janko Aprelev and Pavelko Chanykov, reporting that the peasants in the pogosts of Zaoneže are refusing to hand over any provisions.
14. Examination of Narbekov regarding the mission entrusted to him.

Petition to the boyars from Jakuško Trofemov and other peasants in Ustreckaja volost’. In June (1612), Lithuanians came to the area and laid it waste, and there are no stores of food left at all. (Sheets 59–60.)
15. Petition from Igumen Deonisej of the Otnja Pustyn’ Monastery, giving a detailed account of the food requisitioned by Evert Horn and his troops from the monastery’s estates in Mytenskoj and Morozovskoj pogosts this year, 1611/12. He wants the peasants to be spared any further requisitions. Instructions from the boyars, dated 28 April, granting the petition. Followed by three similar petitions.
16. Petition to the boyars from the Swede Markus Kosifrov. By order of the voevody of Ladoga, Hans Reckenberg and Vasilej Butorlin, he is collecting taxes in Obonežskaja pyatina. In Nikol’skoi pogost the peasants are claiming that De la Gardie and Odoevskij have granted them special remission of taxes, but they have refused to produce a letter proving this.

(Sheet 69.)

17. Document concerning taxes and other levies from the Ontonov Monastery and elsewhere.

18. Surety bond. Eight crown peasants in Lipenskaja volost’ stand surety before Parfenej Narbekov that the sworn man Fedor Levontiev will make ready a boat and 22 wagons (koleso) for the use of the state in Ustreckoj stan.

19. Petition to the boyars from the Swede Markus Kosifrov, who is collecting taxes in Obonežskaja pjadina. On 29 April 1612, Igumen Deonisij of the Otenskij Monastery handed him a charter from the boyars of Novgorod the Great granting the monastery’s peasants remission of taxes corresponding to the requisitions made by Swedish troops for their support. Now Kosifrov fears that he will fall into disfavour in Ladoga, as the monastery’s estates used to provide a great deal of revenue.

20. Fragment (one sheet) of a land grant application. Bogdan Ododurov is allocated the dower estate of the widow Ovodot’ja in Vodskaja pjadina. Ovodot’ja is the widow of Ivan Krasnoslepov.

Notes
Vasilej Buturlin and Hans Reckenberg were voevody of Ladoga in 1612.
On sheet 82 the year is given according to the Christian era.

3. Decision of the boyars, dated 16 June 1612, to requisition provisions for the boyars’ households and the Swedish soldiers in Novgorod the Great from Obonežskaja pjatina, Nagornaja polovina. 4. Petitions, instructions and reports relating to requisitions and oppressive taxation. For example:

Instructions from the boyars to Ivan Tolmačev to go to Vodskaja pjatina to requisition provisions for 300 Lithuanian soldiers, who have promised to serve Grand Prince Karl Filip. Their mission is to fight against the “thieves” at Kopor’e, and it is stated exactly which route they are to take. The instructions provide arguments that can be used to persuade the peasants to support these troops voluntarily. Draft. 6 June 1612. (Sheet 16.)

Two reports to the boyars and the d’jaki Lutochin and Lyscov from Borisko Unkovskoj and Ofonka Boranov, gubnye starosti in Obonežskaja pjatina, Nagornaja polovina, concerning the collection of taxes. (Cf. item 3 above.) Among other things, they report how, for fear of the Lithuanians, two sworn men and zemskoj d’jaček Ušačko Semenov fled to Tichvin and hid 48 roubles in a box in the bell tower at the monastery, which the Lithuanians later plundered.

Report to the boyars from Družina Oničkov. He had been instructed to travel along the road to Pskov to meet the Scottish troops and order them to encamp at Pšaga. He was then to arrange for supplies for them from Vodskaja and Šelonskaja pjatiny. When he met the troops on 14 August, they refused to obey his order, saying that their captain had gone by boat to Novgorod the Great and commanded them to march after him to the city. Oničkov now wants instructions as to how these troops are to be maintained. (Sheets 47–48.)

Instructions from the boyars to under-secretary Michail Kudrjadcov, dated 13 August 1612. He is to travel along the Bel’skaja doroga (road) until he meets the envoys of the Novgorod State (Igumen Gennadej of the Vjažickij Monastery, Prince Fedor Černoj Obolenskij, the estate owner Smirnoj Otrep'ev and their attendants) and the envoys of the Moscow State (Perfirej Sekerin and his attendants), and to make arrangements for their support. (Sheet 69.)

Letter from the boyars to Stepan Teplev, stating that Prince Fedor Obołenskoj, who has been sent to Jaroslavl', has applied for an allocation of food for his wife Maria, his son and his servants, who have remained in Novgorod the Great, and that this has been arranged. 3 June 1612 (dated according to the Christian era).

Petition to the boyars from the boyars’ sons in Obonežskaja pjatina, Nagornaja polovina, complaining that they are being forced to pay taxes to both Novgorod the Great and Ladoga, despite the boyars’ decision to the contrary. Instructions on the matter from the boyars to Vasilej Buturlin, voevoda of Ladoga. 18 June 1612 (dated according to the Christian era). (Sheets 86–87.)

Long petition to the boyars from the peasant Fët'ko Rodivonov and other peasants in the village of Bobrovo, Ljatckoj pogost, with a detailed account of oppressive taxes and other levies (sheet 107; instructions follow on sheet 111).

Instructions to the inhabitants of Staraja Russa and the surrounding area, dated 26 January 1612. Prince Ondrej Kostjantinovič Schovskoj, gost’ Istoma Demidov and under-secretary Ždan Medvedev have been sent to the town in the service of the state, and instructions are given as to what food is to be supplied to them daily. Draft.

Among other things, he is preventing starosty and sworn men from appearing in Staraja Russa and taking orders from Šachovskoj. The inspection of the pogosts in Starorusskoj uezd was ordered by De la Gardie and Odoevskij. (Sheets 1–8.) Jafimko Vasil’ev, nikol’skoj d’jaček in Čertickoj pogost, acted as scribe.

2. Two similar reports from Ramyševskoj pogost, dated 15 and 16 March 1612. The same individuals officiated as above. Gavrılka Semenov and Danilko Vasil’ev, nikol’skie d’jački in Ramyševskoj pogost, acted as scribes.

Sheets  59

Year(s)  1611, 1612

Area(s)  Staraja Russa. Starorusskoj uezd. Derevskaja pjatina.

Summary
1. Instructions from Pjatoj Grigor’ev to Garasim Murav’ev and Tomilo Sergeev to report to the Dvorcovoj prikaz, without delay, rents and other revenues from the town of Staraja Russa and the eleven surrounding pogosts for the years 1608/09 to 1611/12, as the relevant accounts are missing. 6 November 1611. Draft.

Report from Luka Miloslavskoj in response to these instructions, referring to an inspection in progress in the area.

Instructions from Pjatoj Grigor’ev to Miloslavskoj to ensure that the inspection is completed as soon as possible. Draft.

2. Instructions and reports on requisitions for Swedish troops, e.g. from Timofej Tyrtov, referring to difficulties requisitioning provisions in Korostynskoj, Burežskoj and other pogosts.

Report to Pjatoj Grigor’ev from Murav’ev and Sergeev, stating the quantities of provisions which Colonel Robert Moor, who arrived in Staraja Russa on 8 January (no year), is entitled to in the course of a month. They complain that Moor is requisitioning too much beer and vodka (vino), reducing the revenue from the tavern. It is from this revenue that Ivan Šipelov’s 90 strel’cy are to be paid, at a rate of 1 altyn per man per day. (Sheet 16.)

3. A list of differences between the inspections carried out by Luka Miloslavskoj and Oleksej Bezobrazov, and another list showing the quantities of provisions supplied to Novgorod the Great (sheets 18–21).

4. Several letters to Pjatoj Grigor’ev from Garasim Murav’ev and Tomilo Sergeev. They include criticisms of the lists prepared by Luka Miloslavskoj and Ždan Medvedev, and reports on where the Lithuanians have encamped and what provisions are needed to maintain Colonel Robert Moor and his 144 soldiers. Further complaints about the quantities of strong drink these men seem to need. In addition, the writers turn down a request to assist Timofej Tyrtov with requisitions for the Swedish soldiers, as they have no under-secretaries or rossyl’ščiki to spare. Nor can they send any money to Novgorod the Great, as the Lithuanians are ravaging the countryside and the only money available in the town is the revenue from the tavern, which is being used for food and pay for the strel’cy. However, food for the households of the boyars and the cavalry captains and chancellery staff has been requisitioned without mercy, on the basis of Luka Miloslavskoj’s new inspection. 5–19 January 1612. (Sheets 22–31.)

5. Extracts from the land parcelling books of Grigorej Nečaev, Putilo Košickoj and Grigorej Charlamov, all for 1611/12, from Derevskaïa and Šelonskaïa pjatiny. The following individuals are allocated land: Vasilej Vyšeslavskoj, Nikita Odoevskij, Timofej Tyrtov, Fedor Nekljudov, Pjatoj Grigor’ev, Parfenej Elagin and Ivan Mešcerskoj. (Sheets 32–41.)

6. Two petitions from the peasants of Čertickaja volost’, Starorusskoj prisud. Ivan Zabelin and Siman Blaženkov requisitioned provisions here, and then Michajla Timofeev arrived with four Swedish soldiers and plundered the area. The peasants want the quantities of provisions they have to supply each month to be determined. Čertickoj pogost is close to the Swedes’ camp at Verjaža and, what is more, there are three roads passing through it, with soldiers constantly on the move along them. Instructions from the boyars, dated January 1612 (no day of month). Draft.

7. Instructions from Pjatoj Grigor’ev to Garasim Murav’ev and Tomilo Sergeev. They have been ordered several times to send food for the households of De la Gardie, the cavalry captains and the chancellery staff. They have not yet complied, but must do so without delay. They have also failed to send a list of the taxes levied from nine pogosts this year, 1611/12. In addition, instructions are given concerning provisions for Swedish soldiers. Draft.

8. Report to Pjatoj Grigor’ev from Luka Miloslavskoj on his inspection of the pogosts around Staraja Russa and on the collection of rents on the basis of the new inspection. Owing to the ravages of the Lithuanians, it is impossible to inspect Dolžinskoj, Ofremovskoj and Losskoj pogosts. Report handed in on 6 January 1612.

They ask to be exempted from requisitions, as the whole pogost has been grievously ravaged by “thieves” and Lithuanian soldiers. Summary Statement (pravda) by Igumen’ja Efrosin’ja and the nun Dalida, who said that Ogať’ja, Boris’s wife, had come to the Pjatnickij Devičij Convent just after Epiphany 6 January 1610 to collect a pledge deposited with the nun Ole-na, known as “Goat Head”. Olena had only given Ogať’ja a dark red cloth, and not the pledge. Ogať’ja blamed Olena for the disappearance of the pledge, but Olena claimed that she had kept it as safe as possible, but that it had been stolen. (Sheets 1–3.) 29 January.
Statement by strelec Griša Utešov under oath in the name of Tsar Vasilij Ivanovič. Griša had left his caftan with Olena as a pledge. Together with his wife, he had collected it from her just before Christmas. He did not know when Olena had sued the priest Vasilej. (Sheet 4.) 10 February.

Agaf'ja said that she had been unable to recover the property she had deposited with Olena. Olena claimed that the property had been stolen from her and that Agaf'ja must settle accounts for it with the priest Vasilej. (Sheet 5.) 21 February 1610.

Judgment of Judge Ivan Lenin, upholding the claim of the plaintiff, the nun Elena, against the defendant Vasilej, priest of the Church of St Elias in Suchničiči, regarding the theft of 22½ roubles from her cell. Elena had accused him of stealing a fur coat, which she had seen him wearing in the presence of many witnesses. Vasilej admitted his guilt and said that he had sold the coat in the market. The nun Iraida confirmed this. Vasilej was also convicted of previously having robbed a shop. According to the testimony of several witnesses, he had stolen firewood, as well as objects from a knapsack. Vasilej claimed that he had been slandered. He appealed to his uncle Kondrat Rybolov, but got no support from him. The defendants, the priest Vasilej and his “brothers” Stepan and Ondrjuška, were together ordered to pay 22½ roubles. In addition, they were convicted of earlier offences. Elena alleged that Vasilej and his brothers had stolen saddle-cloths from the boyar’s son Fedor Jazykov from Smolensk. They had also stolen a millstone, pigs and bowls. From his friend Michail, priest of the Church of St Elias, Vasilej had stolen two millstones, buckwheat from his stores, two horses, three pigs, and clothes, as well as removing five swarms of bees. The priest Michail had collected the stolen property from Vasilej’s house. Together with his brothers, Vasilej had burned Michail’s rye and oats and the entire barn. (Sheets 6–10.) 6 March 1610.

Signed on the reverse, across the joins, with the skrepa of Ivan Lenin.

On the verso of sheet 7, a few words in Polish.

Notes
Judging from the context, there are a number of sheets missing before sheet 1.

This roll probably belongs to the “Smolensk Archives” of the National Archives of Sweden, and has been incorporated in the Novgorod Occupation Archives by mistake.

(II:365)

This roll does not belong to the Novgorod Occupation Archives. It comprises 14 sheets and contains the Cyrillic alphabet, “Russische Alphabet”, with

Summary
Petition to De la Gardie from Stepan Igolkin’s widow Ustin’ja. She asks for help, as she has been left alone with her children and is heavily indebted. She refers to a loan which Jakob De la Gardie raised from Stepan Igolkin, and which has not been fully repaid. The petition was probably written by Vasilej Trusov.

Receipt in Stepan Igolkin’s own hand, acknowledging that he has received 400 Swedish daler from Erik Andersson as part payment of the loan. 20 February 1612. Åbo? A red seal, probably Igolkin’s.

Receipt in Stepan Igolkin’s own hand, acknowledging that he has received 200 Swedish daler at the office of d’jak Ondrej Ivanov in Viborg, in accordance with a letter from De la Gardie. 1 September 1613.

Receipt in Vasilej Trusov’s own hand, acknowledging that he has been given 10 roubles by Jakob Puntosovič to hand to Stepan Igolkin’s widow. On the reverse, text in Swedish giving the same information: “Wassilis Trässofs bewijs opå dhe 10 Rubler han opå Igolekkins wegne af h:nde undfanget hafwer” (“Vasilej Trusov’s receipt for the 10 roubles he has received on Igolkin’s behalf”).

Notes
On sheet 2 there is a red seal, probably that of Stepan Igolkin.

The sheets are contained in an envelope, in which there is also a transcript of the texts, probably from the 19th century, and a translation into Swedish.

There are also a few notes from the 19th century, which according to Ingvar Kalnin’s annotation were previously in I:136; and a smaller envelope containing very small fragments of text from the restored rolls II:359–364.
Receipts for sums disbursed. Record of an examination.

Year(s) 1612–1614

Area(s) Novgorod the Great. Staraja Russa.

Summary

1. Receipt (ropisnaja pamjat’) for a sum of 768 roubles, 4 altyn and 4½ den’gi, which by order of the boyars was collected from the treasury at the Dvorcovoj prikaz in the presence of the d’jak Semen Lutochin, Tret’jak Kopnin and Pjatoj Grigor’ev. The money had been collected from the crown villages of Novgorod for provisions for the Swedish troops. A receipt (otpis’) was obtained from under-secretary Jurej Tomasov. 2 September 1612. Seal of Novgorod the Great.

On the reverse (1v), the document is signed by Pjatoj Grigor’ev and attested by under-secretary Ondrjuška Beloj, and there is a summary of the contents in Swedish.

Receipt for 622 roubles which, by order of the boyars, was taken from the Novgorod treasury by d’jak Semen Lutochin for the Swedish soldiers’ pay and handed to under-secretary Jurej Tomasov, who gave a receipt for this sum. 10 April 1613. Signed by Semen Lutochin. On the reverse (2v), a summary of the contents in Swedish.

2. Report: On 5 October 1614, Captain Franz Dücker instructed the voevoda Prince Ondrej Šachovskoj and under-secretary Fedor Vitoftov to question Rodionko Michajlov, a sworn man at the tavern in Staraja Russa, about how much grain and money he had received from Dücker in 1613/14 and what he had used the money for. Michajlov explains what he bought and stored in the granary at the fortress. When the Swedish troops under the banner of Klaus Kresterson left Staraja Russa for Novgorod the Great, they took some of the stored grain with them in a boat, which later sank. The remaining stores were lost in a fire. He also reports how much beer was brewed at the tavern. The document is signed by under-secretary Fedor Vitoftov and bears the seal of Prince Andrej Kostjantinovič Šachovskoj. On the verso of this sheet, text in German.

Principles applied in the catalogue entries and indexes

The principles set out here are in addition to those described in Part 1 of the catalogue.

Contents
If a roll deals with several unrelated items of business, the references to them here are separated by full stops.

Area(s)
3. Details of the pjatina are always derived from the manuscript. Sometimes, however, this information does not tally with the known location of the pogost.
4. The names given here are those of the places where the events described occur. However, other geographical names may also be found in the summary.

Summary
5. If the roll deals with several unrelated items of business, each item is given a separate number.
6. Personal and geographical names are written as they appear in the original documents. Consequently, the spelling of any given name may vary.

Index of content headings
1. Content headings are provided by the authors of the catalogue (unlike in Series I, where there is generally a heading in the Russian original).
2. The headings are intended as far as possible to reflect the subject matter of the rolls. For reasons of space, large rolls have often been given more general, outline headings than short ones.
3. Singular forms of the main words of headings are listed before the plural forms. Exceptions are headwords such as Order(s) and Petition(s).

Geographical indexes and indexes of churches and monasteries
1. These indexes are confined to names mentioned in the summaries.
2. Standardized forms of names found in the scholarly literature are listed as the main variants if they appear in the Occupation Archives. Other variants occurring are given in parentheses.
3. Standardized forms not found in the Occupation Archives are not included in the indexes; instead, the variant phonetically closest to the standard form is chosen as the headword. This is the case with the standard form Burjažskoj pogost, for example: in the Occupation Archives, only Burežskoj, Borežskoj, Bureskoj and Burečkoj pogost occur. The headword used in the index is Burežskoj pogost.

4. Variants diverging more markedly from the main form of a name are given separate entries, cross-referred to the main form.

5. As far as possible, the index of geographical names distinguishes between different pogosts with the same name. Two examples are Petrovskoj and Kolomenskoj pogosts. Sometimes, however, insufficient information is available to permit a definite identification. Consequently, in a few cases, different pogosts may end up in the same entry. More specific information included in the index, but not appearing in summaries, is given in square brackets.

6. Many, but by no means all, pogosts appear in the Occupation Archives under “double-barrelled” names: a place-name preceded by a name associated with the church of the pogost, e.g. Il’inskoj Tigodskoj pogost. In such cases, the simple form (here, Tigodskoj pogost) usually provides the headword for the main entry, with a cross-reference from the double-barrelled form (here, Il’inskoj Tigodskoj pogost, under the letter “I”).

7. If the location of a particular church is indicated in the summary, this information is included in the index of churches.

8. Numerous d’jački are mentioned in the summaries, and it is generally stated which church they are associated with. These churches are not included in the index of churches.

Index of personal names

1. This index is confined to personal names mentioned in the summaries.

2. Personal names are listed with the Old Russian endings -oj, -ej (Pjatoj, Vasilej), unless they refer to historically well-known individuals (e.g. Tsar Vasilij Šujskij).

3. Occupational designations are treated as surnames, e.g. Krasil’ščik.

4. In principle, all personal names are listed in the same way, regardless of the social status of the individual concerned. Entries thus begin with the hereditary family name (Murav’ev) or, if there is no such name, the patronymic (Ivanov) or occupational designation (Sapožnik). Here, all of these types of names are referred to as “surnames”.

5. First names are used as headwords only if no other name appears in the text. This does not apply in the case of women, however, who are usually referred to as someone’s widow, wife or daughter. Women are always listed under their first name.

6. Tsars and tsaritsas are listed under their first name (Tšar Vasilij Ivanovič, headword Vasilij).

7. If an individual is referred to in the documents by both the full and the familiar form of his or her first name, the familiar form (or forms) will be given in parentheses after the full name. Similarly, variants of a surname are given in parentheses after the main form.

8. Variants diverging more markedly from the main form of a name are given separate entries, cross-referred to the main form, e.g. Resnicyn-Rjasnicyn, Gričkov-Aničkov.

9. As far as possible, the index distinguishes between different individuals with the same name. If the name includes a patronymic, it most likely refers to one and the same person: e.g. Vasilej Leont’ev syn Zenov’ev. However, the name Vasilej Matfeev syn Zenov’ev also appears in the Archives, and several documents refer simply to Vasilej Zenov’ev. In such cases, it cannot be ruled out that several different individuals may end up in the same entry. On occasion, an index entry may include a patronymic as well as a first name, even though the patronymic does not appear in the summary. In such cases, the individual concerned has been identified with the help of Dr Adrian Selin’s extensive database, “Novgorodcy konca XVI – načala XVII vv”, which he has kindly placed at our disposal.

10. A name given in square brackets is not a variant occurring in the text, but a correct (often non-Russian) name form: e.g. Meller [Möller] Fredrik. If there is no record of the name and its reconstruction is therefore uncertain, this is indicated by a question mark.

11. Under the heading “Description”, information is given about the function(s) or position of the person concerned, where this is indicated in the summaries. If no exact equivalent exists in English, the Russian term is given. Such expressions are explained in the Glossary.

12. A person may be described as a “landowner” even if he has no land at his disposal. What is important here is that he belongs to the social class (služilye ljudi) who are entitled to hold land, and that this is indicated in the summary.

13. An “official” is a person in authority who, generally together with an under-secretary, has been appointed to carry out an official assignment.

14. When it is stated in the summaries which chancellery an under-secretary works at, this information is included in the index, under “Description”.

15. A d’jaček nearly always serves as a scribe, and this is therefore not specifically pointed out under “Description”.

16. Softness and the phoneme /j/ are represented in an etymologically correct manner. Softness is indicated by an apostrophe (’).

17. A question mark in parentheses (?) after a name means that either the reading of the name in the manuscript or its identification with an individual known from other sources is uncertain.
Subject index
This index lists a selection of words found in the summaries, referring for example to objects, foodstuffs, animals, institutions, occupations and other categories of people, administrative terms, units of measurement, and duties and other levies.

Words occurring more than 80 times are marked passim. An exception is made for “women”, which occurs more frequently.

It should be noted that a particular word may be used repeatedly in a given document without being included in the summary of that document. A case in point is the unit of area obža, which appears only in summaries referring to Series II. The same word, however, is found on virtually every page of the many inspection books in Series I.

Sample texts
The sample texts on pp. 445 ff. follow the same principles as the extracts in the first volume of the catalogue.
Glossary

Bibliography

This bibliography is limited to works using source material from the Occupation Archives, most of them published after 2004. For earlier publications, see Volume I of this Catalogue. (A few earlier works missing from Volume I are also included here.)

- “Chantryes Where No Clerks Sing’: On the Russianness of Bayors of Ingria, 1617–1704” [forthcoming in Slavistica Vilnensis 54 (new publishing data as compared to the bibliography in Volume 1), 45 pp.].

Preserved in the National Archives of Sweden is a large collection of Russian documents from the early seventeenth century – the Novgorod Occupation Archives. This material has long attracted the interest of Russian and Swedish scholars alike, but the lack of a comprehensive catalogue has prevented its wider use. At an international symposium in Novgorod in 1993, the question was raised of how the Occupation Archives might be made more accessible. Two years later, the project Novgorodiana Stockholmiensia was launched, involving the National Archives of Sweden, the Slavic languages departments of Stockholm, Uppsala and Lund Universities, and the Russian Academy of Sciences. The aim was to compile a complete scholarly catalogue of the Occupation Archives. In 2005 the first volume was published, listing and describing the 141 books which the Archives include. The present volume is the second and final part of the catalogue, covering the 368 rolls of the Archives. In addition, it describes ten documents which in subject matter are linked to the Occupation Archives, but which for unknown reasons are to be found in other collections in the National Archives of Sweden.

The original documents of the Novgorod Occupation Archives can be accessed on the Swedish Archive Information website www.svar.ra.se
